PREFACE

It is now just thirty years since one day his young assistant suggested to Dr. John A. Broadus that he prepare a harmony of the Gospels that should depart from the old plan of following the feasts as the turning points in the life of Jesus. He acted on the hint and led the way that all modern harmonies have followed. The book has gone through a dozen large editions and has become the standard harmony for many thousands of students all over the world. Broadus was concerned to bring out "the inner movements of the history, towards that long-delayed, but foreseen and inevitable collision, in which, beyond all other instances, the wrath of man was made to praise God." This he succeeded in doing with marvelous power.

A generation has passed by and it is meet that the work of Broadus should be reviewed in the light of modern synoptic criticism and research into every phase of the life of Christ. So I have made a new analysis that preserves Broadus's real purpose, but with new sections and new notes. The notes at the end of the old volume, written by me for the first edition, have been thoroughly revised and brought up to date. The Old Testament passages referred to in the Gospels are given in the text. The Gospel of Mark appears in the first column, then Matthew, Luke, and John. It is now known that Matthew and Luke made use of Mark for the framework of their Gospels. This change simplifies amazingly the unfolding of the narrative.

There is still dispute concerning the historical worth of the Gospel of John, but the Johannine authorship is not disproved. It still holds the field in my opinion. Dr. C. F. Burney's theory of an Aramaic original is already giving a new turn to Johannine criticism.

A harmony of the Gospels cannot meet every phase of modern criticism. The data are given, as free from bias as circumstances allow, so that all students can use the book and interpret the facts according to their various theories. Numerous historical items call for notes of various kinds that throw light on the passage in question. No effort is made to reconcile all the divergent statements of various details in the different Gospels. The differences challenge the student's interest as much as the correspondences and are natural marks of individual work. The notes and appendices at the end of the volume are meant for students who wish help for historical study of the life of Christ. A harmony cannot give all the aid that one needs, but it is the one essential book for the serious study of the life of Jesus. Students in colleges, theological seminaries, Young Men's Christian Association and Young Women's Christian Association classes, Sunday School teachers and pupils, preachers, all who read the Gospels intelligently must have a modern harmony of the Gospels. One who has never read a harmony will be amazed at the flood of light that flashes from the parallel and progressive records of the life of Jesus Christ.

Broadus began teaching the life of Jesus in 1859 and kept it up till his death in 1895. I began like work in 1888 and have kept on without a break till now. I count it one of the crowning mercies of my life that I have led so many successive classes of young ministers and young women (some five thousand in all) through the study of Christ's life. If only one can pass on to others in all their freshness and power the teachings of Jesus, he cannot fail. There was a time when men hung in wonder upon the words of Jesus, listening with awe and rapture as he spoke. The Figure of Christ fills the world today as never before. Back to Christ the world has come, the Christ of Faith and of Experience, the Jesus of History, the Man of Galilee, the Hope of Today, the Jesus Christ of the Four Gospels, in the full blaze of modern critical and historical study.

NOTE:--The verses that are omitted in the Canterbury Revision do not appear in this Harmony. They are Mark 7:16; 9:44, 46; 11:26; 15:28; Matthew 17:21; 18:11; 23:14; Luke 17:36; 23:17; John 5:4.

In addition to the Gospels use is made of Acts 1:3-8 in Sect. 183. Acts 1:9-12 in Sect. 184. Acts 1:18-19 in Sect. 158. 1 Cor. 11:23-26 in Sect. 148. 1 Cor. 15:5 in Sect. 177. 1 Cor. 15:5 in Sect. 179. 1 Cor. 15:6 in Sect. 181. 1 Cor. 15:7 in Sect. 182.

A HARMONY OF THE GOSPELS FOR STUDENTS OF THE LIFE OF CHRIST

PART I

THE SOURCES OF THE GOSPELS

Sect. 1. IN THE DEDICATION LUKE EXPLAINS HIS METHOD OF RESEARCH[a]

Luke 1:1-4

1 Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to draw up a narrative concerning those matters which have been [1]fulfilled among us, 2 even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning were 3 eyewitnesses and ministers of the word, it seemed good to me also, having traced the course of all things accurately from the first, 4 to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus;[b] that thou mightest know the certainty concerning the [2]things [3]wherein thou wast instructed.

[Footnote 1: Or, _fully establish_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _words_.]

[Footnote 3: Or, _which thou wast taught by word of mouth_.]

[Footnote a: Luke is the first critic of the life of Christ whose criticism has been preserved to us. Others had drawn up narratives of certain portions of Christ's work. Others still had been eyewitnesses of the ministry of Jesus and gave Luke their oral testimony. Luke sifted it all with care and produced an orderly and reasonably full narrative of the earthly ministry of Jesus. We cannot reproduce all the sources that Luke had at his command, but it is clear that he followed in the main our Gospel of Mark, as any one can see for himself by comparing the two Gospels in this Harmony. Both Matthew and Luke made use of Mark. But they had other sources also. See note 2 on Synoptic Criticism at the close of the Harmony. See also Chapter IV, "Luke's Method of Research" in my _Luke the Historian in the Light of Research_.]

[Footnote b: Luke alone follows the method of ancient historians in dedicating his Gospel, as also the Acts (1:1), to a patron who probably met the expense of publication. So Luke as a Gentile Christian writes an historical introduction in literary (_Koine_) Greek after the fashion of Thucydides and Plutarch. Mark had no formal introduction. Matthew's introduction is genealogical because he is writing for Jewish readers to prove that Jesus is the Messiah of Jewish hope. John, writing last of all, has a theological introduction to meet the Gnostic and philosophical misconceptions concerning the Person of Christ. Thus he pictures Christ as the Eternal Logos, with God in his pre-incarnate state, who became flesh and thus revealed the Father to men.]

PART II

THE PRE-EXISTENT STATE OF CHRIST AND HIS INCARNATION

Sect. 2. IN HIS INTRODUCTION JOHN PICTURES CHRIST AS THE WORD (LOGOS)

John 1:1-18

1 In the beginning was the Word,[a] and the Word was with God, and 2 the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All 3 things were made [1]by him; and without him [2]was not anything 4 made that hath been made. In him was life; and the life was the 5 light of men. And the light shineth in the darkness; and the 6 darkness [3]apprehended it not. There came a man, sent from God, 7 whose name was John. The same came for witness, that he might bear 8 witness of the light, that all might believe through him. He was not the light, but _came_ that he might bear witness of the light. 9 [4]There was the true light, _even the light_ which lighteth 10 [5]every man, coming into the world. He was in the world, and the 11 world was made [1]by him, and the world knew him not. He came unto 12 [6]his own, and they that were his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he the right to become children 13 of God, _even_ to them that believe on his name: which were [7]born, not of [8]blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the 14 will of man, but of God. And the Word[a] became flesh, and [9]dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, glory as of [10]the only 15 begotten from the Father), full of grace and truth. John beareth witness of him, and crieth, saying, [11]This was he of whom I said, He that cometh after me is become before me: for he was [12]before 16 me. For of his fulness we all received, and grace for grace. For 17 the law was given [1]by Moses; grace and truth came [1]by Jesus 18 Christ. No man hath seen God at any time; [13]the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared _him_.

[Footnote 1: Or, _through_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _was not anything made. That which hath been made was life in him; and the life &c._]

[Footnote 3: Or, _overcame_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _The true light, which lighteth every man, was coming_.]

[Footnote 5: Or, _every man as he cometh_.]

[Footnote 6: Gr. _his own things_.]

[Footnote 7: Or, _begotten_.]

[Footnote 8: Gr. _bloods_.]

[Footnote 9: Gr. _tabernacled_.]

[Footnote 10: Or, _an only begotten from a father_.]

[Footnote 11: Some ancient authorities read _this was he that said_.]

[Footnote 12: Gr. _first in regard of me_.]

[Footnote 13: Many very ancient authorities read _God only begotten_.]

[Footnote a: The Fourth Gospel makes no further use of the term Logos (Word) for Christ. No other Gospel employs the term, but in 1 John 1:1 we find "the Word of life" in this sense and in Rev. 19:14 we have: "and his name is called the Word of God." The Greek word has a double sense (reason and speech) and John seems to have both ideas in mind (1:18). Christ is the Idea of God and the Expression of God. The Stoics followed Plato in the philosophical use of Logos. Philo took it up and made it familiar to Jewish readers who were already used to the Hebrew _Memra_ (Word) in a personal sense. But John carried the term further than any of his predecessors and placed it on a par with Messiah, Son of God, Son of Man, and other phrases that portray aspects of the Person of Christ. John writes his Gospel to prove the deity of Jesus (John 20:31) against Gnostics (Cerinthian) who denied it, as he wrote his First Epistle (1 John 1:1-4) to prove the humanity of Jesus against Docetic Gnostics who disclaimed it. See note 3 at end of Harmony.]

[Footnote a: This view is not accepted by all scholars, though it is found as early as Eusebius (_Hist. Eccl._ i, 7). See note 5 at end of Harmony.]

[Footnote b: The Sinaitic Syriac, against all the early Greek manuscripts, reads in Matt. 1:16: "But Joseph, to whom the Virgin Mary was betrothed, begat Jesus." This ancient Ebionitic text is followed by Von Soden in his _Griechisches Neues Testament_ and by Moffatt in his _New Translation of the New Testament_, but it is difficult to believe it genuine, for in Matt. 1:18-22 the writer pictures Joseph as on the point of putting Mary away privily. The two reports in the Sinaitic Syriac flatly contradict each other. Those who accept it say that the writer of the Virgin Birth view in 1:18-20 overlooked 1:16 (certainly a serious oversight). It is easier to think that an Ebionitic scribe in copying altered 1:16, but passed by 1:18-20. The Ebionites denied the deity of Jesus. Both Matthew and Luke (1:26-38) give the Virgin Birth of Jesus, but they preserve separate traditions on the subject.]

[Footnote c: Observe that Matthew's three divisions of the genealogy represent three great periods in the history of Israel. See note 5 at end of Harmony for discussion of the differences between the genealogies in Matthew and in Luke.]

PART IV

THE BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD OF THE BAPTIST AND OF JESUS

Probably B.C. 7 to A.D. 7

Sects. 4-19. These sections include the annunciations, the birth, infancy, and childhood of both John and Jesus.

Sect. 4. THE ANNUNCIATION[a] OF THE BIRTH OF THE BAPTIST TO ZACHARIAS

Jerusalem, in the Temple. Probably B.C. 7

Luke 1:5-25[b]

5 There was in the days of Herod, king of Judea, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abijah: and he had a wife of the 6 daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth. And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and 7 ordinances of the Lord blameless. And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren, and they both were _now_ [1]well stricken in years. 8 Now it came to pass, while he executed the priest's office before 9 God in the order of his course, according to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to enter into the [2]temple of the 10 Lord and burn incense. And the whole multitude of the people were 11 praying without at the hour of incense. And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar 12 of incense. And Zacharias was troubled when he saw _him_, and fear 13 fell upon him. But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: because thy supplication is heard, and thy wife Elisabeth shall 14 bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. And thou shalt 15 have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor [3]strong drink [_see Num. 6:3; Judg. 13:4-6; 1 Sam. 1:11_]; and he shall be filled with the [4]Holy Ghost, even from 16 his mother's womb. And many of the children of Israel shall he 17 turn unto the Lord their God. And he shall [5]go before his face in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children [_see Mal. 3:1; 4:5-6_], and the disobedient _to walk_ in the wisdom of the just; to make ready for 18 the Lord a people prepared _for him_. And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife 19 [6]well stricken in years. And the angel answering said unto him, I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God [_see Dan. 8:16; 9:21_]; and I was sent to speak unto thee, and to bring thee these 20 good tidings. And behold, thou shalt be silent and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall come to pass, because thou believedst not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their 21 season. And the people were waiting for Zacharias, and they 22 marvelled [7]while he tarried in the [2]temple. And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the [2]temple: and he continued making signs unto 23 them, and remained dumb. And it came to pass, when the days of his ministration were fulfilled, he departed unto his house. 24 And after these days Elisabeth his wife conceived; and she hid 25 herself five months, saying, Thus hath the Lord done unto me in the days wherein he looked upon _me_, to take away my reproach among men.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _advanced in their days_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _sanctuary_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _sikera_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _Holy Spirit_: and so throughout all the Gospels.]

[Footnote 5: Some ancient authorities read _come nigh before his face_.]

[Footnote 6: Gr. _advanced in her days_.]

[Footnote 7: Or, _at his tarrying_.]

[Footnote a: There are three annunciations: (1) to Zacharias Sect. 4, (2) to Mary Sect. 5, (3) to Joseph Sect. 9. Luke gives the first two and Matthew the third. The Angel Gabriel is named by Luke (1:19, 26), but Matthew simply has "an angel of the Lord" (1:20).]

[Footnote b: It is certain that Luke tells the infancy stories from the standpoint of Mary while Matthew writes from the standpoint of Joseph. Matthew gives the public account while Luke tells the private story from Mary herself (Ramsay, _Was Christ Born at Bethlehem?_ p. 79). Luke could have seen Mary, if still alive, or could have obtained it from one of Mary's circle either orally or in manuscript form. Some scholars even suggest "Gospel of Mary" and even, "Gospel of the Baptist" as a written source for Luke in 1:5-2:52. Sanday (_The Life of Christ in Recent Research_, p. 166) says: "These two chapters--whatever the date at which they were first committed to writing--are essentially the most archaic thing in the whole New Testament." Certainly Luke reveals the use of Aramaic or Hebrew sources by the sudden changes in his style from 1:1-4. Luke, if familiar with the current account as seen in Matthew, apparently felt that he owed it to Mary to record her story of her great experience.]

Sect. 5. THE ANNUNCIATION TO THE VIRGIN MARY OF THE BIRTH OF JESUS

Nazareth. Probably B.C. 7 or 6

Luke 1:26-38

26 Now in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a 27 city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's 28 name was Mary. And he came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that 29 art [1]highly favoured, the Lord _is_ with thee.[2] But she was greatly troubled at the saying, and cast in her mind what manner 30 of salutation this might be. And the angel said unto her, Fear 31 not, Mary: for thou hast found [3]favour with God. And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt 32 call his name JESUS [_see Isa. 7:14_]. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David [_see 2 Sam. 33 7:12-17_]: and he shall reign over the house of Jacob [4]for ever; 34 and of his kingdom there shall be no end. And Mary said unto the 35 angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man? And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee: wherefore also [5]that which [6]is to be born [7]shall be called holy [_see 36 Ex. 13:12_], the Son of God. And behold, Elisabeth thy kinswoman, she also hath conceived a son in her old age: and this is the 37 sixth month with her that [8]was called barren. For no word from 38 God shall be void of power [_see Gen. 18:14_]. And Mary said, Behold, the [9]handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

Sect. 6. THE SONG[a] OF ELISABETH TO MARY UPON HER VISIT

Hill Country of Judea

Luke 1:39-45

39 And Mary arose in these days and went into the hill country with 40 haste, into a city of Judah; and entered into the house of 41 Zacharias and saluted Elisabeth. And it came to pass, when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her 42 womb; and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost; and she lifted up her voice with a loud cry, and said, Blessed _art_ thou among 43 women, and blessed _is_ the fruit of thy womb. And whence is this 44 to me, that the mother of my Lord should come unto me? For behold, when the voice of thy salutation came into mine ears, the babe 45 leaped in my womb for joy. And blessed _is_ she that [1]believed; for there shall be a fulfilment of the things which have been spoken to her from the Lord.

[Footnote 1: Or, _believed that there shall be_.]

[Footnote a: This hymn or psalm springs from the omen to Elisabeth.]

Sect. 7. THE MAGNIFICAT OF MARY

Hill Country of Judea

Luke 1:46-56

46 And Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord [_see 1 Sam. 2:1-10_], 47 And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. 48 For he hath looked upon the low estate of his [1]handmaiden: For behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed [_see 1 Sam 1:11_]. 49 For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; And holy is his name [_see 1 Sam. 2:2_]. 50 And his mercy is unto generations and generations On them that fear him [_see Ps. 103:17_]. 51 He hath shewed strength with his arm; He hath scattered the proud [2]in the imagination of their heart [_see 1 Sam. 2:4; Ps. 89:10_]. 52 He hath put down princes from _their_ thrones, And hath exalted them of low degree [_see Job 5:11; 12:19_]. 53 The hungry he hath filled with good things; And the rich he hath sent empty away [_see Ps. 107:9_]. 54 He hath holpen Israel his servant, That he might remember mercy [_see Isa. 41:8-9_] 55 (As he spake unto our fathers) Toward Abraham and his seed for ever [_see Gen. 17:7; Mic. 7:20_]. 56 And Mary abode with her about three months, and returned unto her house.

Sect. 8. THE BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD OF THE BAPTIST, AND HIS DESERT LIFE

Hill Country of Judea. B.C. 7 or 6

Luke 1:57-80

57 Now Elisabeth's time was fulfilled that she should be delivered; 58 and she brought forth a son. And her neighbours and her kinsfolk heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy toward her; and they 59 rejoiced with her. And it came to pass on the eighth day, that they came to circumcise the child; and they would have called him 60 Zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother answered 61 and said, Not so; but he shall be called John. And they said unto 62 her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name. And 63 they made signs to his father, what he would have him called. And he asked for a writing tablet, and wrote, saying, His name is John. 64 And they marvelled all. And his mouth was opened immediately, and 65 his tongue _loosed_, and he spake, blessing God. And fear came on all that dwelt round about them: and all these sayings were noised 66 abroad throughout all the hill country of Judea. And all that heard them laid them up in their heart, saying, What then shall this child be? For the hand of the Lord was with him. 67 And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying, 68 Blessed _be_ the Lord, the God of Israel; For he hath visited and wrought redemption for his people [_see Ps. 72:18; 111:9_], 69 And hath raised up a horn of salvation for us In the house of his servant David [_see 1 Sam. 2:10; Ps. 18:3_] 70 (As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets which have been since the world began), 71 Salvation from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us [_see Ps. 106:10_]; 72 To shew mercy towards our fathers, And to remember his holy covenant; 73 The oath which he sware unto Abraham our father [_see Gen. 17:7; Lev. 26:42; Ps. 105:8; Mic. 7:20_], 74 To grant unto us that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies Should serve him without fear, 75 In holiness and righteousness before him all our days. 76 Yea and thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Most High: For thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to make ready his ways [_see Mal. 3:1_]; 77 To give knowledge of salvation unto his people In the remission of their sins, 78 Because of the [1]tender mercy of our God, [2]Whereby the dayspring from on high [3]shall visit us [_see Mal. 4:2_], 79 To shine upon them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death; To guide our feet into the way of peace [_see Isa. 8:22; 9:2_]. 80 And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing unto Israel.[a]

Sect. 9. THE ANNUNCIATION TO JOSEPH OF THE BIRTH OF JESUS

Nazareth

Matt. 1:18-25

18 Now the [1]birth [2]of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came 19 together she was found with child of the [3]Holy Ghost. And Joseph her husband, being a righteous man, and not willing to make her a 20 public example, was minded to put her away privily. But when he thought on these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is [4]conceived in 21 her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name JESUS; for it is he that shall save his 22 people from their sins. Now all this is come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, 23 Behold, the virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son [_see Isa. 7:14_], And they shall call his name [5]Immanuel; 24 which is, being interpreted, God with us. And Joseph arose from his sleep, and did as the angel of the Lord commanded him, and 25 took unto him his wife; and knew her not till she had brought forth a son: and he called his name JESUS.

Sect. 10. THE BIRTH OF JESUS

Bethlehem. Probably B.C. 6 or 5

Luke 2:1-7

1 Now it came to pass in those days, there went out a decree from 2 Caesar Augustus, that all the [1]world should be enrolled. This was 3 the first enrolment made when Quirinius was governor of Syria. And 4 all went to enrol themselves, every one to his own city.[a] And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, 5 because he was of the house and family of David; to enrol himself 6 with Mary, who was betrothed to him, being great with child. And it came to pass, while they were there, the days were fulfilled 7 that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son; and she wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _inhabited earth_.]

[Footnote a: Observe how the ruler of the civilized world is unconsciously bringing it about that the Messiah, the son of David, shall be born at Bethlehem, though his mother's home was Nazareth. All the previous history of Rome and of Israel gathers about this manger. As to Quirinius, and as to the probable time of the Saviour's birth, see note 6 at the end of the book. The vindication of Luke's historical statements in these verses is one of the triumphs of modern research, as is shown in that note.]

Sect. 11. THE PRAISE OF THE ANGELS AND THE HOMAGE OF THE SHEPHERDS

Near Bethlehem

Luke 2:8-20

8 And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the 9 field, and keeping [1]watch by night over their flock. And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round 10 about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great 11 joy which shall be to all the people: for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is [2]Christ the 12 Lord. And this _is_ the sign unto you; Ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger. And suddenly 13 there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising[a] God, and saying, 14 Glory to God in the highest, And on earth [3]peace among [4]men in whom he is well pleased. 15 And it came to pass, when the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this [5]thing that is come to pass, which the 16 Lord hath made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found 17 both Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. And when they saw it, they made known concerning the saying which was 18 spoken to them about this child. And all that heard it wondered at 19 the things which were spoken unto them by the shepherds. But Mary 20 kept all these [6]sayings, pondering them in her heart. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken unto them.

Sect. 12. THE CIRCUMCISION OF JESUS

Bethlehem

Luke 2:21

21 And when eight days were fulfilled for circumcising him [_see Gen. 17:12; Lev. 12:3_], his name was called JESUS, which was so called by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

Sect. 13. THE PRESENTATION IN THE TEMPLE WITH THE HOMAGE OF SIMEON AND ANNA

Jerusalem

22 And when the days of their purification according to the law of Moses were fulfilled, they brought him up to Jerusalem, to present 23 him to the Lord (as it is written in the law of the Lord, Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord) 24 [_see Ex. 13:2, 12, 15; Lev. 12:1-8_], and to offer a sacrifice according to that which is said in the law of the Lord, A pair of 25 turtledoves, or two young pigeons. And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and this man was righteous and devout, looking for the consolation of Israel: and the Holy Spirit 26 was upon him. And it had been revealed unto him by the Holy Spirit, that he should not see death, before he had seen the 27 Lord's Christ. And he came in the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, that they might do 28 concerning him after the custom of the law, then he received him into his arms, and blessed God, and said,[a] 29 Now lettest thou thy [1]servant depart, O [2]Lord, According to thy word, in peace; 30 For mine eyes have seen thy salvation [_see Isa. 52:10_], 31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples; 32 A light for [3]revelation to the Gentiles, And the glory of thy people Israel [_see Isa. 42:6; 49:6_]. 33 And his father and his mother were marvelling at the things which 34 were spoken concerning him; and Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this _child_ is set for the falling and rising up of many in Israel; and for a sign which is spoken 35 against; yea and a sword shall pierce through thine own soul; that 36 thoughts out of many hearts may be revealed. And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher (she was [4]of a great age, having lived with a husband seven 37 years from her virginity, and she had been a widow even for fourscore and four years), which departed not from the temple, 38 worshipping with fastings and supplications night and day. And coming up at that very hour she gave thanks unto God, and spake of him to all them that were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem.

[Footnote a: The four New Testament psalms, given by Luke, breathe the atmosphere of Old Testament piety, quite in contrast to the formalism of the Pharisees and yet thoroughly Jewish in background and Christian in sentiment. But it is primitive Christian feeling. Section 7 gives the Magnificat of Mary in response to the song of Elisabeth in Sect. 6. In Sect. 8 we have the _Benedictus_ of Zacharias and in Sect. 13 The _Nunc Dimittis_ of Simeon.]

Sect. 14. MAGI VISIT THE NEW-BORN KING OF THE JEWS

Jerusalem and Bethlehem

Matt. 2:1-12

1 Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, [1]wise men from the east [_see Num. 2 24:17_] came to Jerusalem, saying, [2]Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we saw his star in the east, and are come to 3 worship him. And when Herod the king heard it, he was troubled, and 4 all Jerusalem with him. And gathering together all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the 5 Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judea: for thus it is written [3]by the prophet, 6 And thou Bethlehem, land of Judah, Art in no wise least among the princes of Judah: For out of thee shall come forth a governor [_see Mic. 5:1-2_], Which shall be shepherd of my people Israel. 7 Then Herod privily called the [1]wise men, and learned of them 8 carefully [4]what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search out carefully concerning the young child; and when ye have found _him_, bring me word, that I 9 also may come and worship him. And they, having heard the king, went their way; and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child 10 was. And when they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding 11 great joy. And they came into the house and saw the young child with Mary his mother; and they fell down and worshipped him; and opening their treasures they offered unto him gifts, gold and 12 frankincense and myrrh. And being warned _of God_ in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

Sect. 15. THE CHILD JESUS CARRIED TO EGYPT, AND THE CHILDREN AT BETHLEHEM SLAIN

Probably B.C. 5

Matt. 2:13-18

13 Now when they were departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I tell thee: for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him. 14 And he arose and took the young child and his mother by night, and 15 departed into Egypt; and was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt did I call my son [_see Hos. 11:1_]. 16 Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the [1]wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the male children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the borders thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had carefully 17 learned of the [1]wise men. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken [2]by Jeremiah the prophet, saying [_see Jer. 31:15_], 18 A voice was heard in Ramah, Weeping and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children; And she would not be comforted, because they are not.

Sect. 17. THE CHILDHOOD OF JESUS AT NAZARETH

Probably B.C. 4 to A.D. 7

Luke 2:40

Sect. 18. THE VISIT OF THE BOY JESUS TO JERUSALEM WHEN TWELVE YEARS OLD

Probably A.D. 7 or 8

Luke 2:41-50

41 And his parents went every year to Jerusalem at the feast of the 42 passover [_see Ex. 23:14-17; Deut. 16:1-8_]. And when he was 43 twelve years old, they went up after the custom of the feast; and when they had fulfilled the days, as they were returning, the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and his parents knew it not; 44 but supposing him to be in the company, they went a day's journey; 45 and they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance: and when they found him not, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking for 46 him. And it came to pass, after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the [1]doctors, both hearing them, 47 and asking them questions: and all that heard him were amazed at 48 his understanding and his answers. And when they saw him, they were astonished: and his mother said unto him, [2]Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I sought thee 49 sorrowing. And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? 50 wist ye not that I must be [3]in my Father's house? And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

Sect. 19. THE EIGHTEEN YEARS[a] AT NAZARETH

Probably A.D. 7 to A.D. 26 (or 6 to 25)

Luke 2:51-52

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth; and he was subject unto them: and his mother kept all _these_ [1]sayings in her heart. 52 And Jesus advanced in wisdom and [2]stature, and in [3]favour with God and men [_see 1 Sam. 2:26_].

[Footnote 2: Or, _age_.]

[Footnote 3: Or, _grace_.]

[Footnote a: After the return to Nazareth, we know nothing of Jesus' life at that place beyond the general statements of Luke 2:52, with the knowledge and dispositions indicated in the narrative of Sect. 18 and the fact that he was a carpenter, until he comes forth to be baptized by John, his forerunner. The social and political conditions of this period in Galilee are described by Edersheim, D. Smith, and other writers on the Life of Jesus, and briefly stated in Broadus's Commentary on Matthew, p. 30 f. Dwell on the general statement of Luke 2:52. Other passages throw light on the life in Nazareth as to habits of worship (Luke 4:16), the family group of brothers and sisters (Mark 6:3 = Matt. 13:55 f.), work as carpenter (_ibid._). A helpful book on this obscure period is Ramsay's _The Education of Christ_.]

PART VI

THE BEGINNING OF CHRIST'S PUBLIC MINISTRY

THE YEAR OF OBSCURITY[a]

Probably Part of A.D. 26 and 27

In all parts of the Holy Land (the first Perean Ministry, the first Galilean Ministry, the first Judean Ministry, the first Samaritan Ministry). Sects. 24-36. This early ministry includes the baptism, the temptation, John's witness to Jesus, the first disciples, the first miracle and work in Galilee, the first work in Judea, the arrest of John, the work in Samaria, and the return to Galilee.

[Footnote a: The precise duration of this early ministry cannot be determined. Our Lord's baptism must have been at least two months _before_ the Passover, and may have been some weeks or months earlier. Then the highly successful ministry in Judea _after_ the Passover must have lasted several months (John 3:22; 4:1-3). If the "yet four months" in John 4:35 be understood to be not a common saying as to the usual interval between seedtime and harvest, but a statement that it was _then_ just four months before harvest, that would make the Judean ministry extend eight months after the Passover. But this interpretation is upon the whole improbable, and we can only say that the opening ministry lasted several months. The time occupied makes very little difference for our understanding the events and discourses. All of the incidents during this period after the temptation are given in John's Gospel. But for the Fourth Gospel we should not know that Jesus did not plunge at once into the great Galilean Ministry.]

But he said unto them, What sin have I done, that I should go and be baptized by him? unless perchance this very thing which I have said is an ignorance."]

[Footnote b: The Gospel of John does not describe the baptism of Jesus, but refers to the event in a way that shows knowledge of the Synoptic Gospels.]

[Footnote c: Codex Bezae (D) reads in Luke: "Thou art my beloved son, to-day have I begotten thee." The Gospel of the Ebionites has: "Thou art my beloved son, in thee I am well pleased, to-day I have begotten thee."

[Footnote a: Mark gives only a summary account while the Logia (the oldest known record) tells the temptations in detail. This early document reveals the Messianic consciousness of Jesus as distinctly as it appears in the Gospel of John. The record of the baptism in Sect. 24 and of the temptation in Sect. 25 goes back to the two oldest strata of the Gospel sources (Mark or the Memoirs of Peter and the Logia of Matthew) and shows that Jesus enters upon his Messianic work knowing that he had his Father's approval and the power of the Holy Spirit upon him.]

Sect. 26. THE TESTIMONY OF THE BAPTIST TO THE COMMITTEE OF THE SANHEDRIN

At Bethany beyond Jordan

John 1:19-28

19 And this is the witness of John, when the Jews sent unto him from 20 Jerusalem priests and Levites to ask him, Who art thou? And he confessed, and denied not; and he confessed, I am not the Christ. 21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elijah? And he saith, I am 22 not. Art thou the prophet? And he answered, No. They said therefore unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to 23 them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself? He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the 24 Lord, as said Isaiah the prophet [_see Isa. 40:3_]. [1]And they 25 had been sent from the Pharisees.[a] And they asked him, and said unto him, Why then baptizest thou, if thou art not the Christ, 26 neither Elijah, neither the prophet? John answered them, saying, I baptize [2]with water: in the midst of you standeth one whom ye 27 know not, _even_ he that cometh after me, the latchet of whose 28 shoe I am not worthy to unloose. These things were done in [3]Bethany beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

[Footnote 1: Or, _And_ certain _had been sent from among the Pharisees_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _in_.]

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities read _Bethabarah_, some _Betharabah_.]

[Footnote a: In 1:19 the priests and Levites are Sadducees. The idea seems to be that the Pharisees had the Sadducees sent on this embassy (_cf._ Sect. 22). Later Jesus will say that John was Elijah that was to come; some will even take Jesus to be Elijah.]

Sect. 27. JOHN'S IDENTIFICATION OF JESUS AS THE MESSIAH

At Bethany beyond the Jordan

John 1:29-34

29 On the morrow he seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold, the Lamb of God, which [1]taketh away the sin of the world [_see 30 Isa. 53:7_]! This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man 31 which is become before me: for he was [2]before me. And I knew him not; but that he should be made manifest to Israel, for this cause 32 came I baptizing [3]with water. And John bare witness, saying, I have beheld the Spirit descending as a dove out of heaven; and it 33 abode upon him. And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize [3]with water, he said unto me, Upon whomsoever thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and abiding upon him, the same is he that 34 baptizeth [3]with the Holy Spirit. And I have seen, and have borne witness that this is the son of God.[a]

[Footnote a: Put together the Baptist's testimonies to Jesus in sections 21, 22, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 33, 57. Add John 1:6-15. Note also the four testimonies of Jesus to John, sections 49, 57, 86, 132. Observe the four successive days here in John 1:19, 29, 35, 43, and the third day from the last in John 2:1, making a week that is covered in detail (_cf._ the Passion Week at the close). We have other glimpses of special days in the ministry, as the Busy Day of the blasphemous accusation and the parables (Matt. 12 and 13). In John 1:39 the very hour is preserved, probably Roman time (ten in the morning), as John writes long after the destruction of Jerusalem and outside of Palestine and uses the Roman reckoning (midnight to midnight) in John 20:19. But see note 11 at end of Harmony for Ramsay's objections to this view.]

Sect. 28. JESUS MAKES HIS FIRST[a] DISCIPLES

At Bethany beyond the Jordan

John 1:35-51

35 Again on the morrow John was standing, and two of his disciples; 36 and he looked upon Jesus as he walked, and saith, Behold, the Lamb 37 of God [_see Isa. 53:7_]! And the two disciples heard him speak, 38 and they followed Jesus. And Jesus turned, and beheld them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? And they said unto him, Rabbi (which is to say, being interpreted, [1]Master), where 39 abidest thou? He saith unto them, Come, and ye shall see. They came therefore and saw where he abode; and they abode with him 40 that day: it was about the tenth hour.

One of the two that heard John _speak_, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother. 41 He findeth first his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messiah (which is, being interpreted, [2]Christ). 42 He brought him unto Jesus. Jesus looked upon him, and said, thou art Simon the son of [3]John: thou shalt be called Cephas (which is by interpretation, [4]Peter). 43 On the morrow he was minded to go forth into Galilee, and he 44 findeth Philip: and Jesus saith unto him, Follow me. Now Philip 45 was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter. Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth, 46 the son of Joseph. And Nathanael said unto him, Can any good thing 47 come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see. Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold, an 48 Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile! Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee. 49 Nathanael answered him, Rabbi, thou art the son of God; thou art 50 King of Israel[b] [_see 2 Sam. 7:14; Ps. 2:7_]. Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee underneath the fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than 51 these. And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye shall see the heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man[c] [_see Gen. 28:12_].

Sect. 29. JESUS WORKS HIS FIRST MIRACLE

At Cana in Galilee

John 2:1-11

1 And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and 2 the mother of Jesus was there: and Jesus also was bidden, and his 3 disciples, to the marriage. And when the wine failed, the mother 4 of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine. And Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet 5 come. His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto 6 you, do it. Now there were six waterpots of stone set there after the Jews' manner of purifying, containing two or three firkins 7 apiece. Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And 8 they filled them up to the brim. And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the [1]ruler of the feast. And they bare it. 9 And when the ruler of the feast tasted the water [2]now become wine, and knew not whence it was (but the servants which had drawn the water knew), the ruler of the feast calleth the bridegroom, 10 and saith unto him, Every man setteth on first the good wine; and when _men_ have drunk freely, _then_ that which is worse: thou 11 hast kept the good wine until now. This beginning of his signs did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

Sect. 30. JESUS MAKES A FIRST SOJOURN AT CAPERNAUM, ACCOMPANIED BY HIS KINDRED AND HIS EARLY DISCIPLES

(Later Capernaum will become his home)

John 2:12

12 After this he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and _his_ brethren, and his disciples: and there they abode not many days.

Sect. 31. THE FIRST[a] CLEANSING OF THE TEMPLE AT THE PASSOVER

Jerusalem.[b] Probably A.D. 27

John 2:13-22

13 And the passover[c] of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to 14 Jerusalem. And he found in the temple those that sold oxen and 15 sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: and he made a scourge of cords, and cast all out of the temple, both the sheep and the oxen; and he poured out the changers' money, and overthrew 16 their tables; and to them that sold the doves he said, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house a house of merchandise. 17 His disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine 18 house shall eat me up [_see Ps. 69:9_]. The Jews therefore answered and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing 19 thou doest these things? Jesus answered and said unto them, 20 Destroy this [1]temple, and in three days I will raise it up. The Jews therefore said, Forty and six years was this [1]temple in 21 building, and wilt thou raise it up in three days? But he spake of 22 the [1]temple of his body. When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he spake this; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

[Footnote 1: Or, _sanctuary_.]

[Footnote a: Many scholars consider this the same incident as that in the Synoptic Gospels and placed by them in Passion Week (Sect. 129) probably on Monday. It is urged that Jesus would not have repeated such an act and hence one must follow either the order of John or of the Synoptics. But there is no inherent difficulty in the repetition of such an act when one reflects on the natural indignation of Jesus at the desecration of the temple on his visit during his ministry and considers that Jesus may have wished to make one last protest at the close of his ministry. Certainty, of course, is not possible in such an argument one way or the other.]

[Footnote b: Observe the successive _scenes_ of this early ministry--beside the Jordan, on the eastern side, at Cana of Galilee, at Capernaum, at Jerusalem, in Judea, in Samaria.]

[Footnote c: This is the first of the passovers in John's Gospel (2:13; 6:4; 13:1). There may have been another.]

Sect. 32. THE INTERVIEW OF NICODEMUS WITH JESUS

At Jerusalem during the Passover

John 2:23 to 3:21

23 Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, during the feast, 24 many believed on his name, beholding his signs which he did. But 25 Jesus did not trust himself unto them, for that he knew all men, and because he needed not that any one should bear witness concerning [1]man; for he himself knew what was in man. 1 Now there was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus,[a] a ruler 2 of the Jews: the same came unto him by night, and said to him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man 3 can do these signs that thou doest, except God be with him. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born [2]anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God. 4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born? 5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of 6 God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is 7 born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye 8 must be born [2]anew. [3]The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the voice thereof, but knowest not whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit. 9 Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be? 10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou the teacher of Israel, 11 and understandest not these things? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and bear witness of that we have 12 seen; and ye receive not our witness. If I told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you 13 heavenly things? And no man hath ascended into heaven, but he that descended out of heaven, _even_ the Son of man, [4]which is in 14 heaven. And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness [_see 15 Num. 21:8-9_], even so must the Son of man be lifted up: that whosoever [5]believeth may in him have eternal life. 16 For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have 17 eternal life. For God sent not the Son into the world to judge the 18 world; but that the world should be saved through him. He that believeth on him is not judged: he that believeth not has been judged already, because he hath not believed on the name of the 19 only begotten Son of God. And this is the judgment, that the light is come into the world, and men loved the darkness rather than the 20 light; for their works were evil. For every one that [6]doeth ill hateth the light, and cometh not to the light, lest his works 21 should be [7]reproved. But he that doeth the truth cometh to the light, that his works may be made manifest, [8]that they have been wrought in God.

[Footnote a: Nicodemus appears as an exception to the statement of 2:24, as one whom Jesus did trust, and who amid all difficulties of temperament and station proved not unworthy of the trust.]

Sect. 33. THE PARALLEL MINISTRY OF JESUS AND JOHN WITH JOHN'S LOYALTY TO JESUS[a]

John 3:22-36

22 After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of 23 Judea; and there he tarried with them, and baptized. And John also was baptizing in Aenon near to Salim, because there [1]was much 24 water there: and they came, and were baptized. For John was not 25 yet cast into prison. There arose therefore a questioning on the 26 part of John's disciples with a Jew about purifying. And they came unto John, and said to him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou hast borne witness, behold, the same 27 baptizeth, and all men come to him. John answered and said, A man 28 can receive nothing, except it have been given him from heaven. Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, I am not the Christ, but, 29 that I am sent before him. He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: 30 this my joy therefore is fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease. 31 He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is of the earth, and of the earth he speaketh: [2]he that cometh 32 from heaven is above all. What he hath seen and heard, of that he 33 beareth witness; and no man receiveth his witness. He that hath received his witness hath set his seal to _this_, that God is 34 true. For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for he 35 giveth not the Spirit by measure. The Father loveth the Son, and 36 hath given all things into his hand. He that believeth on the Son hath eternal life; but he that [3]obeyeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _were many waters_.]

[Footnote 3: Or, _believeth not_.]

[Footnote a: Jesus gained his first disciples from John at Bethany beyond Jordan and many in Jerusalem. Now he is surpassing John. On John's loyalty to Jesus see my _John the Loyal_.]

Sect. 34. CHRIST'S REASONS FOR LEAVING JUDEA

John 4:1-4

1 When therefore the Lord knew how that the Pharisees had heard 2 that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John 3 (although Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples), he left 4 Judea, and departed again into Galilee. And he must needs pass through Samaria.

Luke 3:19, 20

19 But Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Herodias his brother's wife, and for all the evil things which Herod had done, 20 added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.[a]

Mark 1:14 |Matt. 4:12 |Luke 4:14 | | 14 Now after that |12 Now when he heard |14 And Jesus John was delivered | that John was | returned in the up, Jesus came into | delivered up, he | power of the Spirit Galilee. | withdrew into | into Galilee. | Galilee. |

[Footnote a: The place of John's imprisonment was Machaerus, east of the Dead Sea. See Josephus. _War_, Ch. VII, vi. In _Antiquities_, Ch. XVIII, v, 2 Josephus gives the public and political reason for John's imprisonment because of Herod's fear of a revolution. He "feared lest the great influences John had over the people might put it into his power and inclination to raise a rebellion."]

Sect. 35. JESUS IN SAMARIA.[a]

At Jacob's Well and in Sychar

John 4:5-42

5 So he cometh to a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near to the 6 parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph: and Jacob's [1]well was there [_see Josh. 24:32_]. Jesus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat [2]thus by the [1]well. It was about 7 the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: 8 Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink. For his disciples were 9 gone away into the city to buy food. The Samaritan woman therefore saith unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a Samaritan woman? ([3]For Jews have no dealings with 10 Samaritans.) Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee 11 living water. The woman saith unto him, [4]Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou 12 that living water? Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his sons, and his 13 cattle? Jesus answered and said unto her, Every one that drinketh 14 of this water shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up 15 unto eternal life. The woman saith unto him, [4]Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come all the way hither to draw. 16 Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither. The 17 woman answered and said unto him, I have no husband. Jesus saith 18 unto her, Thou saidst well, I have no husband: for thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: this 19 hast thou said truly. The woman saith unto him, [4]Sir, I perceive 20 that thou art a prophet. Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to 21 worship. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, shall ye worship 22 the Father. Ye worship that which ye know not: we worship that 23 which we know: for salvation is from the Jews. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and truth: [5]for such doth the Father seek to be 24 his worshippers. [6]God is a Spirit: and they that worship him 25 must worship in spirit and truth. The woman saith unto him, I know that Messiah cometh (which is called Christ): when he is come, he 26 will declare unto us all things. Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am _he_. 27 And upon this came his disciples; and they marvelled that he was speaking with a woman; yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why 28 speakest thou with her? So the woman left her waterpot, and went 29 away into the city, and saith to the men, Come, see a man, which 30 told me all things that _ever_ I did: can this be the Christ? They 31 went out of the city, and were coming to him. In the mean while 32 the disciples prayed him, saying, Rabbi, eat. But he said to them, 33 I have meat to eat that ye know not. The disciples therefore said 34 one to another, Hath any man brought him _aught_ to eat? Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, 35 and to accomplish his work. Say not ye, There are yet four months, and _then_ cometh the harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are [7]white already 36 unto harvest. He that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that he that soweth and he that reapeth may 37 rejoice together. For herein is the saying true, One soweth, and 38 another reapeth. I sent you to reap that whereon ye have not laboured: others have laboured, and ye are entered into their labour. 39 And from that city many of the Samaritans believed on him [a]because of the word of the woman, who testified, He told me all 40 things that _ever_ I did. So when the Samaritans came unto him, they besought him to abide with them: and he abode there two days. 41 And many more believed because of his word; and they said to the 42 woman, Now we believe, not because of thy speaking: for we have heard for ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Saviour of the world.[b]

[Footnote a: Notice that John also had recently been preaching to Samaritans (Sect. 33) and compare hereafter Philip's work in the city of Samaria (Acts 8:5 ff.)]

[Footnote b: In this early ministry Jesus allowed himself to be regarded as the Messiah by his first disciples (Sect. 28), and personally declared that he was the Messiah to the woman at the well (Sect. 35) (John 4:26), which many other Samaritans also personally believed (John 4:39, 42). He never declared this to the Jewish rulers at Jerusalem till the very end (Sect. 155), doubtless because such an avowal would lead them to kill him, and so must not be made till his work in teaching the people and training his disciples should be completed. Compare what he says later to Peter in Matt. 16:17-20 (Sect. 82). At the baptism and the temptation of Jesus it was clear that Jesus knew that he was the Son of God, the Messiah, and was so regarded by the Baptist. Events in Judea and Galilee change the early policy of Jesus and lead to silence on his part in the use of the word Messiah, though many of the people know that he makes Messianic claims and the rulers in Jerusalem come to suspect him and to fear him. See my volume on _The Pharisees and Jesus_.]

Sect. 36. THE ARRIVAL OF JESUS IN GALILEE

John 4:43-45

43 And after the two days he went forth from thence into Galilee. 44 For Jesus himself testified, that a prophet hath no honour in his 45 own country [_see Luke 4:24; Mark 6:4; Matt. 13:57_]. So when he came into Galilee, the Galileans received him, having seen all the things that he did in Jerusalem at the feast: for they also went unto the feast.

PART VII

THE GREAT GALILEAN MINISTRY

Probably[a] Autumn of A.D. 27 to Spring of 29

(Apparently about a year and a half)

Sects. 37-71. Great fulness of detail in Mark for this period and condensed report in Luke while Matthew is chiefly topical in this portion. Mark's Gospel plunges at once into the Great Galilean Ministry (cf. Peter's summary of Christ's life in Acts 10:36-43 to the household of Cornelius). The mass of material makes clear grouping difficult, but there is progress[b] in the development of events.

1. The Rejection at Nazareth and the New Home in Capernaum, Sects. 37-43.

2. The First Tour of Galilee with the Four Fishermen and the Call of Matthew (Levi) on the Return with the Growing Fame of Jesus, Sects. 44-48.

3. The Sabbath Controversy in Jerusalem and in Galilee, Sects. 49-51.

4. The Choice of the Twelve and the Sermon on the Mount, Sects. 52-54.

5. The Spread of Christ's Influence and the Inquiry from John in Prison, Sects. 55-59.

6. The Second Tour of Galilee (now with the Twelve) and the Intense Hostility of the Pharisees, Sects. 60-63.

7. The First Great Group of Parables with the Visit to Gerasa (Khersa) and to Nazareth (final one), Sects. 64-69.

8. The Third Tour of Galilee (Following the Twelve) and the Effect on Herod Antipas, Sects. 70-71.

[Footnote a: We cannot confidently determine the length of the ministry in Galilee. We are not sure whether it _began_ in summer or late autumn (see footnote 7 in Explanatory Notes at end of Harmony). If the feast of John 5:1 was a passover or there is an unknown passover, the Galilean ministry lasted at least sixteen months, for it _ended_ when another passover was near (John 6:4). Otherwise we should not certainly know that it lasted more than some six or eight months. About the two subsequent periods of our Lord's ministry we shall find no room to question that each lasted six months; but _here_ we have to admit much uncertainty as to the time. After all, a determination of the time employed would be a matter of very little importance to our study of this period. But the immense amount of material in this period argues for a length of over a year.]

[Footnote b: Throughout this great ministry in Galilee, and the periods that will follow after, the reader ought to trace carefully the _progress_ of the history along several lines: (1) the Saviour's progressive self-manifestation; (2) the gradual training of the Twelve who are to carry on his teaching and work after his death; (3) the deepening and spreading hostility of the Jewish influential classes and official rulers. By constantly observing these parallel lines of progress, it will be seen that the history and teachings of our Lord exhibit a vital growth, moving on to an end by him foreseen (Luke 12:50), when the hostility of the rulers will culminate as he before the Sanhedrin avows himself to be the Messiah, and the Twelve will be almost prepared to succeed him.]

Sect. 37. GENERAL ACCOUNT OF HIS TEACHING IN GALILEE

Mark 1:14-15 |Matt. 4:17 |Luke 4:14-15 | | 14 [Now after that |17 From that time |14 [And Jesus John was delivered | began Jesus to | returned in the up, Jesus came into | preach, and to say, | power of [_see Galilee], preaching | Repent ye; for the | John 4:3, 43_] the the gospel of God, | kingdom of heaven is| Spirit into 15 and saying, The time| at hand. | Galilee]: and a is fulfilled, and | | fame went out the kingdom of God | | concerning him is at hand: repent | | through all the ye, and believe in | | region round the gospel. | |15 about. And he | | taught in their | | synagogues, being | | glorified of all.

In sections 38-43 (the Rejection at Nazareth and the New Home in Capernaum) Jesus revisits Cana and Nazareth, recalls the four fishermen by the Sea of Galilee, and begins his ministry of teaching and healing in Capernaum.

Sect. 38. THE HEALING AT CANA OF THE SON OF A COURTIER OF CAPERNAUM

John 4:46-54

46 He came therefore again unto Cana of Galilee, where he made the water wine. And there was a certain [1]nobleman, whose son was 47 sick at Capernaum. When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought _him_ that he would come down, and heal his son; for he was at the point of death. 48 Jesus therefore said unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye 49 will in no wise believe. The [1]nobleman saith unto him. [2]Sir, 50 come down ere my child die. Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth. The man believed the word that Jesus spake unto him, 51 and he went his way. And as he was now going down, his [3]servants 52 met him, saying, that his son lived. So he inquired of them the hour when he began to amend. They said therefore unto him, 53 Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. So the father knew that _it was_ at that hour in which Jesus said unto him, Thy 54 son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house. This is again the second sign that Jesus did, having come out of Judea into Galilee.

Sect. 39. THE FIRST REJECTION AT NAZARETH

Luke 4:16-31

16 And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and he entered, as his custom was, into the synagogue on the sabbath day, 17 and stood up to read. And there was delivered unto him [1]the book of the prophet Isaiah. And he opened the [2]book, and found the place where it was written, 18 The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, [3]Because he anointed me to preach [4]good tidings to the poor: He hath sent me to proclaim release to the captives, And recovering of sight to the blind, To set at liberty them that are bruised, 19 To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord [_see Isa. 58:6; 61:1-2_]. 20 And he closed the [2]book, and gave it back to the attendant, and sat down: and the eyes of all in the synagogue were fastened on 21 him. And he began to say unto them, To-day hath this scripture 22 been fulfilled in your ears. And all bare him witness, and wondered at the words of grace which proceeded out of his mouth: 23 and they said, Is not this Joseph's son? And he said unto them, Doubtless ye will say unto me this parable, Physician, heal thyself [_see John 6:42; 7:15_]: whatsoever we have heard done at 24 Capernaum, do also here in thine own country. And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet is acceptable in his own country [_see 25 John 4:44_]. But of a truth I say unto you, There were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when there came a great famine over all the 26 land [_see 1 Kings 17:1; 18:1-2_]; and unto none of them was Elijah sent, but only to [5]Zarephath, in the land of Sidon, unto 27 a woman that was a widow [_see 1 Kings 17:8-9_]. And there were many lepers in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet; and none of them was cleansed, but only Naaman the Syrian [_see 2 Kings 28 5:1-14_]. And they were all filled with wrath in the synagogue, as 29 they heard these things; and they rose up, and cast him forth out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their 30 city was built, that they might throw him down headlong. But he 31 passing through the midst of them went his way. And he came down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee.

Sect. 40. THE NEW HOME IN CAPERNAUM

Matt. 4:13-16

13 And leaving Nazareth,[a] he came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is 14 by the sea, in the borders of Zebulun and Naphtali: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken [1]by Isaiah the prophet [_see Isa. 8:23; 9:1-2_], saying, 15 The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, [2]Toward the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the [3]Gentiles, 16 The people which sat in darkness Saw a great light, And to them which sat in the region and shadow of death, To them did light spring up.

[Footnote a: Nazareth was never the Saviour's residence during his public ministry. After the wedding at Cana he lived a short time at _Capernaum_, and henceforth that city will be his abode, till he leaves Galilee six months before the crucifixion--most of the time, however, being actually spent in several journeys throughout Galilee, together with a trip to Jerusalem, and retirement to districts around Galilee.]

Sect. 41. JESUS FINDS FOUR FISHERS OF MEN IN FOUR FISHERMEN[a]

By the Sea of Galilee, near Capernaum

And they came, and filled both 8 the boats, so that they began to sink. But Simon Peter, when he saw it, fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me; for I am a 9 sinful man, O Lord. For he was amazed, and all that were with him, 10 at the draught of the fishes which they had taken; and so were also James and John, sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt 11 [2]catch men. And when they had brought their boats to land, they left all, and followed him.

[Footnote a: Three of these two pairs of brothers (Andrew and Peter, John and James) had already become disciples of Jesus at Bethany beyond Jordan (James probably soon afterwards), but now they leave their prosperous fish business and follow Jesus continuously as many business men since have given up a lucrative business for the ministry. They, along with Philip and Nathaniel, had been with Jesus in the early ministry (the year of obscurity).]

Sect. 42. THE EXCITEMENT IN THE SYNAGOGUE BECAUSE OF THE TEACHING OF JESUS AND THE HEALING OF A DEMONIAC ON THE SABBATH

In sections 44-52 Jesus makes his first tour of Galilee with the Four Fishermen whom he has now called to follow him continuously. On the return to Capernaum Matthew is called and various miracles arouse the enthusiasm of the multitudes and the hostility of the Pharisees to Christ's teachings.

Sect. 44. THE FIRST TOUR OF GALILEE WITH THE FOUR FISHERMEN

[Footnote a: This journey about all Galilee included a _great mass_ of teaching and healing (dwell on Matt. 4:23-25), of which only a few specimens are recorded, and these apparently occurred at Capernaum, his headquarters. The journey given by Luke only (8:1-3) is probably distinct from this, and if so it would be a _second_, while that of Luke 9:1-6 (= Mark 6:6-13 = Matt. 9:35-11:1), which is quite certainly distinct, would then be a _third_ journey about Galilee. The reader ought to expand his imagination and take in these extended labors.]

[Footnote a: It was probably the presence of the disciples of Christ at Matthew's feast on one of the Jewish fast days that occasioned the complaint of John's disciples and the Pharisees. It is sad to see disciples of John aligned with the Pharisees against Jesus.]

[Footnote b: Note the use of the term parable in Luke. There are three parables (the sons of the bride-chamber, the new patch on an old garment, the new wine in old wine-skins) here together. A few isolated ones have already occurred as in John 2:19.]

In sections 49 to 51 we see the Pharisees attacking Jesus both in Jerusalem and in Galilee with great hostility and with the purpose of killing him because of violation of the Pharisaic regulations about the Sabbath. Jesus defends himself and his disciples by various arguments and personal claims.

Sect. 49. AT A FEAST IN JERUSALEM (POSSIBLY THE PASSOVER) JESUS HEALS A LAME MAN ON THE SABBATH AND DEFENDS THIS ACTION TO THE PHARISEES IN A GREAT DISCOURSE

John 5:1-47

1 After these things there was [1]a feast[a] of the Jews; and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.[b] 2 Now there is in Jerusalem by the sheep _gate_ a pool, which is 3 called in Hebrew [2]Bethesda, having five porches. In these lay a 5 multitude of them that were sick, blind, halt, withered[3]. And a certain man was there, which had been thirty and eight years in 6 his infirmity. When Jesus saw him lying, and knew that he had been now a long time _in that case_, he saith unto him, Wouldst thou be 7 made whole? The sick man answered him, [4]Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am 8 coming, another steppeth down before me. Jesus saith unto him, 9 Arise, take up thy bed, and walk. And straightway the man was made whole, and took up his bed and walked. 10 Now it was the sabbath on that day. So the Jews said unto him that was cured, It is the sabbath, and it is not lawful for thee to 11 take up thy bed [_see Ex. 20:10; Deut. 5:14_]. But he answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy 12 bed, and walk. They asked him, Who is the man that said unto thee, 13 Take up _thy bed_, and walk? But he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away, a multitude being in 14 the place. Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse 15 thing befall thee. The man went away, and told the Jews that it 16 was Jesus which had made him whole. And for this cause did the Jews persecute Jesus, because he did these things on the sabbath. 17 But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh even until now, and I 18 work. For this cause therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only brake the sabbath, but also called God his own Father, making himself equal with God. 19 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father doing: for what things soever 20 he doeth, these the Son also doeth in like manner. For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and 21 greater works than these will he shew him, that ye may marvel. For as the Father raiseth the dead and quickeneth them, even so the 22 Son also quickeneth whom he will. For neither doth the Father 23 judge any man, but he hath given all judgement unto the Son; that all may honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which sent him. 24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath eternal life, and cometh not into 25 judgement, but hath passed out of death into life. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour cometh, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live. 26 For as the Father hath life in himself, even so gave he to the Son 27 also to have life in himself: and he gave him authority to execute 28 judgement, because he is [5]the Son of man. Marvel not at this: for the hour cometh, in which all that are in the tombs shall hear 29 his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have [6]done ill, unto the resurrection of judgement. 30 I can of myself do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgement is righteous; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of 31 him that sent me. If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not 32 true. It is another that beareth witness of me; and I know that 33 the witness which he witnesseth of me is true. Ye have sent unto 34 John, and he hath borne witness unto the truth. But the witness which I receive is not from man: howbeit I say these things, that 35 ye may be saved. He was the lamp that burneth and shineth: and ye 36 were willing to rejoice for a season in his light. But the witness which I have is greater than _that of_ John: for the works which the Father hath given me to accomplish, the very works that I do, 37 bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. And the Father which sent me, he hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard 38 his voice at any time, nor seen his form. And ye have not his word 39 abiding in you: for whom he sent, him ye believe not. [7]Ye search the scriptures, because ye think that in them ye have eternal 40 life; and these are they which bear witness of me; and ye will not 41 come to me, that ye may have life. I receive not glory from men. 42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in yourselves. I 43 am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another 44 shall come in his own name, him ye will receive. How can ye believe, which receive glory one of another, and the glory that 45 _cometh_ from [8]the only God ye seek not? Think not that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuseth you, _even_ 46 Moses, on whom ye have set your hope. For if ye believed Moses, ye 47 would believe me; for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?[c]

[Footnote 1: Many ancient authorities read _the feast_.]

[Footnote 2: Some ancient authorities read _Bethsaida_, others _Bethzatha_.]

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities insert, wholly or in part, _waiting for the moving of the water: 4 for an angel of the Lord went down at certain seasons into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole, with whatsoever disease he was holden._]

[Footnote 6: Or, _practised_.]

[Footnote 7: Or, _Search the scriptures_.]

[Footnote 8: Some ancient authorities read _the only one_.]

[Footnote a: This feast of John 5:1 was _most probably_ a Passover (see note at end of volume, note 7). If so, we should know that our Lord's public ministry lasted three years and a fraction, and that the great ministry in Galilee lasted some 18 to 20 months. Otherwise, we should know of only two years and a fraction for the former, and 6 to 8 months for the latter; as John gives three passovers beyond question (John 2:13; 6:4; 12:1), and our Lord's ministry began some time before the first of these. If the feast of 5:1 was not a passover, it is quite impossible to determine what other feast it was. While one would be glad to settle these questions, if it were possible, yet it really does not matter as regards understanding our Lord's _recorded_ history and teachings during the great ministry in Galilee, the only point of difference being that if this feast was a Passover (or if there is an unmentioned Passover) we should conceive of the three journeys about Galilee as occupying a longer time, and including more extensive _unrecorded_ labors in preaching and healing.]

[Footnote b: It is to be noted that John's Gospel gives the Jerusalem Ministry of Jesus almost entirely except Galilee in ch. 2, Samaria and Galilee in ch. 4, Galilee in ch. 6 and again in ch. 21. It seems clear that John wrote with full knowledge of the Synoptic Gospels and supplements them at certain points. Both Luke and John were thus critics of the Gospel records.]

[Footnote c: Observe that here more than a year before the crucifixion, and probably two years (_i.e._ if the feast of 5:1 was a passover or if an unnamed passover is granted), the hostility of the Jews _at Jerusalem_ (comp. John 4:1) has reached the point of a desire to kill him, as a sabbath breaker and a blasphemer (5:16-18). So we shall find him staying away from Jerusalem at the passover of John 6:4, and until the Tabernacles six months before the crucifixion (John 7:1-10). Meantime, the hostility will go on increasing in other parts of the country (Mark 3:6, etc.).--Notice also that in this discourse at Jerusalem our Lord repeatedly declares himself in a high sense the Son of God, and the appointed judge of mankind (ver. 27), and says that Moses wrote concerning him (ver. 46). All this indicated that he was the Messiah, but he did not here expressly assert it as he did in Samaria (John 4:26). That would have precipitated the collision, for to claim to be the Messiah would in the view of the Jewish rulers involve _political_ consequences. Comp. John 11:48.]

[Footnote a: Because in Mark 3:7 Jesus withdraws to the Sea of Galilee.]

[Footnote b: Note the five arguments made by Jesus in defence of the conduct of the disciples on the Sabbath (the historical appeal in the conduct of David, the appeal to the law about the temple service, the voice of prophecy, the purpose of God in the Sabbath, and the lordship of the Messiah over the Sabbath). Jesus had already (John 5:17) argued that he was equal to the Father and hence had the right to do certain things (acts of mercy) on the Sabbath.]

Sect. 51. A THIRD[a] SABBATH CONTROVERSY WITH THE PHARISEES OVER THE HEALING OF A MAN WITH A WITHERED HAND IN A SYNAGOGUE

In Galilee

[Footnote a: On three other later occasions controversies arise with the Pharisees concerning Sabbath observance (John 9:1-34; Luke 13:10-21; 14:1-24). In John 7:20-24 Jesus refers to the miracle in John 5 and adds another argument (circumcision on the Sabbath) for his conduct on the Sabbath.]

[Footnote b: Here at some point near the sea of Galilee, there is already a plot to kill him, as some had wished to do in Jerusalem (comp. on Sect. 49).]

In sections 52 to 54 we see Christ choosing the Twelve Apostles and delivering the Sermon on the Mount to them and to the multitudes.

Sect. 52. JESUS TEACHES AND HEALS GREAT MULTITUDES BY THE SEA OF GALILEE

Sect. 54. THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT. PRIVILEGES AND REQUIREMENTS OF THE MESSIANIC REIGN. CHRIST'S STANDARD OF RIGHTEOUSNESS

Matthew, chapters 5-7. Luke 6:17-49.[a]

A level place on a mountain, not far from Capernaum

[Footnote a: There is little doubt that the discourses given by Matthew and Luke are the same, Matthew locating it on "the mountain," and Luke "on a level place," which might easily be a level spot on a mountain. (See note at end of this book, note 9.) Observe that they begin and end alike, and pursue the same general order. Luke omits various matters of special interest to Matthew's Jewish readers (_e.g._ Matt. 5:17-42), and other matters that he himself will give elsewhere (_e.g._ Luke 11:1-4; 12:22-31); while Luke has a few sentences (as ver. 24-26, 38-40), which are not given by Matthew.]

The Place and the Audience

Matt. 5:1-2 |Luke 6:17-19 | 1 And seeing the multitudes, he|17 And he came down with them, went up into the mountain: and | and stood on a level place, and when he had sat down, his | a great multitude of his 2 disciples came unto him: and he| disciples, and a great number opened his mouth and taught | of the people from all Judea them, saying, | and Jerusalem, and the sea | coast of Tyre and Sidon, which | came to hear him, and to be |18 healed of their diseases; and | they that were troubled with | unclean spirits were healed. |19 And all the multitude sought to | touch him: for power came forth | from him, and healed _them_ | all.

1. The Introduction: The Beatitudes and the Woes. Privileges of the Messiah's Subjects

Matt. 5:3-12 |Luke 6:20-26 | 3 Blessed are the poor in |20 And he lifted up his eyes on spirit: for theirs is the | his disciples, and said, 4 kingdom of heaven. [1]Blessed | Blessed _are_ ye poor: for are they that mourn [_see Isa. | yours is the kingdom of

2. The Theme of the Sermon: Christ's Standard of Righteousness in Contrast with that of the Scribes and Pharisees

Matt. 5:13-20

13 Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men [_see 14 Mark 9:50; Jesus often repeated his sayings_]. Ye are the light of 15 the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do _men_ light a lamp, and put it under the bushel, but on the stand; and it shineth unto all that are in the house [_see Mark 4:21; Luke 16 8:16_]. Even so let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. 17 Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets: I came 18 not to destroy, but to fulfil. For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass away, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise 19 pass away from the law, till all things be accomplished. Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, he shall be called great in the 20 kingdom of heaven. For I say unto you, that except your righteousness shall exceed _the righteousness_ of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven.

3. Christ's Ethical Teaching Superior to that of the Scribes (both the Old Testament and the Oral Law) in Six Items or Illustrations (Murder, Adultery, Divorce, Oaths, Retaliation, Love of Enemies)

Matt. 5:21-48

21 Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the 22 judgement [_see Ex. 20:13; Deut. 5:17_]: but I say unto you, that every one who is angry with his brother[1] shall be in danger of the judgement; and whosoever shall say to his brother, [2]Raca, shall be in danger of the council; and whosoever shall say, [3]Thou 23 fool, shall be in danger [4]of the [5]hell of fire. If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest 24 that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy 25 brother, and then come and offer thy gift. Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art with him in the way; lest haply the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge [6]deliver 26 thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou have paid the last farthing. 27 Ye have heard that it was said, Thou shalt not commit adultery 28 [_see Ex. 20:14; Deut. 5:18_]: but I say unto you, that every one that looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery 29 with her already in his heart. And if thy right eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not 30 thy whole body be cast into [7]hell. And if thy right hand causeth thee to stumble, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not 31 thy whole body go into [7]hell. It was said also, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement [_see 32 Deut. 24:1_]: but I say unto you, that every one that putteth away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, maketh her an adulteress: and whosoever shall marry her when she is put away committeth adultery.[a] 33 Again, ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths [_see Lev. 19:12; Num. 30:2; Ex. 20:7; Deut. 5:11; 23:21_]: 34 but I say unto you, Swear not at all [_see Matt. 26:63-64_]; 35 neither by the heaven, for it is the throne of God; nor by the earth, for it is the footstool of his feet; nor [8]by Jerusalem, 36 for it is the city of the great King [_see Isa. 66:1_]. Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, for thou canst not make one hair 37 white or black [_see Ps. 48:2_]. [9]But let your speech be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: and whatsoever is more than these is of [10]the evil _one_. 38 Ye have heard that it was said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth 39 for a tooth [_see Ex. 21:24; Lev. 24:20; Deut. 19:21_]: but I say unto you, Resist not [11]him that is evil: but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also [_see John 40 18:23_]. And if any man would go to law with thee, and take away 41 the coat, let him have thy cloke also. And whosoever shall 42 [12]compel thee to go one mile, go with him twain. Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away. 43 Ye have heard that it was said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour [_see Lev. 19:18; Deut. 23:6; 25:19_], and hate thine enemy:

|Luke 6:27-30, 32-36 | 44 but I say unto you [_see Luke |27 But I say unto you which hear, 23:34_], Love your enemies, and| Love your enemies, do good to pray for them that persecute |28 them that hate you, bless them 45 you; that ye may be sons of | that curse you, pray for them your Father which is in heaven:|29 that despitefully use you. To for he maketh his sun to rise | him that smiteth thee on the on the evil and the good, and | _one_ cheek offer also the sendeth rain on the just and | other; and from him that taketh the unjust. | away thy cloke withhold not thy |30 coat also. Give to every one | that asketh thee; and of him | that taketh away thy goods ask 46 For if ye love them|32 them not again. And if ye love that love you, what reward have| them that love you, what thank ye? do not even the | have ye? for even sinners love 47 [13]publicans the same? And if |33 those that love them. And if ye ye salute your brethren only, | do good to them that do good to what do ye more _than others_? | you, what thank have ye? for do not even the Gentiles the |34 even sinners do the same. And 48 same? Ye therefore shall be | if ye lend to them of whom ye perfect, as your heavenly | hope to receive, what thank Father is perfect. | have ye? even sinners lend to | sinners, to receive again as |35 much. But love your enemies, | and do _them_ good, and lend, | [14]never despairing; and your | reward shall be great, and ye | shall be sons of the Most High: | for he is kind toward the |36 unthankful and evil. Be ye | merciful, even as your Father | is merciful.

4. The Practice of Real Righteousness unlike the Ostentatious Hypocrisy of the Pharisees, as in Almsgiving, Prayer, Fasting

Matt. 6:1-18

1 Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them: else ye have no reward with your Father which is in heaven. 2 When therefore thou doest alms, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have 3 received their reward. But when thou doest alms, let not thy left 4 hand know what thy right hand doeth: that thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret shall recompense thee. 5 And when ye pray, ye shall not be as the hypocrites:

for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They 6 have received their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thine inner chamber, and having shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret 7 shall recompense thee. And in praying use not vain repetitions, as the Gentiles do: for they think that they shall be heard for their 8 much speaking. Be not therefore like unto them: for [1]your Father 9 knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him. After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed 10 by thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so 11 on earth. Give us this day [2]our daily bread. And forgive us our 12 debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. And bring us not into 13 temptation, but deliver us from [3]the evil _one_.[4] For if ye 14 forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also 15 forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses. 16 Moreover when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may be seen of men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have received their 17 reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thy head, and wash thy 18 face; that thou be not seen of men to fast, but of thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall recompense thee.

[Footnote 1: Some ancient authorities read _God your Father_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _our bread for the coming day_.]

[Footnote 3: Or, _evil_.]

[Footnote 4: Many authorities, some ancient, but with variations, add _For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen._]

5. Single-hearted Devotion to God, as Opposed to Worldly Aims and Anxieties

Matt. 6:19-34

19 Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon the earth, where moth and rust doth consume, and where thieves [1]break through and 20 steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth consume, and where thieves do not [1]break 21 through nor steal: for where thy treasure is, there will thy heart 22 be also. The lamp of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be 23 single, thy whole body shall be full of light. But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the 24 light that is in thee be darkness, how great is the darkness! No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the 25 other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say unto you, Be not anxious for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the 26 life more than the food, and the body than the raiment? Behold the birds of the heaven, that they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; and your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are 27 not ye of much more value than they? And which of you by being 28 anxious can add one cubit unto his [2]stature? And why are ye anxious concerning raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how 29 they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one 30 of these. But if God doth so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, _shall he_ not 31 much more _clothe_ you, O ye of little faith? Be not therefore anxious, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, 32 Wherewithal shall we be clothed? For after all these things do the Gentiles seek; for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need 33 of all these things. But seek ye first his kingdom, and his 34 righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Be not therefore anxious for the morrow: for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

6. Captious Criticism, or Judging Others

Matt. 7:1-6 |Luke 6:37-42 | 1 Judge not, that ye be not |37 And judge not, and ye shall not 2 judged. For with what judgement| be judged: and condemn not, and ye judge, ye shall be judged: | ye shall not be condemned: and with what measure ye mete, | release, and ye shall be it shall be measured unto you. |38 released: give, and it shall be | given unto you; good measure, | pressed down, shaken together, | running over, shall they give | into your bosom. For with what | measure ye mete it shall be | measured to you again. |39 And he spake also a parable | unto them, Can the blind guide | the blind? shall they not both |40 fall into a pit? The disciple | is not above his [1]master: but | every one when he is perfected |41 shall be as his [1]master. And 3 And why beholdest thou the | why beholdest thou the mote mote that is in thy brother's | that is in thy brother's eye, eye, but considerest not the | but considerest not the beam beam that is in thine own eye? |42 that is in thine own eye? Or 4 Or how wilt thou say to thy | how canst thou say to thy brother, Let me cast out the | brother, Brother, let me cast mote out of thine eye; and lo, | out the mote that is in thine the beam is in thine own eye? | eye, when thou thyself 5 Thou hypocrite, cast out first | beholdest not the beam that is the beam out of thine own eye; | in thine own eye? Thou and then shalt thou see clearly| hypocrite, cast out first the to cast out the mote out of thy| beam out of thine own eye, and brother's eye. | then shalt thou see clearly to 6 Give not that which is holy | cast out the mote that is in unto the dogs, neither cast | thy brother's eye. your pearls before the swine, | lest haply they trample them | under their feet, and turn and | rend you. |

[Footnote 1: Or, _teacher_.]

7. Prayer, and the Golden Rule

Matt. 7:7-12

7 Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, 8 and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh 9 it shall be opened. Or what man is there of you, who, if his son 10 shall ask him for a loaf, will give him a stone; or if he shall 11 ask for a fish, will give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven | give good things to them that | 12 ask him? All things therefore |Luke 6:31 whatsoever ye would that men

| should do unto you, even so do |31 And as ye would that men ye also unto them: for this is | should do to you, do ye also to the law and the prophets. | them likewise.

8. The Conclusion of the Sermon. The Lesson of Personal Righteousness Driven Home by Powerful Parables

Matt. 7:13 to 8:1

13 Enter ye in by the narrow gate: for wide [1]is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many be they 14 that enter in thereby. [2]For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few be they that find it. 15 Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, 16 but inwardly are ravening wolves. By their fruits ye shall know 17 them. Do _men_ gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth | forth good fruit: but the |Luke 6:43-49 corrupt tree bringeth forth | 18 evil fruit. A good tree cannot |43 For there is no good tree that bring forth evil fruit, neither| bringeth forth corrupt fruit; can a corrupt tree bring forth | nor again a corrupt tree that 19 good fruit. Every tree that |44 bringeth forth good fruit. For bringeth not forth good fruit | each tree is known by its own is hewn down, and cast into the| fruit. For of thorns men do not 20 fire. Therefore by their fruits| gather figs, nor of a bramble 21 ye shall know them. Not every |45 bush gather they grapes. The one that saith unto me, Lord, | good man out of the good Lord, shall enter the kingdom | treasure of his heart bringeth of heaven; but he that doeth | forth that which is good; and the will of my Father which is | the evil _man_ out of the evil 22 in heaven. Many will say to me | _treasure_ bringeth forth that in that day, Lord, Lord, did we| which is evil: for out of the not prophesy by thy name, and | abundance of the heart his mouth by thy name cast out [3]devils,| speaketh. and by thy name do many |46 And why call ye me, Lord, 23 [4]mighty works? And then will | Lord, and do not the things I profess unto them, I never | which I say? knew you: depart from me, ye | 24 that work iniquity. Every one |47 Every one that cometh unto me, therefore which heareth these | and heareth my words, and doeth words of mine, and doeth them, | them, I will shew you to whom shall be likened unto a wise |48 he is like: he is like a man man, which built his house upon| building a house, who digged 25 the rock: and the rain | and went deep, and laid a descended, and the floods came,| foundation upon a rock: and and the winds blew, and beat | when a flood arose, the stream upon that house; and it fell | brake against that house, and not: for it was founded upon | could not shake it: [5]because 26 the rock. And every one that |49 it had been well builded. But heareth these words of mine, | he that heareth, and doeth not, and doeth them not, shall be | is like a man that built a likened unto a foolish man, | house upon the earth without a which built his house upon the | foundation; against which the 27 sand: and the rain descended, | stream brake, and straightway and the floods came, and the | it fell in; and the ruin of winds blew, and smote upon that| that house was great. house; and it fell: and great | was the fall thereof. | 28 And it came to pass, when Jesus ended these words, the multitudes 29 were astonished at his teaching: for he taught them as _one_ having authority, and not as their scribes. 1 And when he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

Sect. 56. HE RAISES A WIDOW'S SON AT NAIN

Luke 7:11-17

11 And it came to pass [1]soon afterwards, that he went to a city called Nain; and his disciples went with him, and a great 12 multitude. Now when he drew near to the gate of the city, behold, there was carried out one that was dead, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with 13 her. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said 14 unto her, Weep not. And he came nigh and touched the bier: and the bearers stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, 15 Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he 16 gave him to his mother. And fear took hold on all: and they glorified God, saying, A great prophet is arisen among us: and, 17 God hath visited his people. And this report went forth concerning him in the whole of Judea, and the region round about.

Sect. 57. THE MESSAGE[a] FROM THE BAPTIST AND THE EULOGY OF JESUS

Galilee

Matt. 11:2-19 |Luke 7:18-35 | 2 Now when John heard in the |18 And the disciples of John told prison[b] the works of the |19 him of all these things. Sect. 58. WOES UPON THE CITIES OF OPPORTUNITY. THE CLAIMS OF CHRIST AS THE TEACHER ABOUT THE FATHER.

Galilee

Matt. 11:20-30

20 Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his [1]mighty 21 works were done, because they repented not. Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the [1]mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon which were done in you, they would 22 have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. Howbeit I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of 23 judgement, than for you [_see Isa. 14:13-15_]. And thou, Capernaum, shalt thou be exalted unto heaven? thou shalt [2]go down unto Hades: for if the [1]mighty works had been done in Sodom which were done in thee, it would have remained until this day. 24 Howbeit I say unto you, that it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgement, than for thee [_see Gen. 19:24_]. 25 At that season Jesus answered and said, I [3]thank thee, O Father [_see John 3:35; 17:2_], Lord of heaven and earth, that thou didst hide these things from the wise and understanding, and didst 26 reveal them unto babes: yea, Father, [4]for so it was 27 well-pleasing in thy sight. All things have been delivered unto me of my Father: and no one knoweth the Son, save the Father; neither doth any know the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the 28 Son willeth to reveal _him_. Come unto me, all ye that labour and 29 are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke[a] upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye 30 shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light [_see Jer. 6:16; Sirach 51:23_].

Sect. 59. THE ANOINTING[a] OF CHRIST'S FEET BY A SINFUL WOMAN IN THE HOUSE OF SIMON A PHARISEE. THE PARABLE OF THE TWO DEBTORS

Galilee

Luke 7:36-50

36 And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he entered into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat. 37 And behold, a woman which was in the city, a sinner; and when she knew that he was sitting at meat in the Pharisee's house, she 38 brought [1]an alabaster cruse of ointment, and standing behind at his feet, weeping, she began to wet his feet with her tears, and wiped them with the hair of her head, and [2]kissed his feet, and 39 anointed them with the ointment. Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man, if he were [3]a prophet, would have perceived who and what manner of 40 woman this is which toucheth him, that she is a sinner. And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. 41 And he saith, [4]Master, say on. A certain lender had two debtors: 42 the one owed five hundred [5]pence, and the other fifty. When they had not _wherewith_ to pay, he forgave them both. Which of them 43 therefore will love him most? Simon answered and said, He, I suppose, to whom he forgave the most. And he said unto him, Thou 44 hast rightly judged. And turning to the woman, he said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath wetted my feet with her tears, 45 and wiped them with her hair. Thou gavest me no kiss: but she, 46 since the time I came in, hath not ceased to [6]kiss my feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but she hath anointed my feet 47 with ointment. Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is 48 forgiven, _the same_ loveth little. And he said unto her, Thy sins 49 are forgiven. And they that sat at meat with him began to say 50 [7]within themselves, Who is this that even forgiveth sins? And he said unto the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

[Footnote 1: Or, _a flask_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _kissed much_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _Teacher_.]

[Footnote 5: The word in the Greek denotes a coin worth about seventeen cents.]

[Footnote 6: Gr. _kiss much_.]

[Footnote a: This anointing in Galilee must be distinct from the anointing at Bethany, near Jerusalem, more than a year later. This sinful and penitent woman is represented by a very late tradition as being Mary Magdalene, and hence all the popular uses of the term Magdalen. But that notion has no historical support whatever, and it becomes violently improbable when we find that in the very next paragraph Luke introduces Mary Magdalene as a new figure in the history. Some men even identify Mary of Bethany with this woman that was a sinner and also with Mary Magdalene, a medley of medieval mysticism.]

In sections 60 to 63 Jesus makes a second (three in all) tour of Galilee, this time with all the Twelve. Intense hostility of the Pharisees is aroused by the work. They make the blasphemous accusation that Jesus is in league with Satan. Even the kindred of Jesus fear that he is beside himself because of the excitement and the charges.

Sect. 60. THE SECOND TOUR OF GALILEE

Luke 8:1-3

1 And it came to pass soon afterwards, that he went about through cities and villages, preaching and bringing the [1]good tidings of 2 the kingdom of God, and with him the twelve, and certain women which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary that 3 was called Magdalene, from whom seven [2]devils had gone out, and Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto [3]them of their substance.

[Footnote 1: Or, _gospel_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _demons_.]

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities read _him_.]

Notice that the events of Sects. 61-66 all occurred on the same day, called the Busy Day.[a]

[Footnote a: This "Busy Day" is just one of many such days in the Master's Ministry. See, for instance, the last day of his public ministry in the temple in Jerusalem. Observe Jesus in the _forenoon_ teaching a crowded audience (Mark 3:19), some of whom insult and blaspheme him, and others demand a sign, and at length his mother and brethren try to carry him off as insane (comp. Mark 3:21); in the _afternoon_ giving a group of most remarkable parables, several of which he interprets; towards night crossing the Lake in a boat, so tired and worn that he sleeps soundly amid the alarming storm; then healing the Gadarene demoniacs, and returning by boat, apparently the same evening. What a day of toil and trial.]

Sect. 61. BLASPHEMOUS ACCUSATION OF LEAGUE WITH BEELZEBUB

Galilee

Mark 3:19-30 |Matt. 12:22-37 | 19 And he cometh into a house. | 20 And the multitude cometh | together again, so that they | could not so much as eat bread.| 21

And when his friends heard it, | they went out to lay hold on | him: for they said, He is | beside himself. | |22 Then was brought unto him | [1]one possessed with a devil, 22 And the scribes which came | blind and dumb: and he healed down from Jerusalem said, He | him, insomuch that the dumb man hath Beelzebub, and, [3]By the |23 spake and saw. And all the prince of the [2]devils casteth| multitudes were amazed, and 23 he out the [2]devils. And he | said, Is this the son of David? called them unto him, and said |24 But when the Pharisees heard unto them in parables, How can | it, they said, This man doth 24 Satan cast out Satan? And if a | cast out [2]devils, but [3]by kingdom be divided against | Beelzebub the prince of the itself, that kingdom cannot | [2]devils [_see John 7:20; 25 stand. And if a house be |25 8:48, 52; 10:20_].[a] And divided against itself, that | knowing their thoughts he said house will not be able to | unto them, Every kingdom 26 stand. And if Satan hath risen | divided against itself is up against himself, and is | brought to desolation; and divided, he cannot stand, but | every city or house divided hath an end. | against itself shall not stand: |26 and if Satan casteth out Satan, | he is divided against himself; | how then shall his kingdom |27 stand? And if I [3]by Beelzebub | cast out [2]devils, [3]by whom | do your sons cast them out? 27 But no one can | therefore shall they be your enter into the house of the |28 judges. But if I [3]by the strong _man_, and spoil his | Spirit of God cast out goods, except he first bind the| [2]devils, then is the kingdom strong _man_; and then he will |29 of God come upon you. He that is not unto you, All their sins shall | with me is against me; and he be forgiven unto the sons of | that gathereth not with me men, and their blasphemies |31 scattereth. Therefore I say wherewith soever they shall | unto you, Every sin and 29 blaspheme: but whosoever shall | blasphemy shall be forgiven blaspheme against the Holy | [4]unto men; but the blasphemy Spirit hath never forgiveness, | against the Spirit shall not be but is guilty of an eternal |32 forgiven. And whosoever shall 30 sin: because they said, He hath| speak a word against the Son of an unclean spirit. | man, it shall be forgiven him; | but whosoever shall speak | against the Holy Spirit, it | shall not be forgiven him, 33 neither in this [5]world, nor in that which is to come. Either make the tree good, and its fruit good; or make the tree corrupt, and 34 its fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by its fruit. Ye offspring of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of 35 the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. The good man out of his good treasure bringeth forth good things: and the evil man 36 out of his evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. And I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give 37 account thereof in the day of judgement. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

Sect. 62. SCRIBES AND PHARISEES DEMAND A SIGN

Same day. Galilee

Matt. 12:38-45

38 Then certain of the scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying, 39 [1]Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign of Jonah the 40 prophet: for as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the [2]whale; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth [_see Jonah 1:17; 2:1-2; 3:5; 41 4:3; 1 Kings 10:1-10_]. The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgement with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, [3]a greater than 42 Jonah is here. The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgement with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and 43 behold, [3]a greater than Solomon is here. But the unclean spirit, when [4]he is gone out of the man, passeth through waterless 44 places, seeking rest, and findeth it not. Then [4]he saith, I will return into my house whence I came out; and when [4]he is come, 45 [4]he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished. Then goeth [4]he, and taketh with [5]himself seven other spirits more evil than [5]himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man becometh worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this evil generation.

In Sects. 64 to 69 we have the first great group of Parables with the visit to Gerasa and the return to Nazareth.

Sect. 64. THE FIRST GREAT GROUP OF PARABLES[a]

Same day. Beside the Sea of Galilee. Introduction to the Group

Mark 4:1, 2 |Matt. 13:1-3 |Luke 8:4 | | 1 And again he began| 1 On that day went | to teach by the sea | Jesus out of the | side. [Footnote a: We have met various _separate_ parables heretofore, but here is a _group_ of at least ten. Two other great groups will occur hereafter, one group given in Luke only, and the last group during the last week of our Lord's public ministry.]

1. To the Crowds by the Sea

(a) Parable of the Sower

Mark 4:3-25 |Matt. 13:3-23 |Luke 8:5-18 | | 3 Behold, the sower | 3 Behold, the sower | 5 The sower went went forth to sow: | went forth to sow; | forth to sow his 4 and it came to pass,| 4 and as he sowed, | seed: and as he as he sowed, some | some _seeds_ fell by| sowed, some fell by _seed_ fell by the | the way side, and | the way side; and way side, and the | the birds came and | it was trodden birds came and | 5 devoured them: and | under foot, and 5 devoured it. And | others fell upon the| the birds of the other fell on the | rocky places, where | heaven devoured rocky _ground_, | they had not much | 6 it. And other fell where it had not | earth: and | on the rock; and much earth; and | straightway they | as soon as it straightway it | sprang up, because | grew, it withered sprang up, because | they had no deepness| away, because it it had no deepness | 6 of earth: and when | had no moisture. 6 of earth: and when | the sun was risen, | the sun was risen, | they were scorched; | it was scorched; and| and because they had| 7 And other fell because it had no | no root, they | amidst the thorns; root, it withered | 7 withered away. And | and the thorns 7 away. And other fell| others fell upon the| grew with it, and among the thorns, | thorns; and the |

For verily I say unto you, that many prophets and righteous men desired to see the things which ye see, and saw them not; and 18 to hear the things which ye hear, and heard them not. Hear then ye 19 the parable of the sower. When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, _then_ cometh the evil _one_, and snatcheth away that which hath been sown in his heart. (b) Parable of the Seed Growing of Itself

Mark 4:26-29

26 And he said, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast 27 seed upon the earth; and should sleep and rise night and day, and 28 the seed should spring up and grow, he knoweth not how. The earth [1]beareth fruit of herself; first the blade, then the ear, then 29 the full corn in the ear. But when the fruit [2]is ripe, straightway he [3]putteth forth the sickle, because the harvest is come [_see Joel 3:13_].

(c) Parable of the Tares

Matt. 13:24-30

24 Another parable set he before them, saying, The kingdom of heaven 25 is likened unto a man that sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed [1]tares also among the wheat, 26 and went away. But when the blade sprang up, and brought forth 27 fruit, then appeared the tares also. And the [2]servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good 28 seed in thy field? whence then hath it tares? And he said unto them, [3]An enemy hath done this. And the [2]servants say unto 29 him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he saith, Nay; lest haply while ye gather up the tares, ye root up the wheat 30 with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather up first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _As unto_.]

(e) Parable of the Leaven and many such Parables

Mark 4:33-34 |Matt. 13:33-35 | |33 Another parable spake he unto | them; The kingdom of heaven is | like unto leaven, which a woman | took, and hid in three | [1]measures of meal, till it | was all leavened. 33 And with many[a] such |34 All these things spake Jesus parables spake he the word unto| in parables unto the multitudes; them, as they were able to hear| and without[a] a parable spake 34 it: and without a parable spake|35 he nothing unto them: that it he not unto them: but privately| might be fulfilled which was to his disciples he expounded | spoken [2]by the prophet, all things. | saying, | I will open my mouth in | parables; | I will utter things hidden | from the foundation [3]of | the world [_see Ps. 78:2_].

[Footnote 1: The word in the Greek denotes the Hebrew seah, a measure containing nearly a peck and a half.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _through_.]

[Footnote a: Note the expression. Matthew gives nine in Chapter 13 and Mark another. There may have been still others on this day.]

2. To the Disciples in the House

(a) Explanation of the Parable of the Tares

Matt. 13:36-43

36 Then he left the multitudes, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Explain unto us the parable of 37 the tares of the field. And he answered and said, He that soweth 38 the good seed is the Son of man; and the field is the world; and the good seed, these are the sons of the kingdom; and the tares 39 are the sons of the evil _one_; and the enemy that sowed them is the devil: and the harvest is [1]the end of the world; and the 40 reapers are angels. As therefore the tares are gathered up and 41 burned with fire; so shall it be in [1]the end of the world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that cause stumbling, and them that do 42 iniquity, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there 43 shall be the weeping and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father [_see Dan. 12:3_]. He that hath ears, let him hear.

[Footnote 1: Or, _the consummation of the age_.]

(b) The Parable of the Hid Treasure

Matt. 13:44

44 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in the field; which a man found, and hid; and [1]in his joy he goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

[Footnote 1: Or, _for joy thereof_.]

(c) The Parable of the Pearl of Great Price

Matt. 13:45-46

45 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a 46 merchant seeking goodly pearls: and having found one pearl of great price, he went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

(d) The Parable of the Net

Matt. 13:47-50

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a [1]net, that was cast 48 into the sea, and gathered of every kind: which, when it was filled, they drew up on the beach; and they sat down, and gathered 49 the good into vessels, but the bad they cast away. So shall it be in [2]the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever 50 the wicked from among the righteous, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be the weeping and gnashing of teeth.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _dragnet_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _consummation of the age_.]

(e) The Parable of the Householder

Matt. 13:51-53

51 Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea. And 52 he said unto them, Therefore every scribe who hath been made a disciple to the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old. 53 And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished these parables,[a] he departed thence.

[Footnote a: Eight of these ten parables go in pairs (the sower and the seed growing of itself, the tares and the net, the mustard seed and the leaven, the hid treasure and the pearl of great price). But nothing can be made out of the number of the parables spoken on this day. We do not even know what the number was. Jesus had spoken various shorter and more or less isolated parables before this occasion. An immediate occasion for the use of so many and such extended parables at this point was the hostility of the Pharisees and the need of special instruction for the disciples who were taught by Jesus how to interpret parables, though they had much difficulty later in applying the instruction about the parabolic teaching.]

If this village was included (a very natural supposition) in the district belonging to the city of Gadara, some miles south-eastward, then the locality could be described as either in the country of the Gadarenes, or in the country of the Gerasenes.]

Sect. 67. THE RETURN AND THE HEALING OF JAIRUS' DAUGHTER AND OF THE WOMAN WHO ONLY TOUCHED CHRIST'S GARMENT

Sect. 68. HE HEALS TWO BLIND MEN, AND A DUMB DEMONIAC. A BLASPHEMOUS ACCUSATION

Matt. 9:27-34

27 And as Jesus passed by from thence, two blind men followed him, 28 crying out, and saying, Have mercy on us, thou son of David. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They 29 say unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, 30 According to your faith be it done unto you. And their eyes were opened. And Jesus [1]strictly charged them, saying, See that no 31 man know it. But they went forth, and spread abroad his fame in all that land. 32 And as they went forth, behold, there was brought to him a dumb 33 man possessed with a [2]devil. And when the [2]devil was cast out, the dumb man spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was 34 never so seen in Israel. But the Pharisees said, [3]By the prince of the [4]devils casteth he out [4]devils.

[Footnote a: There is no sufficient occasion to identify this visit to Nazareth with that described by Luke. That was at the very beginning of the great ministry in Galilee, and this is near its close. The details are quite different. It is perfectly natural that after a long interval he should give the Nazarenes another opportunity to hear his teaching, and to witness miracles, which he would not work for them when demanded, but now voluntarily works in a few cases, so far as their now _wonderful_ unbelief left it appropriate.]

In Sections 70 to 71 we have the Third Tour of Galilee (Jesus following the Twelve) and the effect on Herod Antipas.

Sect. 70. THE THIRD TOUR OF GALILEE AFTER INSTRUCTING THE TWELVE AND SENDING THEM FORTH BY TWOS

But beware of men: for they will deliver you up to councils, and in their 18 synagogues they will scourge you; yea and before governors and kings shall ye be brought for my sake, for a testimony to them and 19 to the Gentiles. But when they deliver you up, be not anxious how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that hour 20 what ye shall speak. For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit 21 of your Father that speaketh in you. And brother shall deliver up brother to death, and the father his child: and children shall 22 rise up against parents, and [6]cause them to be put to death. And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that 23 endureth to the end, the same shall be saved. But when they persecute you in this city, flee into the next: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not have gone through the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come. 24 A disciple is not above his [7]master, nor a [8]servant above his 25 lord. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his [7]master, and the [8]servant as his lord. If they have called the master of the house [9]Beelzebub, how much more _shall they call_ them of 26 his household! Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be 27 known. What I tell you in the darkness, speak ye in the light: and 28 what ye hear in the ear, proclaim upon the housetops. And be not afraid of them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and 29 body in [10]hell. Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and 30 not one of them shall fall on the ground without your Father: but 31 the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore; 32 ye are of more value than many sparrows. Every one therefore who shall confess [11]me before men, [12]him will I also confess 33 before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven. 34 Think not that I came to [13]send peace on the earth: I came not 35 to [13]send peace, but a sword. For I came to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, 36 and the daughter in law against her mother in law: and a man's 37 foes _shall be_ they of his own household [_see Micah 7:6_]. He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. 38 And he that doth not take his cross and follow after me, is not 39 worthy of me. He that [14]findeth his [15]life shall lose it; and he that [16]loseth his [15]life for my sake shall find it [_see John 12:25_]. 40 He that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me 41 receiveth him that sent me [_see John 13:20_]. He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward; and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous 42 man shall receive a righteous man's reward. And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward. | | 12 And they went out,| 1 And it came to | 6 And they and preached that | pass, when Jesus had| departed, and went _men_ should repent.| made an end of | throughout the And they cast out | commanding his | villages, many [3]devils, and | twelve disciples, he| preaching the anointed with oil | departed thence to | gospel, and healing many that were sick,| teach and preach in | everywhere. and healed them. | their cities. |

Sect. 71. THE GUILTY FEARS OF HEROD ANTIPAS IN TIBERIAS ABOUT JESUS BECAUSE HE HAD BEHEADED THE BAPTIST IN MACHAERUS

[Footnote a: Mark's connection shows that Herod Antipas was impressed by the account of miracles which the disciples had wrought, as well as by those of Jesus himself.]

[Footnote b: Josephus (_Antiquities_, Book XVIII, v., 2) says of John that Herod "thought it best, by putting him to death, to prevent any mischief he might cause, and not bring himself into difficulties, by sparing a man who might make him repent of it when it should be too late." Josephus in no wise controverts the picture in Mark where Herodias appears as the one who prods Antipas to put John out of the way to satisfy her resentment against him for his rebuke of her adulterous marriage. Josephus merely presents the public and political aspects of the imprisonment and death of John.]

PART VIII

THE SPECIAL TRAINING OF THE TWELVE IN DISTRICTS AROUND GALILEE

Probably Passover in A.D. 29[a] to near Tabernacles in A.D. 29 or a year earlier (six months from spring to autumn). Just a year from the beginning of this Period till the Crucifixion. Emphasis now on the King of the Kingdom (the Person of the Messiah).

Sects. 72-95. Four separate withdrawals[b] from Galilee are given, in Sects. 72, 78, 79, 81. Notice that in every case he keeps out of Herod's territory, and in every case he goes to the mountains.

[Footnote a: If the ministry of Jesus was three and a half years in length. If there were only three passovers in the ministry, then the year would be A.D. 28. This period begins just before a passover (John 6:4).]

[Footnote b: There are five reasons for the withdrawals from Galilee. He withdraws from the jealousy of Herod Antipas (Sect. 71), from the fanaticism of would-be followers in Galilee (John 6:15), and the hostility of the Jewish rulers; and leaving the hot shores of the Lake of Galilee, he spent the summer in mountain districts around, resting, and _instructing the Twelve_.]

Sect. 76. THE COLLAPSE OF THE GALILEAN CAMPAIGN BECAUSE JESUS WILL NOT CONFORM TO POPULAR MESSIANIC EXPECTATIONS

The next day in the Synagogue in Capernaum. The same crowd that had eaten the Loaves and the Fishes leave Christ in disgust on learning that He is the Bread of Life and not a Political Messiah.

John 6:22-71

22 On the morrow the multitude which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other [1]boat there, save one, and that Jesus entered not with his disciples into the boat, but 23 _that_ his disciples went away alone (howbeit there came [2]boats from Tiberias nigh unto the place where they ate the bread after 24 the Lord had given thanks): when the multitude therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they themselves got 25 into the [2]boats, and came to Capernaum, seeking Jesus. And when they found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, 26 Rabbi, when camest thou hither? Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw 27 signs, but because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled. Work not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat which abideth unto eternal life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him 28 the Father, _even_ God, hath sealed. They said therefore unto him, 29 What must we do, that we may work the works of God? Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on 30 him whom [3]he hath sent. They said therefore unto him, What then doest thou for a sign, that we may see, and believe thee? what 31 workest thou? Our fathers ate the manna in the wilderness; as it is written, He gave them bread out of heaven to eat [_see Ex. 32 16:4, 15; Ps. 78:24; Neh. 9:15_]. Jesus therefore said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, It was not Moses that gave you the bread out of heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread out 33 of heaven. For the bread of God is that which cometh down out of 34 heaven, and giveth life unto the world. They said therefore unto 35 him, Lord, evermore give us this bread. Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall not hunger, and he 36 that believeth on me shall never thirst. But I said unto you, that 37 ye have seen me, and yet believe not. All that which the Father giveth me shall come unto me; and him that cometh to me I will in 38 no wise cast out. For I am come down from heaven, not to do mine 39 own will, but the will of him that sent me. And this is the will of him that sent me, that of all that which he hath given me I 40 should lose nothing, but should raise it up at the last day. For this is the will of my Father, that every one that beholdeth the Son, and believeth on him, should have eternal life; and [4]I will raise him up at the last day. 41 The Jews therefore murmured concerning him, because he said, I am 42 the bread which came down out of heaven. And they said, Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? 43 how doth he now say, I am come down out of heaven? Jesus answered 44 and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves. No man can come to me, except the Father which sent me draw him: and I will raise 45 him up in the last day. It is written in the prophets [_see Isa. 54:13_], And they shall all be taught of God. Every one that hath 46 heard from the Father, and hath learned, cometh unto me. Not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is from God, he hath 47 seen the Father. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth 48 hath eternal life. I am the bread of life. Your fathers did eat 49 the manna in the wilderness, and they died. This is the bread 50 which cometh down out of heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and 51 not die. I am the living bread which came down out of heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: yea and the bread which I will give is my flesh, for the life of the world. 52 The Jews therefore strove one with another, saying, How can this 53 man give us his flesh to eat? Jesus therefore said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son 54 of man and drink his blood, ye have not life in yourselves. He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life; and 55 I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is [5]meat 56 indeed, and my blood is [6]drink indeed. He that eateth my flesh 57 and drinketh my blood abideth in me, and I in him. As the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father; so he that 58 eateth me, he also shall live because of me. This is the bread which came down out of heaven: not as the fathers did eat, and 59 died: he that eateth this bread shall live for ever. These things said he in [7]the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum. 60 Many therefore of his disciples, when they heard _this_, said, 61 This is a hard saying; who can hear [8]it? But Jesus knowing in himself that his disciples murmured at this, said unto them, Doth 62 this cause you to stumble? _What_ then if ye should behold the Son 63 of man ascending where he was before? It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I have 64 spoken unto you are spirit, and are life. But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning who they 65 were that believed not, and who it was that should betray him. And he said, For this cause have I said unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it be given unto him of the Father. 66 Upon this many of his disciples went back, and walked no more 67 with him. Jesus said therefore unto the twelve, Would ye also go 68 away? Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou 69 [9]hast the words of eternal life. And we have believed and know 70 that thou art the Holy One of God. Jesus answered them, Did not I 71 choose you the twelve, and one of you is a devil? Now he spake of Judas _the son_ of Simon Iscariot, for he it was that should betray him, _being_ one of the twelve.

Sect. 79. THE THIRD WITHDRAWAL NORTH THROUGH PHOENICIA AND EAST TOWARDS HERMON AND SOUTH INTO DECAPOLIS (KEEPING OUT OF THE TERRITORY OF HEROD ANTIPAS) WITH THE HEALING OF THE DEAF AND DUMB MAN AND THE FEEDING OF THE FOUR THOUSAND

[Footnote a: Observe how carefully he keeps away from the territory ruled by Herod Antipas. The tetrarch Philip, who governed the districts east of the Lake of Galilee and of the upper Jordan, was a better man than Antipas, and moreover had no cause to feel uneasy about Jesus.]

[Footnote b: It is to be noted that Mark and Matthew give the feeding of the five thousand and of the four thousand. Mark and Matthew likewise report Jesus as referring to both incidents (Mark 8:19-20 = Matt. 16:9-10). Hence, it is hard to think of a mere confusion in the use of the data. There is no real reason why both incidents could not be true.]

Sect. 80. THE BRIEF VISIT TO MAGADAN (DALMANUTHA) IN GALILEE AND THE SHARP ATTACK BY THE PHARISEES AND THE SADDUCEES (NOTE THEIR APPEARANCE NOW AGAINST JESUS)

Sect. 81. THE FOURTH RETIREMENT TO BETHSAIDA JULIAS IN THE TETRARCHY OF HEROD PHILIP WITH SHARP REBUKE OF THE DULNESS OF THE DISCIPLES ON THE WAY ACROSS AND THE HEALING OF A BLIND MAN IN BETHSAIDA

Mark 8:13-26 |Matt. 16:5-12 | 13 And | he left them, and again | entering into _the boat_ | departed to the other side. | 14 And they forgot to take | 5 And the disciples came to the bread; and they had not in the | other side and forgot to take boat with them more than one | 6 [1]bread. And he took hold of the blind man by the hand, and brought him out of the village; and when he had spit on his eyes, and laid his hands upon him, he asked him, 24 Seest thou aught? And he looked up, and said, I see men; for I 25 behold _them_ as trees, walking. Then again he laid his hands upon his eyes; and he looked stedfastly, and was restored, and saw all 26 things clearly. And he sent him away to his home, saying, Do not even enter into the village.

[Footnote 6: _Basket_ in ver. 19 and 20 represents different Greek words.]

[Footnote a: Jesus goes on to the region of Caesarea Philippi on Mount Hermon, where no hostility had been aroused, and he could quietly instruct the Twelve. He probably remained in that vicinity several months, as this whole period of retirement lasted six months. He was near Bethsaida Julias in the First Retirement and now he stops here again on his way to Caesarea Philippi. Each of the four retirements is into heathen territory (Ituraea twice, Phoenicia, Decapolis), where Greek influence prevails, and where the Greek language is dominant.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _Petros_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _petra_.]

[Footnote a: Some understand ver. 16f. as showing that they had never before believed him to be the Messiah, and so hold that the other Gospels here utterly conflict with John, who represents the first disciples (Sects. 28, 35) as believing Jesus to be the Messiah. But it is easy to suppose that their early faith in his Messiahship was shaken by his continued failure to gather armies and set up the expected temporal kingdom, and while still believing him to have a divine mission they had questioned whether he was the Messiah, as John the Baptist did in prison (Sect. 57). Observe that in Matthew and Luke he long before this time distinctively _implied_ that he was the Messiah, in response to the Forerunner's inquiries (Sect. 57). Besides, at the Baptism and the Temptation, the Synoptic Gospels represent Jesus as the Son of God.]

[Footnote b: It is interesting to note that the imagery employed by Jesus here all appears in Ps. 89, a Messianic Psalm built on 2 Sam. 7. Thus note "build" in Ps. 89:4, "rock" in 89:26, "anointed" in 89:38, "the power of Sheol" in 89:48, and the Psalm discusses the perpetuity of the Davidic throne (Kingdom). Jesus applies this imagery to the spiritual Kingdom that He is building.]

Sect. 83. JESUS DISTINCTLY FORETELLS THAT HE, THE MESSIAH, WILL BE REJECTED AND KILLED, AND WILL RISE THE THIRD DAY

Matt. 17:24-27

24 And when they were come to Capernaum, they that received the [1]half-shekel came to Peter, and said, Doth not your [2]master 25 pay the [1]half-shekel [_see Ex. 30:11-15_]? He saith, Yea. And when he came into the house, Jesus spake first to him, saying, What thinkest thou, Simon? the kings of the earth, from whom do they receive toll or tribute? from their sons, or from strangers? 26 And when he said, From strangers, Jesus said unto him, Therefore 27 the sons are free. But, lest we cause them to stumble, go thou to the sea, and cast a hook, and take up the fish that first cometh up; and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find a [3]shekel: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

Sect. 92. RIGHT TREATMENT OF A BROTHER WHO HAS SINNED AGAINST ONE, AND DUTY OF PATIENTLY FORGIVING A BROTHER (PARABLE OF THE UNMERCIFUL SERVANT)

Matt. 18:15-35

15 And if thy brother sin [1]against thee, go, shew him his fault between thee and him alone: if he hear thee, thou hast gained thy 16 brother. But if he hear _thee_ not, take with thee one or two more, that at the mouth of two witnesses or three every word may 17 be established [_see Deut. 19:15_]. And if he refuse to hear them, tell it unto the [2]church: and if he refuse to hear the [2]church 18 also, let him be unto thee as the Gentile and the publican. Verily I say unto you, What things soever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and what things soever ye shall loose on earth 19 shall be loosed in heaven. Again I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything that they shall ask, 20 it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. 21 Then came Peter, and said to him, Lord, how oft shall my brother 22 sin against me, and I forgive him? until seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times; but, Until 23 [3]seventy times seven. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened[a] unto a certain king, which would make a reckoning with 24 his [4]servants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought 25 unto him, which owed him ten thousand [5]talents. But forasmuch as he had not _wherewith_ to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be 26 made. The [6]servant therefore fell down and worshipped him, 27 saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And the lord of that [6]servant, being moved with compassion, released 28 him, and forgave him the [7]debt. But that [6]servant went out, and found one of his fellow-servants, which owed him a hundred [8]pence: and he laid hold on him, and took _him_ by the throat, 29 saying, Pay what thou owest. So his fellow-servant fell down and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee. 30 And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he 31 should pay that which was due. So when his fellow-servants saw what was done, they were exceeding sorry, and came and told unto 32 their lord all that was done. Then his lord called him unto him, and saith unto him, Thou wicked [6]servant, I forgave thee all 33 that debt, because thou besoughtest me: shouldest not thou also have had mercy on thy fellow-servant, even as I had mercy on 34 thee?[b] And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the 35 tormentors, till he should pay all that was due. So shall also my heavenly Father do unto you, if ye forgive not every one his brother from your hearts.

Sect. 94. THE UNBELIEVING BROTHERS OF JESUS COUNSEL HIM TO EXHIBIT HIMSELF IN JUDEA, AND HE REJECTS THE ADVICE

John 7:2-9

2 Now the feast of the Jews, the feast of tabernacles, was at hand. 3 His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy disciples also may behold thy works which thou 4 doest. For no man doeth anything in secret, [1]and himself seeketh to be known openly. If thou doest these things, manifest thyself 5 to the world. For even his brethren did not believe on him. Jesus 6 therefore saith unto them, My time is not yet come; but your time 7 is alway ready. The world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, 8 because I testify of it, that its works are evil. Go ye up unto the feast: I go not up [2]yet unto this feast; because my time is 9 not yet fulfilled. And having said these things unto them, he abode _still_ in Galilee.

[Footnote 1: Some ancient authorities read _and seeketh it to be known openly_.]

[Footnote 2: Many ancient authorities omit _yet_.]

Sect. 95. HE GOES PRIVATELY TO JERUSALEM THROUGH SAMARIA

Luke 9:51-56 |John 7:10 | 51 And it came to pass, when |10 But when his brethren were the days [1]were well-nigh come| gone up unto the feast, then that he should be received up, | went he also up, not publicly, he stedfastly set his face to | but as it were in secret. 52 go to Jerusalem,[a] and sent | messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a 53 village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. And they did not receive him, because his face was _as though he were_ going to 54 Jerusalem. And when his disciples James and John saw _this_, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we bid fire to come down from heaven, 55 and consume them[2] [_see 2 Kings 1:10-12_]? But he turned, and 56 rebuked them[3]. And they went to another village.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _were being fulfilled_.]

[Footnote 2: Many ancient authorities add, _even as Elijah did_.]

[Footnote 3: Some ancient authorities add, _and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of._ Some, but fewer, add also _For the Son of man came not to destroy men's lives, but to save_ them.]

PART IX

THE LATER JUDEAN MINISTRY

(Probably Tabernacles to Dedication, about three months, in A.D. 29 or 28 if Ministry only two and a half years in length)

This ministry is given only by John and Luke. John gives the Jerusalem ministry and Luke that in the country of Judea. Sects. 96-111.

Sect. 96. THE COMING OF JESUS TO THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES CREATES INTENSE EXCITEMENT CONCERNING THE MESSIAHSHIP

The attempt of the rulers (the Jews, the chief priests, and Pharisees) to arrest him. Division of sentiment in the Galilean multitude at the feast. Impressions of the Jerusalem populace and the Roman officers and of Nicodemus.

John 7:11-52

11 The Jews therefore sought him at the feast, and said, Where is 12 he? And there was much murmuring among the multitudes concerning him: some said, He is a good man; others said, Not so, but he 13 leadeth the multitude astray. Howbeit no man spake openly of him for fear of the Jews. 14 But when it was now the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the 15 temple, and taught. The Jews therefore marvelled, saying, How 16 knoweth this man letters, having never learned? Jesus therefore answered them, and said, My teaching is not mine, but his that 17 sent me. If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching, whether it be of God, or whether I speak from myself. 18 He that speaketh from himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh the glory of him that sent him, the same is true, and no 19 unrighteousness is in him. Did not Moses give you the law, and 20 _yet_ none of you doeth the law? Why seek ye to kill me? The multitude answered, Thou hast a [1]devil: who seeketh to kill 21 thee? Jesus answered and said unto them, I did one work, and ye 22 all [2]marvel. For this cause hath Moses given you circumcision (not that it is of Moses, but of the fathers); and on the sabbath 23 ye circumcise a man [_see Gen. 17:9-14; Lev. 12:1-3_]. If a man receiveth circumcision on the sabbath, that the law of Moses may not be broken; are ye wroth with me, because I made a man every 24 whit whole on the sabbath? Judge not according to appearance, but judge righteous judgement. 25 Some therefore of them of Jerusalem said, Is not this he whom 26 they seek to kill? And lo, he speaketh openly, and they say nothing unto him. Can it be that the rulers indeed know that this is the 27 Christ? Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when the Christ 28 cometh, no one knoweth whence he is. Jesus therefore cried in the temple, teaching and saying, Ye both know me, and know whence I am; and I am not come of myself, but he that sent me is true, whom 29 ye know not. I know him; because I am from him, and he sent me. 30 They sought therefore to take him: and no man laid his hand on 31 him, because his hour was not yet come. But of the multitude many believed on him; and they said, When the Christ shall come, will 32 he do more signs than those which this man hath done? The Pharisees heard the multitude murmuring these things concerning him; and the chief priests and the Pharisees sent officers to take 33 him. Jesus therefore said, Yet a little while am I with you, and I 34 go unto him that sent me. Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: 35 and where I am, ye cannot come. The Jews therefore said among themselves, Whither will this man go that we shall not find him? will he go unto the Dispersion [3]among the Greeks, and teach the 36 Greeks? What is this word that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, ye cannot come? 37 Now on the last day, the great _day_ of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and 38 drink. He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of 39 his belly shall flow rivers of living water. But this spake he of the Spirit, which they that believed on him were to receive: [4]for the Spirit was not yet _given_; because Jesus was not yet 40 glorified. _Some_ of the multitude therefore, when they heard 41 these words, said, This is of a truth the prophet. Others said, This is the Christ. But some said, What, doth the Christ come out 42 of Galilee? Hath not the scripture said that the Christ cometh of the seed of David, and from Bethlehem [_see 2 Sam. 7:12, 17; 43 Mic. 5:2_], the village where David was? So there arose a division 44 in the multitude because of him. And some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him. 45 The officers therefore came to the chief priests[a] and 46 Pharisees; and they said unto them, Why did ye not bring him? The 47 officers answered, Never man so spake. The Pharisees therefore 48 answered them, Are ye also led astray? Hath any of the rulers 49 believed on him, or of the Pharisees? But this multitude which 50 knoweth not the law are accursed. Nicodemus saith unto them (he 51 that came to him before, being one of them), Doth our law judge a 52 man, except it first hear from himself and know what he doeth? They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and [5]see that out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

[Footnote a: The Sanhedrin included both Sadducees (chief priests) and Pharisees. Nicodemus was a member of the Sanhedrin and a Pharisee. Now both parties in the Sanhedrin were united against Jesus and the purpose was to bring Jesus before the Sanhedrin for trial.]

Sect. 97. STORY OF AN ADULTERESS BROUGHT TO JESUS FOR JUDGMENT

John 7:53 to 8:11[a]

53, 1 [1][And they went every man unto his own house: but Jesus went 2 unto the mount of Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat 3 down, and taught them. And the scribes and the Pharisees bring a 4 woman taken in adultery; and having set her in the midst, they say unto him, [2]Master, this woman hath been taken in adultery, in 5 the very act. Now in the law Moses commanded us to stone such [_see Lev. 20:10; Deut. 22:22-24_]: what then sayest thou of her? 6 And this they said, [3]tempting him, that they might have _whereof_ to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his 7 finger wrote on the ground. But when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin 8 among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again he stooped 9 down, and with his finger wrote on the ground. And they, when they heard it, went out one by one, beginning from the eldest, _even_ unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman, where she 10 was, in the midst. And Jesus lifted up himself, and said unto her, 11 Woman, where are they? did no man condemn thee? And she said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said, Neither do I condemn thee: go thy way; from henceforth sin no more.]

[Footnote 1: Most of the ancient authorities omit John 7:53-8:11. Those which contain it vary much from each other.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _Teacher_.]

[Footnote 3: Or, _trying_.]

[Footnote a: This paragraph can no longer be considered a part of the Gospel of John, but it is in all probability a true story of Jesus, very likely drawn by early students from the collection of Papias, published about A.D. 140. See Hovey on John (American Comm. on N. T.). Observe that without it Sect. 98 goes right on after Sect. 96.]

Sect. 98. AFTER THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES IN THE TEMPLE JESUS ANGERS THE PHARISEES BY CLAIMING TO BE THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD

John 8:12-20

12 Again therefore Jesus spake unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, 13 but shall have the light of life. The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest witness of thyself; thy witness is not 14 true. Jesus answered and said unto them, Even if I bear witness of myself, my witness is true; for I know whence I came, and whither 15 I go; but ye know not whence I come, or whither I go. Ye judge 16 after the flesh; I judge no man. Yea and if I judge, my judgement is true; for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me. 17 Yea and in your law it is written, that the witness of two men is 18 true [_see Deut. 17:6; 19:15_]. I am he that beareth witness of 19 myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me. They said therefore unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, Ye know neither me, nor my Father: if ye knew me, ye would know my 20 Father also. These words spake he in the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and no man took him; because his hour was not yet come.

Sect. 99. THE PHARISEES ATTEMPT TO STONE JESUS WHEN HE EXPOSES THEIR SINFULNESS

Jerusalem, probably in the Temple

John 8:21-59

21 He said therefore again unto them, I go away, and ye shall seek 22 me, and shall die in your sin: whither I go, ye cannot come. The Jews therefore said, Will he kill himself, that he saith, Whither 23 I go, ye cannot come? And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; 24 I am from above: ye are of this world; I am not of this world. I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for except ye believe that [1]I am _he_, ye shall die in your sins. 25 They said therefore unto him, Who art thou? Jesus said unto them, [2]Even that which I have also spoken unto you from the beginning. 26 I have many things to speak and to judge concerning you: howbeit he that sent me is true; and the things which I heard from him, 27 these speak I [3]unto the world. They perceived not that he spake 28 to them of the Father. Jesus therefore said, When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that [4]I am _he_, and _that_ I do nothing of myself, but as the Father taught me, I speak these 29 things. And he that sent me is with me; he hath not left me alone; 30 for I do always the things that are pleasing to him. As he spake these things, many believed on him. 31 Jesus therefore said to those Jews which had believed him, If ye 32 abide in my word, _then_ are ye truly my disciples; and ye shall 33 know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered unto him, We be Abraham's seed, and have never yet been in bondage 34 to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free? Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Every one that committeth 35 sin is the bondservant of sin. And the bondservant abideth not in 36 the house for ever: the son abideth for ever. If therefore the Son 37 shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. I know that ye are Abraham's seed; yet ye seek to kill me, because my word [5]hath 38 not free course in you. I speak the things which I have seen with [6]_my_ Father: and ye also do the things which ye heard from 39 _your_ father. They answered and said unto him, Our Father is Abraham. Jesus saith unto them, If ye [7]were Abraham's children, 40 [8]ye would do the works of Abraham. But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I heard from God: this did 41 not Abraham. Ye do the works of your father. They said unto him, We were not born of fornication; we have one Father, _even_ God. 42 Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me: for I came forth and am come from God; for neither have I come of 43 myself, but he sent me. Why do ye not [9]understand my speech? 44 _Even_ because ye cannot hear my word. Ye are of _your_ father the devil, and the lusts of your father it is your will to do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and [10]stood not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. [11]When he speaketh a lie, he 45 speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father thereof. But 46 because I say the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you 47 convicteth me of sin? If I say truth, why do ye not believe me? He that is of God heareth the words of God: for this cause ye hear 48 _them_ not, because ye are not of God. The Jews answered and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a 49 [12]devil? Jesus answered, I have not a [12]devil; but I honour my 50 Father, and ye dishonour me. But I seek not mine own glory: there 51 is one that seeketh and judgeth. Verily, verily, I say unto you, 52 If a man keep my word, he shall never see death. The Jews said unto him, Now we know that thou hast a [12]devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my word, he shall 53 never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou 54 thyself? Jesus answered, If I glorify myself, my glory is nothing: it is my Father that glorifieth me; of whom ye say, that he is 55 your God; and ye have not known him: but I know him; and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be like unto you, a liar: but 56 I know him, and keep his word. Your father Abraham rejoiced [13]to 57 see my day; and he saw it, and was glad. The Jews therefore said unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen 58 Abraham? Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, 59 Before Abraham [14]was, I am. They took up stones therefore to cast at him: but Jesus [15]hid himself, and went out of the temple[16].

Sect. 100. JESUS HEALS A MAN BORN BLIND WHO OUTWITS THE PHARISEES. THE RULERS FORBID THE RECOGNITION OF JESUS AS THE MESSIAH. THE CONVERSION OF THE HEALED MAN

Jerusalem

John 9:1-41

1, 2 And as he passed by, he saw a man blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Rabbi, who did sin, this man, or his 3 parents, that he should be born blind? Jesus answered, Neither did this man sin, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be 4 made manifest in him. We must work the works of him that sent me, 5 while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. When I am 6 in the world, I am the light of the world. When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, [1]and 7 anointed his eyes with the clay, and said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent). He went 8 away therefore, and washed, and came seeing. The neighbours therefore, and they which saw him aforetime, that he was a beggar, 9 said, Is not this he that sat and begged? Others said, It is he: 10 others said, No, but he is like him. He said, I am _he_. They said 11 therefore unto him, How then were thine eyes opened? He answered, The man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to Siloam, and wash: so I went away and 12 washed, and I received sight. And they said unto him, Where is he? He saith, I know not. 13, 14 They bring to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind. Now it was the sabbath on the day when Jesus made the clay, and opened 15 his eyes. Again therefore the Pharisees also asked him how he received his sight. And he said unto them, He put clay upon mine 16 eyes, and I washed, and do see. Some therefore of the Pharisees said, This man is not from God, because he keepeth not the sabbath. But others said, How can a man that is a sinner do such 17 signs? And there was a division among them. They say therefore unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, in that he 18 opened thine eyes? And he said, He is a prophet. The Jews therefore did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and had received his sight, until they called the parents of him 19 that had received his sight, and asked them, saying, Is this your 20 son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see? His parents answered and said, We know that this is our son, and that 21 he was born blind: but how he now seeth, we know not; or who opened his eyes, we know not: ask him; he is of age; he shall 22 speak for himself. These things said his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man should confess him _to be_ Christ, he should be put out of the 23 synagogue. Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him. So 24 they called the second time the man that was blind, and said unto 25 him, Give glory to God: we know that this man is a sinner. He therefore answered,

Whether he be a sinner, I know not: one thing 26 I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see. They said therefore 27 unto him, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes? He answered them, I told you even now, and ye did not hear: wherefore 28 would ye hear it again? would ye also become his disciples? And they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are 29 disciples of Moses. We know that God hath spoken unto Moses: but 30 as for this man, we know not whence he is. The man answered and said unto them, Why, herein is the marvel, that ye know not whence 31 he is, and _yet_ he opened mine eyes. We know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and do his will, 32 him he heareth. Since the world began it was never heard that any 33 one opened the eyes of a man born blind. If this man were not from 34 God, he could do nothing. They answered and said unto him, Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they cast him out. 35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and finding him, he said, 36 Dost thou believe on [2]the Son of God? He answered and said, And 37 who is he, Lord, that I may believe on him? Jesus said unto him, 38 Thou hast both seen him, and he it is that speaketh with thee. And 39 he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him. And Jesus said, For judgement came I into this world, that they which see not may 40 see; and that they which see may become blind. Those of the Pharisees which were with him heard these things, and said unto 41 him, Are we also blind? Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye would have no sin: but now ye say, We see: your sin remaineth.

[Footnote 1: Or, _and with the clay thereof anointed_ his _eyes_.]

[Footnote 2: Many ancient authorities read _the Son of man_.]

Sect. 101. IN THE PARABLE (ALLEGORY) OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD JESUS DRAWS THE PICTURE OF THE HOSTILE PHARISEES AND INTIMATES THAT HE IS GOING TO DIE FOR HIS FLOCK AND COME TO LIFE AGAIN

Jerusalem

John 10:1-21

1 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the fold of the sheep, but climbeth up some other way, the 2 same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door 3 is [1]the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, 4 and leadeth them out. When he hath put forth all his own, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. 5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for 6 they know not the voice of strangers. This [2]parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them. 7 Jesus therefore said unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto 8 you, I am the door of the sheep. All that came before me are 9 thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go 10 in and go out, and shall find pasture. The thief cometh not, but that he may steal, and kill, and destroy: I came that they may 11 have life, and may [3]have _it_ abundantly. I am the good 12 shepherd: the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. He that is a hireling, and not a shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, beholdeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth, 13 and the wolf snatcheth them, and scattereth _them_: _he fleeth_ 14 because he is a hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am the 15 good shepherd; and I know mine own, and mine own know me, even as the Father knoweth me, and I know the Father; and I lay down my 16 life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold [_see Ezek. 34:23; 37:24_]: them also I must [4]bring, and they shall hear my voice; and [5]they shall become one flock, one 17 shepherd. Therefore doth the Father love me, because I lay down my 18 life, that I may take it again. No one [6]taketh it away from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have [7]power to lay it down, and I have [7]power to take it again. This commandment received I from my Father. 19 There arose a division again among the Jews because of these 20 words. And many of them said, He hath a [8]devil, and is mad; why 21 hear ye him? Others said, These are not the sayings of one possessed with a [8]devil. Can a [8]devil open the eyes of the blind?

In Sects.102-110 we have matters given by Luke only, which probably occurred in Judea. Several of them are similar to events and discourses of the ministry in Galilee, given by Matthew and Mark.[a]

Sect. 102. MISSION OF THE SEVENTY. CHRIST'S JOY IN THEIR WORK ON THEIR RETURN

(Compare Mission of the Twelve in Sect. 70.)

Probably in Judea

Luke 10:1-24

1 Now after these things the Lord appointed seventy[1] others, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, 2 whither he himself was about to come. And he said unto them, The harvest is plenteous, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth labourers into his 3 harvest. Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs in the 4 midst of wolves. Carry no purse, no wallet, no shoes: and salute 5 no man on the way. And into whatsoever house ye shall [2]enter, 6 first say, Peace _be_ to this house. And if a son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon [3]him: but if not, it shall 7 turn to you again. And in that same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: for the labourer is worthy of 8 his hire. Go not from house to house. And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before 9 you: and heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, The 10 kingdom of God is come nigh unto you. But into whatsoever city ye shall enter, and they receive you not, go out into the streets 11 thereof and say, Even the dust from your city, that cleaveth to our feet, we do wipe off against you: howbeit know this, that the 12 kingdom of God is come nigh. I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable in that day for Sodom, than for that city [_see Gen. 13 19:24_]. Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the [4]mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which were done in you, they would have repented long ago, sitting in 14 sackcloth and ashes. Howbeit it shall be more tolerable for Tyre 15 and Sidon in the judgement, than for you. And thou, Capernaum, shalt thou be exalted unto heaven? thou shalt be brought down unto 16 Hades [_see Isa. 14:13-15_]. He that heareth you heareth me; and he that rejecteth you rejecteth me; and he that rejecteth me rejecteth him that sent me. 17 And the seventy returned with joy, saying, Lord, even the 18 [5]devils are subject unto us in thy name. And he said unto them, 19 I beheld Satan fallen as lightning from heaven. Behold, I have given you authority to tread upon serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall in any wise hurt 20 you. Howbeit in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rejoice that your names are written in heaven. 21 In that same hour he rejoiced [6]in the Holy Spirit, and said, I [7]thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou didst hide these things from the wise and understanding, and didst reveal them unto babes: yea, Father; [8]for so it was 22 well-pleasing in thy sight. All things have been delivered unto me of my Father: and no one knoweth who the Son is, save the Father; and who the Father is, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son 23 willeth to reveal _him_. And turning to the disciples, he said privately, Blessed _are_ the eyes which see the things that ye see: 24 for I say unto you, that many prophets and kings desired to see the things which ye see, and saw them not; and to hear the things which ye hear, and heard them not.

[Footnote 1: Many ancient authorities add _and two_: and so in verse 17.]

Sect. 103. JESUS ANSWERS A LAWYER'S QUESTION AS TO ETERNAL LIFE, GIVING THE PARABLE OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Probably in Judea

Luke 10:25-37

25 And behold, a certain lawyer stood up and tempted him, saying, 26 [1]Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? And he said 27 unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God [2]with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself [_see Deut. 6:5; Lev. 28 19:18_]. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, 29 and thou shalt live [_see Lev. 18:5_]. But he, desiring to justify 30 himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour? Jesus made answer and said, A certain man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho; and he fell among robbers, which both stripped him and 31 beat him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance a certain priest was going down that way: and when he saw him, he 32 passed by on the other side. And in like manner a Levite also, when he came to the place, and saw him, passed by on the other 33 side. But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: 34 and when he saw him, he was moved with compassion, and came to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring on _them_ oil and wine; and he set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took 35 care of him. And on the morrow he took out two [3]pence, and gave them to the host, and said, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou 36 spendest more, I, when I come back again, will repay thee. Which of these three, thinkest thou, proved neighbour unto him that fell 37 among the robbers? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. And Jesus said unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

Sect. 104. JESUS THE GUEST OF MARTHA AND MARY

Bethany, near Jerusalem[a]

Luke 10:38-42

38 Now as they went on their way, he entered into a certain village: 39 and a certain woman named Martha received him into her house. And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at the Lord's feet, 40 and heard his word. But Martha was [1]cumbered about much serving; and she came up to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister did leave me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she 41 help me. But the Lord answered and said unto her, [2]Martha, 42 Martha, thou art anxious and troubled about many things: [3]but one thing is needful: for Mary hath chosen the good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _distracted_.]

[Footnote 2: A few ancient authorities read, _Martha, Martha, thou art troubled: Mary hath chosen etc._]

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities read _but few things are needful, or one_.]

[Footnote a: There was another Bethany beyond Jordan (John 1:28, Sect. 26). We shall see Jesus in Bethany near Jerusalem again (John 12:1-8). It was his Jerusalem home in the early days of Passion Week.]

Sect. 105. JESUS AGAIN GIVES A MODEL OF PRAYER (COMP. SECT. 54), AND ENCOURAGES HIS DISCIPLES TO PRAY. PARABLE OF THE IMPORTUNATE FRIEND

Probably in Judea

Luke 11:1-13

1 And it came to pass, as he was praying in a certain place, that when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us 2 to pray, even as John also taught his disciples. And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, [1]Father, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy 3 kingdom come.[2] Give us day by day [3]our daily bread. And 4 forgive us our sins; for we ourselves also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And bring us not into temptation[4].[a] 5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say to him, Friend, lend me 6 three loaves; for a friend of mine is come to me from a journey, 7 and I have nothing to set before him; and he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my 8 children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee? I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will arise and give him 9 [5]as many as he needeth. And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened 10 unto you. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh 11 findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. And of which of you that is a father shall his son ask [6]a loaf, and he give 12 him a stone? or a fish, and he for a fish give him a serpent? Or 13 _if_ he shall ask an egg, will he give him a scorpion? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall _your_ heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?

[Footnote 1: Many ancient authorities read _Our Father, which art in heaven._ See Matt. 6:9.]

[Footnote 2: Many ancient authorities add _Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth._ See Matt. 6:10.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _our bread for the coming day_.]

[Footnote 4: Many ancient authorities add _but deliver us from the evil_ one (or, _from evil_). See Matt. 6:13.]

[Footnote 5: Or, _whatsoever things_.]

[Footnote 6: Some ancient authorities omit _a loaf, and he give him a stone? or_.]

[Footnote a: The language here is different from that in Matt. 6 (Sect. 54), but the ideas are the same. Evidently the disciples were slow to learn Christ's teaching about prayer.]

Sect. 106. BLASPHEMOUS ACCUSATION OF LEAGUE WITH BEELZEBUB

(Compare Sect. 61)[a]

Probably in Judea

Luke 11:14-36

14 And he was casting out a [1]devil _which was_ dumb. And it came to pass, when the [1]devil was gone out, the dumb man spake; and 15 the multitudes marvelled. But some of them said, [2]By Beelzebub 16 the prince of the [3]devils casteth he out [3]devils. And others, 17 tempting _him_, sought of him a sign from heaven. But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; [4]and a house _divided_ against a 18 house falleth. And if Satan also is divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out [3]devils 19 [2]by Beelzebub. And if I [2]by Beelzebub cast out [3]devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your 20 judges. But if I by the finger of God cast out [3]devils, then is 21 the kingdom of God come upon you. When the strong _man_ fully 22 armed guardeth his own court, his goods are in peace: but when a stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him his whole armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his 23 spoils. He that is not with me is against me; and he that 24 gathereth not with me scattereth. The unclean spirit when [5]he is gone out of the man, passeth through waterless places, seeking rest; and finding none, [5]he saith, I will turn back unto my 25 house whence I came out. And when [5]he is come, [5]he findeth it 26 swept and garnished. Then goeth [5]he, and taketh _to him_ seven other spirits more evil than [6]himself; and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man becometh worse than the first. 27 And it came to pass, as he said these things, a certain woman out of the multitude lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the breasts which thou didst suck. 28 But he said, Yea rather, blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it. 29 And when the multitudes were gathering together unto him, he began to say, This generation is an evil generation: it seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign 30 of Jonah [_see Jonah 3:1-4_]. For even as Jonah became a sign unto the Ninevites, so shall also the Son of man be to this generation. 31 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgement with the men of this generation, and shall condemn them: for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon [_see 1 Kings 32 10:1-3_]; and behold, [7]a greater than Solomon is here. The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgement with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah [_see Jonah 3:5-10_]; and behold, [7]a greater than Jonah is here. 33 No man, when he hath lighted a lamp, putteth it in a cellar, neither under the bushel, but on the stand, that they which enter 34 in may see the light. The lamp of thy body is thine eye: when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but 35 when it is evil, thy body also is full of darkness. Look therefore 36 whether the light that is in thee be not darkness. If therefore thy whole body be full of light, having no part dark, it shall be wholly full of light, as when the lamp with its bright shining doth give thee light.

[Footnote 1: Gr. _demon_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _in_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _demons_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _and house falleth upon house_.]

[Footnote 5: Or, _it_.]

[Footnote 6: Or, _itself_.]

[Footnote 7: Gr. _more than_.]

[Footnote a: It is perfectly natural that the blasphemous accusation made in Galilee (Sect. 61), and probably more than once (Sect. 68, Matt. 9:34), should be repeated a year or so afterward in Judea or Perea, and that Jesus should make substantially the same argument in reply. This sort of thing occurs to every travelling religious teacher. Our Lord does not here give the solemn warning that such an accusation is really blaspheming against the Holy Spirit, and is unpardonable. (See Luke 12:10.) And the subsequent occurrences are quite different in the two cases. In Sect. 64 he afterwards goes out by the lake-side and gives the great group of parables, presently explaining some of them to the disciples in a house, and then crosses the lake to Gerasa, etc. Here in Sect. 107 he breakfasts with a Pharisee, and utters such solemn woes against the Pharisees as are found only in the closing months of his ministry, and then gives to vast multitudes a series of instructions wholly unlike the great group of parables. So it is quite unsuitable to identify this occurrence with that of Sect. 61.]

Sect. 107. WHILE BREAKFASTING WITH A PHARISEE, JESUS SEVERELY DENOUNCES THE PHARISEES AND LAWYERS, AND EXCITES THEIR ENMITY

Probably in Judea

Luke 11:37-54

37 Now as he spake, a Pharisee asketh him to [1]dine with him: and 38 he went in, and sat down to meat. And when the Pharisee saw it, he 39 marvelled that he had not washed before [1]dinner. And the Lord said unto him, Now do ye Pharisees cleanse the outside of the cup and of the platter; but your inward part is full of extortion and 40 wickedness. Ye foolish ones, did not he that made the outside make 41 the inside also? Howbeit give for alms those things which [2]are within; and behold, all things are clean unto you. 42 But woe unto you Pharisees! for ye tithe mint and rue and every herb, and pass over judgement and the love of God [_see Lev. 27:30; Mic. 6:8_]: but these ought ye to have done, and not to 43 leave the other undone. Woe unto you Pharisees! for ye love the chief seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the 44 marketplaces. Woe unto you! for ye are as the tombs which appear not, and the men that walk over _them_ know it not. 45 And one of the lawyers answering saith unto him, [3]Master, in 46 saying this thou reproachest us also. And he said, Woe unto you lawyers also! for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers. 47 Woe unto you! for ye build the tombs of the prophets, and your 48 fathers killed them. So ye are witnesses and consent unto the works of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build _their 49 tombs_. Therefore also said the wisdom of God, I will send unto them prophets and apostles; and _some_ of them they shall kill and 50 persecute; that the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation; 51 from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zachariah [_see Gen. 4:8; 2 Chron. 24:20-21_], who perished between the altar and the [4]sanctuary: yea, I say unto you, it shall be required of this 52 generation. Woe unto you lawyers! for ye took away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered. 53 And when he was come out from thence, the scribes and the Pharisees began to [5]press upon _him_ vehemently, and to provoke 54 him to speak of [6]many things; laying wait for him, to catch something out of his mouth.

Sect. 108. HE SPEAKS TO HIS DISCIPLES AND A VAST THRONG, ABOUT HYPOCRISY, COVETOUSNESS (PARABLE OF THE RICH FOOL), WORLDLY ANXIETIES, WATCHFULNESS (PARABLE OF THE WAITING SERVANTS, AND OF THE WISE STEWARD), AND HIS OWN APPROACHING PASSION[a]

Probably in Judea

1 In the mean time, when [1]the many thousands of the multitude were gathered together, insomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to [2]say unto his disciples first of all, Beware ye of 2 the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. But there is nothing covered up, that shall not be revealed: and hid, that shall 3 not be known. Wherefore whatsoever ye have said in the darkness shall be heard in the light; and what ye have spoken in the ear in 4 the inner chambers shall be proclaimed upon the housetops. And I say unto you my friends, Be not afraid of them which kill the body, 5 and after that have no more that they can do. But I will warn you whom ye shall fear: Fear him, which after he hath killed hath 6 [3]power to cast into [4]hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear him. Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings? and not one of them is 7 forgotten in the sight of God. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not: ye are of more value than many sparrows. 8 And I say unto you, Every one who shall confess [5]me before men, [6]him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God: 9 but he that denieth me in the presence of men shall be denied in 10 the presence of the angels of God. And every one who shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but unto him that blasphemeth against the Holy Spirit it shall not be 11 forgiven. And when they bring you before the synagogues, and the rulers, and the authorities, be not anxious how or what ye shall 12 answer, or what ye shall say: for the Holy Spirit shall teach you in that very hour what ye ought to say. 13 And one out of the multitude said unto him, [7]Master, bid my 14 brother divide the inheritance with me. But he said unto him, Man, 15 who made me a judge or a divider over you? And he said unto them, Take heed, and keep yourselves from all covetousness: [8]for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he 16 possesseth. And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground 17 of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully: and he reasoned within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have not where 18 to bestow my fruits? And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my corn 19 and my goods. And I will say to my [9]soul, [9]Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, be 20 merry. But God said unto him, Thou foolish one, this night [10]is thy [9]soul required of thee; and the things which thou hast 21 prepared, whose shall they be? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God. 22 And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Be not anxious for _your_ [11]life, what ye shall eat; nor yet for your 23 body, what ye shall put on. For the [11]life is more than the 24 food, and the body than the raiment. Consider the ravens, that they sow not, neither reap; which have no store-chamber nor barn; and God feedeth them: of how much more value are ye than the 25 birds! And which of you by being anxious can add a cubit unto his 26 [12]stature? If then ye are not able to do even that which is 27 least, why are ye anxious concerning the rest? Consider the lilies, how they grow: they toil not, neither do they spin; yet I say unto you, Even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like 28 one of these. But if God doth so clothe the grass in the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven; how much 29 more _shall he clothe_ you, O ye of little faith? And seek not ye what ye shall eat, and what ye shall drink, neither be ye of 30 doubtful mind. For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: but your Father knoweth that ye have need of these 31 things. Howbeit seek ye [13]his kingdom, and these things shall be 32 added unto you. Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's 33 good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Sell that ye have, and give alms; make for yourselves purses which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief draweth near, neither 34 moth destroyeth. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. 35,36 Let your loins be girded about, and your lamps burning; and be ye yourselves like unto men looking for their lord, when he shall return from the marriage feast; that, when he cometh and knocketh, 37 they may straightway open unto him. Blessed are those [14]servants, whom the lord when he cometh shall find watching: verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them 38 sit down to meat, and shall come and serve them. And if he shall come in the second watch, and if in the third, and find _them_ so, 39 blessed are those _servants_. [15]But know this, that if the master of the house had known in what hour the thief was coming, he would have watched, and not have left his house to be 40 [16]broken through. Be ye also ready: for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh. 41 And Peter said, Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even 42 unto all? And the Lord said, Who then is [17]the faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall set over his household, to give them 43 their portion of food in due season? Blessed is that [18]servant, 44 whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing. Of a truth I say 45 unto you, that he will set him over all that he hath. But if that [18]servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and the maidservants, and 46 to eat and drink, and to be drunken; the lord of that [18]servant shall come in a day when he expecteth not, and in an hour when he knoweth not, and shall [19]cut him asunder, and appoint his 47 portion with the unfaithful. And that [18]servant, which knew his lord's will, and made not ready, nor did according to his will, 48 shall be beaten with many _stripes_; but he that knew not, and did things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few _stripes_. And to whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required: and to whom they commit much, of him will they ask the more. 49 I came to cast fire upon the earth; and what will I, if it is 50 already kindled? But I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how 51 am I straitened till it be accomplished! Think ye that I am come to give peace in the earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division: 52 for there shall be from henceforth five in one house divided, 53 three against two, and two against three [_see Mic. 7:6_]. They shall be divided, father against son, and son against father; mother against daughter, and daughter against her mother; mother in law against her daughter in law, and daughter in law against her mother in law. 54 And he said to the multitudes also, When ye see a cloud rising in the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower; and so it 55 cometh to pass. And when _ye see_ a south wind blowing, ye say, 56 There will be a [20]scorching heat; and it cometh to pass. Ye hypocrites, ye know how to [21]interpret the face of the earth and the heaven; but how is it that ye know not how to [21]interpret 57 this time? And why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right? 58 For as thou art going with thine adversary before the magistrate, on the way give diligence to be quit of him; lest haply he hale thee unto the judge, and the judge shall deliver thee to the 59 [22]officer, and the [22]officer shall cast thee into prison. I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou have paid the very last mite.

Sect. 109. ALL MUST REPENT OR PERISH (TWO CURRENT TRAGEDIES); PARABLE OF THE BARREN FIG TREE

Probably in Judea

Luke 13:1-9

1 Now there were some present at that very season which told him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their 2 sacrifices. And he answered and said unto them, Think ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans, because they 3 have suffered these things? I tell you, Nay: but, except ye 4 repent, ye shall all in like manner perish. Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and killed them, think ye that they were [1]offenders above all the men that dwell in Jerusalem? 5 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. 6 And he spake this parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came seeking fruit thereon, and 7 found none. And he said unto the vinedresser, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it 8 down; why doth it also cumber the ground? And he answering saith unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig 9 about it, and dung it: and if it bear fruit thenceforth, _well_; but if not, thou shalt cut it down.

Sect. 110. JESUS HEALS A CRIPPLED WOMAN ON THE SABBATH AND DEFENDS HIMSELF AGAINST THE RULER OF THE SYNAGOGUE (COMP. SECTS. 49 TO 51 AND 114). REPETITION OF THE PARABLES OF THE MUSTARD SEED AND OF THE LEAVEN

Luke 13:10-21

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath day. 11 And behold, a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years; and she was bowed together, and could in no wise lift 12 herself up. And when Jesus saw her, he called her, and said to 13 her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands upon her: and immediately she was made straight, and 14 glorified God. And the ruler of the synagogue, being moved with indignation because Jesus had healed on the sabbath [_see Ex. 20:8-11; Deut. 5:12-15_], answered and said to the multitude, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore 15 come and be healed, and not on the day of the sabbath. But the Lord answered him, and said, Ye hypocrites, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the [1]stall, and 16 lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo, _these_ eighteen years, to have been loosed from this bond on the day of the 17 sabbath? And as he said these things, all his adversaries were put to shame: and all the multitude rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him. 18 He said therefore, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and 19 whereunto shall I liken it? It is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his own garden; and it grew, and became a tree; and the birds of the heaven lodged in the 20 branches thereof [_see Dan. 4:10-12; 20-22_]. And again he said, 21 Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three [2]measures of meal, till it was all leavened.

Here again the Gospel of John takes us up, and carries us to Jerusalem, and then to Perea.

Sect. 111. AT THE FEAST OF DEDICATION, JESUS WILL NOT YET OPENLY SAY THAT HE IS THE MESSIAH. THE JEWS TRY TO STONE HIM

Jerusalem

John 10:22-39

22 [1]And it was the feast of the dedication at Jerusalem:[a] it was 23 winter; and Jesus was walking in the temple in Solomon's porch. 24 The Jews therefore came round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou hold us in suspense? If thou art the Christ, tell 25 us plainly. Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believe not: the works that I do in my Father's name, these bear witness of me. 26 But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep. My sheep hear 27 my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto 28 them eternal life; and they shall never perish, and no one shall 29 snatch them out of my hand. [2]My Father, which hath given _them_ unto me, is greater than all; and no one is able to snatch 30 [3]_them_ out of the Father's hand. I and the Father are one. The 31 Jews took up stones again to stone him. Jesus answered them, Many 32 good works have I shewed you from the Father; for which of those 33 works do ye stone me? The Jews answered him, For a good work we stone thee not, but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a 34 man, makest thyself God. Jesus answered them, Is it not written in 35 your law, I said, Ye are gods [_see Ps. 82:6_]? If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came (and the scripture cannot be 36 broken), say ye of him, whom the Father [4]sanctified and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am _the_ Son 37 of God? If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if 38 I do them, though you believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know and understand that the Father is in me, and I in the 39 Father. They sought again to take him: and he went forth out of their hand.

Perea

John 10:40-42

40 And he went away again beyond Jordan into the place where John 41 was at the first baptizing; and there he abode. And many came unto him; and they said, John indeed did no sign: but all things 42 whatsoever John spake of this man were true. And many believed on him there.

Sect. 113. TEACHING IN PEREA, ON A JOURNEY[a] TOWARD JERUSALEM. WARNED AGAINST HEROD ANTIPAS

Luke 13:22-35

22 And he went on his way through cities and villages, teaching, and 23 journeying on unto Jerusalem.[b] And one said unto him, Lord, are 24 they few that be saved? And he said unto them, Strive to enter in by the narrow door: for many, I say unto you, shall seek to enter 25 in, and shall not be [1]able. When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, open to us; and 26 he shall answer and say to you, I know you not whence ye are; then shall ye begin to say, We did eat and drink in thy presence, and 27 thou didst teach in our streets; and he shall say, I tell you, I know not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity 28 [_see Ps. 6:8_]. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and yourselves cast forth 29 without. And they shall come from the east and west, and from the north and south, and shall [2]sit down in the kingdom of God [_see 30 Ps. 107:3; Isa. 49:12_]. And behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last. 31 In that very hour there came certain Pharisees, saying to him, 32 Get thee out, and go hence: for Herod would fain kill thee. And he said unto them, Go and say to that fox, Behold, I cast out [3]devils and perform cures to-day and to-morrow, and the third 33 _day_ I am perfected. Howbeit I must go on my way to-day and to-morrow and the _day_ following: for it cannot be that a prophet 34 perish out of Jerusalem. O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her! how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen _gathereth_ 35 her own brood under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you _desolate_: and I say unto you, Ye shall not see me, until ye shall say, Blessed _is_ he that cometh in the name of the Lord [_see Ps. 118:26; Jer. 12:7; 22:5_].

[Footnote 1: Or, _able, when once_.]

[Footnote a: See note 10 at end of Harmony for the combination of Luke and John. After the Feast of the Dedication Jesus retired beyond Jordan (John 10:40), whence he goes to the raising of Lazarus (John 11:17). Luke seems to give incidents that belong to this journey.]

[Footnote b: The period of three to four months from the Dedication to the final Passover is divided by another visit to Jerusalem. We cannot tell how many weeks preceded this event. All along here we have only a few specimens of the Saviour's teaching and works.]

Sect. 114. WHILE DINING (BREAKFASTING) WITH A CHIEF PHARISEE, HE AGAIN HEALS ON THE SABBATH, AND DEFENDS HIMSELF (COMP. SECTS. 49 TO 51 AND 110). THREE PARABLES SUGGESTED BY THE OCCASION

Probably in Perea

Luke 14:1-24

1 And it came to pass, when he went into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees on a sabbath to eat bread, that they were 2 watching him. And behold, there was before him a certain man which 3 had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath, or not? 4 But they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and 5 let him go. And he said unto them, Which of you shall have [1]an ass or an ox fallen into a well, and will not straightway draw him 6 up on a sabbath day? And they could not answer again unto these things. 7 And he spake a parable unto those which were bidden, when he 8 marked how they chose out the chief seats; saying unto them, When thou art bidden of any man to a marriage feast, [2]sit not down in the chief seat; lest haply a more honourable man than thou be 9 bidden of him, and he that bade thee and him shall come and say to thee, Give this man place; and then thou shalt begin with shame to 10 take the lowest place. But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest place; that when he that hath bidden thee cometh, he may say to thee, Friend, go up higher: then shalt thou have glory in the presence of all that sit at meat with thee. For every one 11 that exalteth himself shall be humbled; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. 12 And he said to him also that had bidden him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper,[a] call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, nor thy kinsmen, nor rich neighbours; lest haply they also bid thee 13 again, and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a 14 feast, bid the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind: and thou shalt be blessed; because they have not _wherewith_ to recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed in the resurrection of the just. 15 And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the 16 kingdom of God. But he said unto him, A certain man made a great 17 supper; and he bade many: and he sent forth his [3]servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for _all_ 18 things are now ready. And they all with one _consent_ began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a field, and I 19 must needs go out and see it: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove 20 them: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have 21 married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. And the [3]servant came, and told his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his [3]servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor and 22 maimed and blind and lame. And the [3]servant said, Lord, what 23 thou didst command is done, and yet there is room. And the lord said unto the [3]servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and 24 constrain _them_ to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, that none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

[Footnote 1: Many ancient authorities read _a son_. See ch. 13:15.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _recline not_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _bondservant_.]

[Footnote a: More exactly, "a breakfast or a dinner." The two principal meals of the Jews answered to the present English breakfast (in the forenoon and often near noon), and dinner (at or after dark); and so in our cities. In the time of King James, as in many of our country homes now, the meal towards noon answered to dinner, and the night meal to supper. Hence a certain confusion in the older and more recent English versions. In verses 16, 17 the right word would be dinner, according to city usage, and so elsewhere.]

Sect. 115. GREAT CROWDS FOLLOW HIM, AND HE WARNS THEM TO COUNT THE COST OF DISCIPLESHIP TO HIM (COMP. SECTS. 70 and 83)

Probably in Perea

Luke 14:25-35

25 Now there went with him great multitudes: and he turned, and said 26 unto them, If any man cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. 27 Whosoever doth not bear his own cross, and come after me, cannot 28 be my disciple. For which of you, desiring to build a tower, doth not first sit down and count the cost, whether he have _wherewith_ 29 to complete it? Lest haply, when he hath laid a foundation, and is 30 not able to finish, all that behold begin to mock him, saying, 31 This man began to build, and was not able to finish. Or what king, as he goeth to encounter another king in war, will not sit down first and take counsel whether he is able with ten thousand to 32 meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand? Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, 33 and asketh conditions of peace. So therefore whosoever he be of you that renounceth not all that he hath, he cannot be my 34 disciple. Salt therefore is good: but if even the salt have lost 35 its savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned? It is fit neither for the land nor for the dunghill: _men_ cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Sect. 116. THE PHARISEES AND THE SCRIBES MURMUR AGAINST JESUS FOR RECEIVING SINNERS. HE DEFENDS HIMSELF BY THREE GREAT PARABLES (THE LOST SHEEP, THE LOST COIN, THE LOST SON)

Probably in Perea

Luke 15:1-32

1 Now all the publicans and sinners were drawing near unto him for 2 to hear him. And both the Pharisees and the scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them. 3, 4 And he spake unto them this parable, saying, What man of you, having a hundred sheep, and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that 5 which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he 6 layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and his neighbours, saying unto them, 7 Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost. I say unto you, that even so there shall be joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, _more_ than over ninety and nine righteous persons, which need no repentance. 8 Or what woman having ten [1]pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek 9 diligently until she find it? And when she hath found it, she calleth together her friends and neighbours, saying, Rejoice with 10 me, for I have found the piece which I had lost. Even so, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth. 11, 12 And he said, A certain man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of [2]_thy_ substance that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living. 13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country; and there he wasted his 14 substance with riotous living. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that country; and he began to be in want. 15 And he went and joined himself to one of the citizens of that 16 country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine. And he would fain have been filled with [3]the husks that the swine did 17 eat: and no man gave unto him. But when he came to himself he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and 18 to spare, and I perish here with hunger! I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against 19 heaven, and in thy sight: I am no more worthy to be called thy 20 son: make me as one of thy hired servants. And he arose, and came to his father. But while he was yet afar off, his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and 21 [4]kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight: I am no more worthy to be called 22 thy son.[5] But the father said to his [6]servants, Bring forth quickly the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his 23 hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring the fatted calf, _and_ kill 24 it, and let us eat, and make merry: for this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be 25 merry. Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew 26 nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing. And he called to him one of the [6]servants, and inquired what these things might 27 be. And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and 28 sound. But he was angry, and would not go in: and his father came 29 out, and intreated him. But he answered and said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, and I never transgressed a commandment of thine: and _yet_ thou never gavest me a kid, that I 30 might make merry with my friends: but when this thy son came, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou killedst for him 31 the fatted calf. And he said unto him, [7]Son, thou art ever with 32 me, and all that is mine is thine. But it was meet to make merry and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive _again_; and _was_ lost, and is found.

Sect. 117. THREE PARABLES ON STEWARDSHIP (TO THE DISCIPLES, THE PARABLE OF THE UNJUST STEWARD; TO THE PHARISEES, THE PARABLE OF THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; TO THE DISCIPLES, THE PARABLE OF THE UNPROFITABLE SERVANTS)

Probably in Perea

Luke 16:1-17:10

1 And he said also unto the disciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he 2 was wasting his goods. And he called him, and said unto him, What is this that I hear of thee? render the account of thy stewardship; 3 for thou canst be no longer steward. And the steward said within himself, What shall I do, seeing that my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? I have not strength to dig; to beg I am 4 ashamed. I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the 5 stewardship, they may receive me into their houses. And calling to him each one of his lord's debtors, he said to the first, How much 6 owest thou unto my lord? And he said, A hundred [1]measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy [2]bond, and sit down quickly 7 and write fifty. Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, A hundred [3]measures of wheat. He saith unto him, 8 Take thy [2]bond, and write fourscore. And his lord commended [4]the unrighteous steward because he had done wisely: for the sons of this [5]world are for their own generation wiser than the 9 sons of the light. And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends [6]by means of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when it shall 10 fail, they may receive you into the eternal tabernacles. He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much: and he that 11 is unrighteous in a very little is unrighteous also in much. If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who 12 will commit to your trust the true _riches_? And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another's, who will give you that 13 which is [7]your own? No [8]servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. 14 And the Pharisees, who were lovers of money, heard all these 15 things; and they scoffed at him. And he said unto them, Ye are they that justify yourselves in the sight of men; but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is exalted among men is an abomination 16 in the sight of God. The law and the prophets _were_ until John: from that time the gospel of the kingdom of God is preached, and 17 every man entereth violently into it [_see Matt. 11:12_]. But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away, than for one tittle 18 of the law to fall. Every one that putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and he that marrieth one that is put away from a husband committeth adultery. 19 Now there was a certain rich man, and he was clothed in purple 20 and fine linen, [9]faring sumptuously every day: and a certain 21 beggar named Lazarus was laid at his gate, full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the _crumbs_ that fell from the rich man's 22 table; yea, even the dogs came and licked his sores. And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and that he was carried away by the angels into Abraham's bosom: and the rich man also died, and was 23 buried. And in Hades he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and 24 seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I 25 am in anguish in this flame. But Abraham said, [10]Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and Lazarus in like manner evil things: but now here he is comforted, and thou 26 art in anguish. And [11]beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, that they which would pass from hence to you may not be able, and that none may cross over from thence to 27 us. And he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest 28 send him to my father's house; for I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of 29 torment. But Abraham saith, They have Moses and the prophets; let 30 them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one go to 31 them from the dead, they will repent. And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, if one rise from the dead. 1 And he said unto his disciples, It is impossible but that occasions of stumbling should come: but woe unto him, through whom 2 they come! It were well for him if a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, rather than that he 3 should cause one of these little ones to stumble. Take heed to yourselves: if thy brother sin, rebuke him; and if he repent, 4 forgive him. And if he sin against thee seven times in the day, and seven times turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him. 5, 6 And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith. And the Lord said, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye would say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou rooted up, and be thou 7 planted in the sea; and it would have obeyed you. But who is there of you, having a [12]servant plowing or keeping sheep, that will say unto him, when he is come in from the field, Come straightway 8 and sit down to meat; and will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have 9 eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink? Doth he thank the [12]servant because he did the things that were 10 commanded? Even so ye also, when ye shall have done all the things that are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable [13]servants; we have done that which it was our duty to do.

Sect. 118. JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD

From Perea[a] to Bethany near Jerusalem

John 11:1-44

1 Now a certain man was sick, Lazarus of Bethany, of the village of 2 Mary and her sister Martha. And it was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose 3 brother Lazarus was sick. The sisters therefore sent unto him, 4 saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick. But when Jesus heard it, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the 5 glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified thereby. Now 6 Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus. When therefore he heard that he was sick, he abode at that time two days in the 7 place where he was. Then after this he saith to the disciples, Let 8 us go into Judea again. The disciples say unto him, Rabbi, the Jews were but now seeking to stone thee; and goest thou thither 9 again? Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If a man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light 10 of this world. But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, 11 because the light is not in him. These things spake he: and after this he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus is fallen asleep; but 12 I go, that I may awake him out of sleep. The disciples therefore said unto him, Lord, if he is fallen asleep, he will [1]recover. 13 Now Jesus had spoken of his death: but they thought that he spake 14 of taking rest in sleep. Then Jesus therefore said unto them 15 plainly, Lazarus is dead. And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go 16 unto him. Thomas therefore, who is called [2]Didymus, said unto his fellow-disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him. 17 So when Jesus came, he found that he had been in the tomb four 18 days already. Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, about fifteen 19 furlongs off; and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary, to 20 console them concerning their brother. Martha therefore, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him: but Mary still sat 21 in the house. Martha therefore said unto Jesus, Lord, if thou 22 hadst been here, my brother had not died. And even now I know that, 23 whatsoever thou shalt ask of God, God will give thee. Jesus saith 24 unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. 25 Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that 26 believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die. Believest thou this? 27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I have believed that thou art the 28 Christ, the Son of God, _even_ he that cometh into the world. And when she had said this, she went away, and called Mary [3]her sister secretly, saying, The [4]Master is here, and calleth thee. 29 And she, when she heard it, arose quickly, and went unto him. (Now 30 Jesus was not yet come into the village, but was still in the 31 place where Martha met him.) The Jews then which were with her in the house, and were comforting her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up quickly and went out, followed her, supposing that she was 32 going unto the tomb to [5]weep there. Mary therefore, when she came where Jesus was, and saw him, fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. 33 When Jesus therefore saw her [6]weeping, and the Jews _also_ [6]weeping which came with her, he [7]groaned in the spirit, and 34 [8]was troubled, and said, Where have ye laid him? They say unto 35, 36 him, Lord, come and see. Jesus wept. The Jews therefore said, 37 Behold how he loved him! But some of them said, Could not this man, which opened the eyes of him that was blind, have caused that 38 this man also should not die? Jesus therefore again [9]groaning in himself cometh to the tomb. Now it was a cave, and a stone lay 39 [10]against it. Jesus saith, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he 40 stinketh: for he hath been _dead_ four days. Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou believedst, thou shouldest see 41 the glory of God? So they took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou heardest me. 42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the multitude which standeth around I said it, that they may believe 43 that thou didst send me. And when he had thus spoken, he cried 44 with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. He that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with [11]grave-clothes; and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

Sect. 119. THE EFFECT OF THE RAISING OF LAZARUS (ON THE PEOPLE, ON THE SANHEDRIN, ON THE MOVEMENTS OF JESUS)

Jerusalem and Ephraim in Judea.

John 11:45-54

45 Many therefore of the Jews, which came to Mary and beheld [1]that 46 which he did, believed on him. But some of them went away to the Pharisees, and told them the thing which Jesus had done. 47 The chief priests therefore and the Pharisees gathered a council, 48 and said, What do we? for this man doeth many signs. If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and the Romans will come 49 and take away both our place and our nation. But a certain one of them, Caiaphas, being high priest that year, said unto them, Ye 50 know nothing at all, nor do ye take account that it is expedient for you that one man should die for the people, and that the whole 51 nation perish not. Now this he said not of himself: but being high priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for the 52 nation; and not for the nation only, but that he might also gather together into one the children of God that are scattered abroad. 53 So from that day forth they took counsel that they might put him to death. 54 Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews, but departed thence into the country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim; and there he tarried with the disciples.

Sect. 120. JESUS STARTS ON THE LAST JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM BY WAY OF SAMARIA AND GALILEE

He heals the Ten Lepers and explains the Nature of the Kingdom of God to the Pharisees and the Disciples.

In Samaria or Galilee

Luke 17:11-37

11 And it came to pass, [1]as they were on the way to Jerusalem, 12 that he was passing [2]through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.[a] And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men 13 that were lepers, which stood afar off [_see Lev. 13:45-46_]: and they lifted up their voices, saying, Jesus, Master, have mercy on 14 us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go and shew yourselves unto the priests [_see Lev. 13:49; 14:1-3_]. And it came to pass, 15 as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, with a loud voice glorifying God; 16 and he fell upon his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he 17 was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, Were not the ten 18 cleansed? but where are the nine? [3]Were there none found that 19 returned to give glory to God, save this [4]stranger? And he said unto him, Arise, and go thy way: thy faith hath [5]made thee whole. 20 And being asked by the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God cometh, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with 21 observation: neither shall they say, Lo, here! or, There! for lo, the kingdom of God is [6]within you. 22 And he said unto the disciples, The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not 23 see it. And they shall say to you, Lo, there! Lo, here! go not 24 away, nor follow after _them_: for as the lightning, when it lighteneth out of the one part under the heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven; so shall the Son of man be [7]in his day. 25 But first must he suffer many things and be rejected of this 26 generation. And as it came to pass in the days of Noah, even so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man [_see Gen. 6:11-13; 27 7:21-23_]. They ate, they drank, they married, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the 28 flood came, and destroyed them all. Likewise even as it came to pass in the days of Lot; they ate, they drank, they bought, they 29 sold, they planted, they builded [_see Gen. 18:20-22_]; but in the day that Lot went out from Sodom [_see Gen. 19:24-25_] it rained 30 fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all: after the same manner shall it be in the day that the Son of man is revealed. 31 In that day, he which shall be on the housetop, and his goods in the house, let him not go down to take them away: and let him that 32 is in the field likewise not return back. Remember Lot's wife [_see 33 Gen. 19:26_]. Whosoever shall seek to gain his [8]life shall lose 34 it: but whosoever shall lose _his [8]life_ shall [9]preserve it. I say unto you, In that night there shall be two men on one bed; the 35 one shall be taken, and the other shall be left. There shall be two women grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other 37 shall be left[10]. And they answering say unto him, Where, Lord? And he said unto them, Where the body _is_, thither will the [11]eagles also be gathered together.

[Footnote a: As Ephraim (Sect. 119) was pretty certainly in the northern part of Judea, it has been reasonably supposed (Wieseler, Clark, and others) that, when the Passover was approaching, Jesus went from that region northward through Samaria into the southern or southeastern part of Galilee, so as to fall in with the pilgrims going from Galilee through Perea to Jerusalem. We thus again combine Luke's account with that of John in easy agreement. And this explains Luke's mention of Samaria first, which would be strange in describing a journey from Galilee through Samaria to Jerusalem, while the marginal translation, "between Samaria and Galilee," would he obscure and hard to account for. From this point he is making his final journey to Jerusalem, for the Passover of the crucifixion.]

Sect. 121. TWO PARABLES ON PRAYER (THE IMPORTUNATE WIDOW, THE PHARISEE AND THE PUBLICAN)

Luke 18:1-14

1 And he spake a parable unto them to the end that they ought 2 always to pray, and not to faint; saying, There was in a city a 3 judge, which feared not God, and regarded not man: and there was a widow in that city; and she came oft unto him, saying, [1]Avenge me 4 of mine adversary. And he would not for a while: but afterward he 5 said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man; yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest she 6 [2]wear me out by her continual coming. And the Lord said, Hear 7 what [3]the unrighteous judge saith. And shall not God avenge his elect, which cry to him day and night, and he is longsuffering 8 over them? I say unto you, that he will avenge them speedily. Howbeit when the Son of man cometh, shall he find [4]faith on the earth? 9 And he spake also this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and set [5]all others at 10 nought: Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a 11 Pharisee, and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as the rest of 12 men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I 13 fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I get. But the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote his breast, saying, God, [6]be merciful to 14 me [7]a sinner. I say unto you, This man went down to his house justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

For there are eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are eunuchs, which were made eunuchs by men: and there are eunuchs, which made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

[Footnote a: Matthew expressly states that he went from Galilee through Perea, and soon afterwards carries him forward to Jericho and Jerusalem. (Comp. Mark also.) Yet he says that Jesus did this when he had finished the parable of the unforgiving servant, which we have placed nearly six months earlier (Sect. 92). Luke here presently agrees with Matthew and Mark, and they go on together to the end, while heretofore Matthew and Mark have given us nothing since Jesus went to the Feast of Tabernacles. In one way or another we must suppose quite a break in their narrative. See Broadus' commentary on Matthew 19:1, and compare note 10 at end of Harmony.]

And when he had agreed | with the labourers for a [6]penny a day, 3 he sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third 4 hour, and saw others standing in the marketplace idle; and to them he said, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I 5 will give you. And they went their way. Again he went out about 6 the sixth and the ninth hour, and did likewise. And about the eleventh _hour_ he went out, and found others standing; and he 7 saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also 8 into the vineyard. And when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and pay them 9 their hire, beginning from the last unto the first. And when they came that _were hired_ about the eleventh hour, they received 10 every man a [6]penny. And when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received every man a 11 [6]penny. And when they received it, they murmured against the 12 householder, saying, These last have spent _but_ one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden of 13 the day and the [7]scorching heat. But he answered and said to one of them, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst not thou agree with me 14 for a [6]penny? Take up that which is thine, and go thy way; it is 15 my will to give unto this last, even as unto thee. Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? or is thine eye 16 evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last.

[Footnote a: Matthew mentions two blind men, while Mark and Luke describe one, probably the more conspicuous one.--The discrepancy as to place, "as he went out from Jericho," "as he drew nigh unto Jericho," is best explained by the recent suggestion that the healing occurred after he left the old Jericho, and as he was approaching the new Jericho which Herod the Great had built at some distance away. An older, and also possible explanation was that the blind men made application when he was approaching the city, but were not then healed, and only when he had left the city were they healed. (Comp. Matt. 15:23 ff., and Mark 8:22 f.)]

Sect. 127. JESUS VISITS ZACCHAEUS, AND SPEAKS THE PARABLE OF THE POUNDS,[a] AND SETS OUT FOR JERUSALEM

Jericho

Luke 19:1-28

1, 2 And he entered and was passing through Jericho. And behold, a man called by name Zacchaeus; and he was a chief publican, and he 3 was rich. And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for 4 the crowd, because he was little of stature. And he ran on before, and climbed up into a sycomore tree to see him: for he was to pass 5 that way. And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and said unto him, Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down; for to-day I must 6 abide at thy house. And he made haste, and came down, and received 7 him joyfully. And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, He 8 is gone in to lodge with a man that is a sinner. And Zacchaeus stood, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have wrongfully exacted aught of any 9 man, I restore fourfold [_see Ex. 22:1; Num. 5:6-7_]. And Jesus said unto him, To-day is salvation come to this house, forasmuch 10 as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost [_Ezek. 34:16_]. 11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and _because_ they supposed that 12 the kingdom of God was immediately to appear. He said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country, to receive for himself a 13 kingdom, and to return. And he called ten [1]servants of his, and gave them ten [2]pounds, and said unto them, Trade ye _herewith_ 14 till I come. But his citizens hated him, and sent an ambassage 15 after him, saying, We will not that this man reign over us. And it came to pass, when he was come back again, having received the kingdom, that he commanded these [1]servants, unto whom he had given the money, to be called to him, that he might know what they 16 had gained by trading. And the first came before him, saying, 17 Lord, thy pound hath made ten pounds more. And he said unto him, Well done, thou good [3]servant: because thou wast found faithful 18 in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities. And the 19 second came, saying, Thy pound, Lord, hath made five pounds. And 20 he said unto him also, Be thou also over five cities. And [4]another came, saying, Lord, behold, _here is_ thy pound, which 21 I kept laid up in a napkin: for I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and 22 reapest that thou didst not sow. He saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked [3]servant. Thou knewest that I am an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and 23 reaping that I did not sow; then wherefore gavest thou not my money into the bank, and [5]I at my coming should have required it 24 with interest? And he said unto them that stood by, Take away from 25 him the pound, and give it unto him that hath the ten pounds. And 26 they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds. I say unto you, that unto every one that hath shall be given; but from him that hath 27 not, even that which he hath shall be taken away from him. Howbeit these mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me. 28 And when he had thus spoken, he went on before, going up to Jerusalem.

On this first occasion the illustration has a specific design (ver. 11 f.), which will not appear on the second, _viz._, to check the wild enthusiasm of the multitude to make Jesus King in Jerusalem as they had once planned a year ago (John 6:15. PART XI

THE LAST PUBLIC MINISTRY IN JERUSALEM

Friday before to Tuesday of Passion Week, Spring of A.D. 30 (or A.D. 29).[a] Just before Passover. Sects. 128a-138.

[Footnote a: If the feast of John 5:1 was a Passover, and so his ministry lasted over three years, then his death was pretty certainly in A.D. 30; otherwise in A.D. 29.]

Sect. 128a. JESUS ARRIVES AT BETHANY,[a] NEAR JERUSALEM

Friday afternoon

John 11:55 to 12:1, 9-11

55 Now the passover of the Jews was at hand: and many went up to Jerusalem out of the country before the passover, to purify 56 themselves. They sought therefore for Jesus, and spake one with another, as they stood in the temple, What think ye? That he will 57 not come to the feast? Now the chief priests and the Pharisees had given commandment, that, if any man knew where he was, he should shew it, that they might take him. 1 Jesus therefore six days before the passover came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, whom Jesus raised from the dead.[b] 9 The common people therefore of the Jews learned that he was there: and they came, not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might 10 see Lazarus also, whom he raised from the dead. But the chief 11 priests took counsel that they might put Lazarus also to death; because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

[Footnote a: Compare former visits to this Bethany, Sects. 104, 118, and see also below, Sect. 141.]

[Footnote b: John (12:2-8) gives the supper in the house of Simon the leper at this stage, probably because it is the last mention of Bethany in his Gospel. It seems better to follow the order of Mark here in the location of the anointing of Jesus by Mary of Bethany.]

In Sects. 128b-138 we have the Saviour's movements and teachings on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday--the close of his public ministry, except the little that he said during the Jewish and Roman trial. All of his teaching thereafter will be given to his disciples.

Sect. 129. THE BARREN FIG TREE CURSED, AND THE SECOND[a] CLEANSING OF THE TEMPLE. (COMP. SECT. 31)

Sect. 130. THE DESIRE OF SOME GREEKS TO SEE JESUS PUZZLES THE DISCIPLES AND LEADS JESUS IN AGITATION OF SOUL TO INTERPRET LIFE AND DEATH AS SACRIFICE AND TO SHOW HOW BY BEING "LIFTED UP" HE WILL DRAW ALL MEN TO HIM

Jerusalem (_Monday_)

John 12:20-50

20 Now there were certain Greeks among those that went up to worship 21 at the feast: these therefore came to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and asked him, saying, Sir, we would see 22 Jesus. Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: Andrew cometh, and 23 Philip, and they tell Jesus. And Jesus answereth them, saying, The 24 hour is come, that the Son of man should be glorified. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth by itself alone; but if it die, it 25 beareth much fruit. He that loveth his [1]life loseth it; and he that hateth his [1]life in this world shall keep it unto life 26 eternal. If any man serve me, let him follow me; and where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will the 27 Father honour. Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say [_see Ps. 42:6_]? Father, save me from this [2]hour. But for this cause 28 came I unto this hour. Father, glorify thy name. There came therefore a voice out of heaven, _saying_, I have both glorified 29 it, and will glorify it again. The multitude therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it had thundered: others said, An 30 angel hath spoken to him. Jesus answered and said, This voice hath 31 not come for my sake, but for your sakes. Now is [3]the judgement 32 of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up [4]from the earth, will draw all men unto 33 myself. But this he said, signifying by what manner of death he 34 should die. The multitude therefore answered him, We have heard out of the law that the Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man? 35 Jesus therefore said unto them, Yet a little while is the light [5]among you. Walk while ye have the light, that darkness overtake you not: and he that walketh in the darkness knoweth not whither 36 he goeth. While ye have the light, believe on the light, that ye may become sons of light. These things spake Jesus, and he departed and [6]hid himself from 37 them. But though he had done so many signs before them, yet they 38 believed not[a] on him: that the word of Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled [_see Isa. 53:1_], which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? And to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed? 39 For this cause they could not believe, for that Isaiah said again, 40 He hath blinded their eyes, and he hardened their heart; Lest they should see with their eyes, and perceive with their heart, And should turn, And I should heal them. 41 These things said Isaiah [_see Isa. 6:1, 10_], because he saw his 42 glory; and he spake of him. Nevertheless even of the rulers many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess 43 [7]it, lest they should be put out of the synagogue: for they loved the glory of men more than the glory of God. 44 And Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not 45 on me, but on him that sent me. And he that beholdeth me beholdeth 46 him that sent me. I am come a light into the world, that whosoever 47 believeth on me may not abide in the darkness. And if any man hear my sayings, and keep them not, I judge him not: for I came not to 48 judge the world, but to save the world. He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my sayings, hath one that judgeth him: the word that 49 I spake, the same shall judge him in the last day. For I spake not from myself; but the Father which sent me, he hath given me a 50 commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life eternal: the things therefore which I speak, even as the Father hath said unto me, so I speak.

Sect. 131. THE BARREN FIG TREE FOUND TO HAVE WITHERED

Sect. 132. THE RULERS (SANHEDRIN) FORMALLY CHALLENGE[a] THE AUTHORITY OF JESUS AS AN ACCREDITED TEACHER (RABBI)

Jesus bases His human authority on John the Baptist, His Forerunner who baptized him, and demands the Sanhedrin's opinion of the Baptism of John. This pertinent counter-question paralyzes the Jewish leaders and Jesus drives His argument home by three parables. (a) Parable of the Two Sons. (b) Parable of the Wicked Husbandmen. (c) Parable of the Marriage Feast of the King's Son.

In the court of the Temple. (_Tuesday_[b]) A Day of Controversy

And he answered and said, I _go_, sir: and went not. 31 Whether of the twain did the will of his father? They say, The first. Jesus saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, that the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you. 32 For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: but the publicans and the harlots believed him: and ye, when ye saw it, did not even repent yourselves afterward, that ye | might believe him. | 1 And he began to |33 Hear another | 9 And he began to speak unto them in | parable: There was | speak unto the parables. But they made light of it, and went their ways, 6 one to his own farm, another to his merchandise: and the rest laid hold on his [3]servants, and entreated them shamefully, and killed 7 them. But the king was wroth; and he sent his armies, and 8 destroyed those murderers, and burned their city. Then saith he to his [3]servants, The wedding is ready, but they that were bidden 9 were not worthy. Go ye therefore unto the partings of the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage feast. 10 And those [3]servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the 11 wedding was filled with guests. But when the king came in to behold the guests, he saw there a man which had not on a 12 wedding-garment: and he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in 13 hither not having a wedding-garment? And he was speechless. Then the king said to the [6]servants, Bind him hand and foot, and cast him out into the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and 14 gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few chosen.

In like manner the Fourth Gospel gave us much animated dialogue between Jesus and the Jews at Jerusalem in chap. 5, and chap. 7-10. The Sanhedrin were within their rights in challenging the ecclesiastical and scholastic (scribal) standing of Jesus. He did not dodge in his answer.]

[Footnote b: On this last day of Christ's public ministry the Sanhedrin seek to break the power of Jesus with the people whose hero he is since the Triumphal Entry. The first attempt fails miserably, but it is followed by a series of other efforts to entrap Jesus and so turn the crowd against him. The three parables leave the rulers exposed by Jesus and they keenly feel the denunciation of the reply of Jesus.]

Sect. 133. THE PHARISEES AND THE HERODIANS TRY TO ENSNARE JESUS ABOUT PAYING TRIBUTE TO CAESAR

Sect. 137. IN HIS LAST PUBLIC DISCOURSE, JESUS SOLEMNLY DENOUNCES[a] THE SCRIBES AND PHARISEES (COMP. SECT. 107)

Yea, | | they bind heavy | | burdens [1]and | | grievous to be | | borne, and lay them | | on men's shoulders; | | but they themselves | | will not move them | | with their finger. | | 5 But all their works | | they do for to be | | seen of men [_see | | Ex. 13:9; Num. | | 15:38-39; Deut. 6:8;| | 11:18_]: for they | | make broad their | | phylacteries, and | which | enlarge the borders | which desire to walk in | _of their garments_,| desire to walk in long robes, and _to | 6 and love the chief | long robes, and have_ salutations in| place at feasts, and| love salutations in the marketplaces, | the chief seats in | the marketplaces, 39 and chief seats in | 7 the synagogues, and | and chief seats in the synagogues, and | the salutations in | the synagogues, and chief places at | the marketplaces, | chief places at feasts: | and to be called of | feasts; | 8 men, Rabbi. But be | not ye called Rabbi: for one is your teacher, and all ye are 9 brethren. And call no man your father on the earth: for one is your 10 Father, [2]which is in heaven. Neither be ye called masters: for 11 one is your master, _even_ the Christ. But he that is [3]greatest 12 among you shall be your [4]servant. And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled; and whosoever shall humble himself shall be exalted. 13 But woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye shut the kingdom of heaven [5]against men: for ye enter not in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering in to enter.[6] | | 40 they which | |47 which devour widows' | | devour widows' houses, [12]and for | | houses, and for a a pretence make long| | pretence make long prayers; these shall| | prayers: these receive greater | | shall receive condemnation. | | greater | | condemnation. | | 15 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is become so, ye make him twofold more a son of [7]hell than yourselves. 16 Woe unto you, ye blind guides, which say, Whosoever shall swear by the [8]temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the 17 gold of the [8]temple, he is [9]a debtor. Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, or the [8]temple that hath 18 sanctified the gold? And, Whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it, 19 he is [9]a debtor. Ye blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or 20 the altar that sanctifieth the gift? He therefore that sweareth by 21 the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon. And he that sweareth by the [8]temple, sweareth by it, and by him that 22 dwelleth therein. And he that sweareth by the heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon. 23 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye tithe mint and [10]anise and cummin [_see Lev. 27:30; Mic. 6:8_], and have left undone the weightier matters of the law, judgement, and mercy, and faith: but these ye ought to have done, and not to have 24 left the other undone. Ye blind guides, which strain out the gnat, and swallow the camel. 25 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye cleanse the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are 26 full from extortion and excess. Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and of the platter, that the outside thereof may become clean also. 27 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which outwardly appear beautiful, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. 28 Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but inwardly ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity. 29 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and garnish the tombs of the 30 righteous, and say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we should not have been partakers with them in the blood of the 31 prophets. Wherefore ye witness to yourselves, that ye are sons of 32 them that slew the prophets. Fill ye up then the measure of your 33 fathers. Ye serpents, ye offspring of vipers, how shall ye escape 34 the judgement of [7]hell? Therefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: some of them shall ye kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, 35 and persecute from city to city: that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed on the earth, from the blood of Abel the righteous unto the blood of Zachariah son of Barachiah, whom ye slew between the sanctuary and the altar [_see Gen. 4:8; 2 Chron. 36 24:20-21_]. Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation. 37 O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her! how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her 38 wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you 39 [11]desolate [_see Jer. 12:7; 22:5_]. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed _is_ he that cometh in the name of the Lord [_see Ps. 118:26_].

Sect. 138. JESUS CLOSELY OBSERVES[a] THE CONTRIBUTIONS IN THE TEMPLE, AND COMMENDS THE POOR WIDOW'S GIFT

(_Tuesday_)

[Footnote 3: Or, _and saw them that ... treasury, and they were rich._]

[Footnote a: Notice that this was the last occurrence in the Saviour's public ministry, except the trial and the crucifixion. This is the last appearance of Jesus in the Temple. His public teaching is over save the words of defence in his trial and the seven sayings on the Cross. The Pharisees and Sadducees had withdrawn in terror at the explosion of the wrath of Jesus and even the disciples were at some distance as Jesus sat alone by the treasury. It is useless further to plead with his enemies. The task now remains to get the disciples prepared for the Master's death and the time is short and they as yet have completely failed to grasp the fact or the significance of his death and the promise of his resurrection on the third day.]

PART XII

IN THE SHADOW WITH JESUS

Tuesday afternoon to Thursday night of Passion Week, A.D. 30 (or 29). Jerusalem.

Sects. 139-152. Jesus now seeks to prepare the disciples for the tragedy of His death and for carrying on His work after His departure.

Sect. 139. SITTING ON THE MOUNT OF OLIVES, JESUS SPEAKS TO HIS DISCIPLES ABOUT THE DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM, AND HIS OWN SECOND COMING, IN APOCALYPTIC LANGUAGE. THE GREAT ESCHATOLOGICAL DISCOURSE[a]

(_Tuesday Afternoon_)

[Footnote a: This great discourse has as its background the death of Christ. Further on as part punishment for this crime lies the destruction of Jerusalem. This catastrophe is itself a symbol of the end of the world and in one sense a coming of Christ in power and judgment. But Christ boldly predicts his own personal return to earth, though the time is not revealed. But he does exhort an expectant attitude toward the promises of his coming and readiness for his return which will be at an unexpected hour. Jesus employs the common Jewish apocalyptic imagery to portray this most difficult subject. Some scholars insist that Jesus was himself merely a wild enthusiast who was carried away by the Messianic hopes of his people, but that is a one-sided and distorted view of Christ's life and ignores the great mass of his ethical teaching. It forgets also that Jesus has a world program of conquest and of power. The various aspects of the discourse are not kept distinct. Some think that the Gospels have misunderstood or misrepresented Jesus in this discourse. But we can catch the general drift of the teaching and leave alone minute details of time and place against which Jesus himself warned us.]

[Footnote a: This anointing has nothing in common with that given by Luke (Sect. 59), except the fact of a woman anointing the Saviour's feet, and the name Simon, which was common. The former was in Galilee, this is at Bethany near Jerusalem. There the host despised the woman who anointed, here her brother is one of the guests, and her sister an active attendant. There the woman was "a sinner," a notoriously bad woman, here it is the devout Mary who "sat at the Lord's feet and heard his word" months before (Sect. 104). There the host thought strange that Jesus allowed her to touch him, here the disciples complain of the waste. There the Saviour gave assurance of forgiveness, here of perpetual and world-wide honor. Especially notice that here the woman who anoints is anticipating his speedy death and burial, of which at the former time he had never distinctly spoken. In view of all these differences it is absurd to represent the two anointings as the same, and outrageous on such slender ground to cast reproach on Mary of Bethany.]

Sect. 142. JUDAS, STUNG BY THE REBUKE OF JESUS AT THE FEAST, BARGAINS WITH THE RULERS TO BETRAY JESUS

Sect. 144. JESUS PARTAKES OF THE PASCHAL MEAL WITH THE TWELVE APOSTLES AND REBUKES THEIR JEALOUSY

Jerusalem, Thursday evening after sunset (beginning of Jewish Friday)

Mark 14:17 |Matt. 26:20 |Luke 22:14-16, 24-30 | | 17 And when it was |20 Now when even was |14 And when the hour evening he cometh | come, he was sitting| was come, he sat with the twelve. | at meat with the | down, and the | twelve [1]disciples;| apostles with him. | |15 And he said unto | | them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover[a] with you before I suffer: 16 for I say unto you, I will not eat it, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God. 24 And there arose also a contention among them, which of them is 25 accounted to be [2]greatest. And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles have lordship over them; and they that have authority 26 over them are called Benefactors. But ye _shall_ not _be_ so: but he that is the greater among you, let him become as the younger; 27 and he that is chief, as he that doth serve. For whether is greater, he that [3]sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that [3]sitteth at meat? but I am in the midst of you as he that 28 serveth. But ye are they which have continued with me in my 29 temptations; and [4]I appoint unto you a kingdom, even as my 30 Father appointed unto me, that ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom; and ye shall sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

[Footnote 1: Many authorities, some ancient, omit _disciples_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _greater_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _reclineth_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _I appoint unto you, even as my Father appointed unto me a kingdom, that ye may eat and drink etc._]

[Footnote a: Some regard certain expressions in the Gospel of John as showing that Jesus did not eat the Paschal meal, thus hopelessly contradicting the other Gospels.

But no one of John's expressions shows what is supposed, and one of them really indicates the contrary. See note at end of volume. Matthew, Mark, and Luke clearly show that he did eat the regular Passover meal.]

Sect. 145. DURING THE PASCHAL MEAL, JESUS WASHES THE FEET OF HIS DISCIPLES

Evening before the Crucifixion (our Thursday, Jewish Friday)

John 13:1-20

1 Now before[a] the feast of the passover, Jesus knowing that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved 2 them [1]unto the end. And during supper, the devil having already put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's _son_, to betray 3 him, _Jesus_, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he came forth from God, and goeth unto God, 4 riseth from supper, and layeth aside his garments; and he took a 5 towel, and girded himself. Then he poureth water into the bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the 6 towel wherewith he was girded. So he cometh to Simon Peter. He 7 saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt 8 understand hereafter. Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part 9 with me. Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but 10 also my hands and my head. Jesus saith to him, He that is bathed needeth not [2]save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and 11 ye are clean, but not all. For he knew him that should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean. 12 So when he had washed their feet, and taken his garments, and [3]sat down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to 13 you? Ye call me, [4]Master, and, Lord: and ye say well; for so I 14 am. If I then, the Lord and the [4]Master, have washed your feet, 15 ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an 16 example, that ye also should do as I have done to you. Verily, verily, I say unto you, A [5]servant is not greater than his lord; 17 neither [6]one that is sent greater than he that sent him. If ye 18 know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them. I speak not of you all: I know whom I [7]have chosen: but that the scripture may be fulfilled, He that eateth [8]my bread lifted up his heel 19 against me [_see Ps. 41:9_]. From henceforth I tell you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that 20 [9]I am _he_. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

[Footnote 1: Or, _to the uttermost_.]

[Footnote 2: Some ancient authorities omit _save_, and _his feet_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _reclined_.]

[Footnote 4: Or, _Teacher_.]

[Footnote 5: Gr. _bondservant_.]

[Footnote 6: Gr. _an apostle_.]

[Footnote 7: Or, _chose_.]

[Footnote 8: Many ancient authorities read _his bread with me_.]

[Footnote 9: Or, _I am_.]

[Footnote a: It is needlessly inferred that John by this expression means that it was a full day before the passover meal. In fact, the words in verse 2 "during supper" rather imply that "before passover" was just before the meal began.]

Sect. 146. AT THE PASCHAL MEAL JESUS POINTS OUT JUDAS AS THE BETRAYER

Thursday evening (Jewish Friday)

Mark 14:18-21 |Matt. 26:21-25 |Luke 22:21-23 |John 13:21-30 | | | 18 And as they| |21 But behold,|21 When Jesus had [2]sat and |21 and as they | the hand of | thus said, he were eating, | were eating, | him that | was troubled in Jesus said, | he said, | betrayeth me | the spirit, and Verily I say | Verily I say | is with me on| testified, and unto you, One| unto you, | the table. | said, Verily, of you shall | that one of |22 For the Son | verily, I say betray me, | you shall | of man indeed| unto you, that _even_ he | betray me. | goeth, as it | one of you that eateth | | hath been | shall betray with me [_see| | determined: | me. He leaning back, as he | | was, on Jesus' breast saith unto | |26 him, Lord, who is it? Jesus | | therefore answereth, He it is, | | for whom I shall dip the sop, and | | give it him. So when he had | | dipped the sop, he taketh and | | giveth it to Judas, _the son_ of | | Simon Iscariot. |25 And Judas, | | which | | betrayed him,| | answered and | | said, Is it | | I, Rabbi? He | | saith unto | | him, Thou | | hast said. | | |27 And after the sop, then entered Satan into him. Jesus therefore saith unto him, 28 That thou doest, do quickly. Now no man at the table knew for what 29 intent he spake this unto him. For some thought, because Judas had the [3]bag, that Jesus said unto him, Buy what things we have need of for the feast; or, that he should give something to the 30 poor. He then having received the sop went out straightway: and it was night.

Sect. 147. AFTER THE DEPARTURE OF JUDAS JESUS WARNS THE DISCIPLES (PETER IN PARTICULAR) AGAINST DESERTION, WHILE ALL PROTEST THEIR LOYALTY

Mark 14:27-31 |Matt. 26:31-35 |Luke 22:31-38 |John 13:31-38 | | | | | |31 When therefore he was gone out, Jesus saith, Now [1]is the Son of man glorified, 32 and God [1]is glorified in him; and God shall glorify him in 33 himself, and straightway shall he glorify him. Ye shall seek me: and as I said 34 unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say unto you, A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; 35 [2]even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. [Footnote 6: Or, _testament_.]

[Footnote 7: Many ancient authorities read _is broken for you_.]

[Footnote a: Luke here (see Sect. 144) departs from the order of Mark (and Matthew) and mentions the institution of the supper earlier in the evening. It seems best to follow the chronology of Mark, who places it after the departure of Judas.]

[Footnote b: These are two parallel reports of the institution of the supper. Mark is followed by Matthew and 1 Corinthians (about A.D. 56) by Luke (not earlier than A.D. 58).]

Sect. 149. THE FAREWELL DISCOURSE TO HIS DISCIPLES IN THE UPPER ROOM

Jerusalem

John 14[a]

1 Let not your heart be troubled: [1]ye believe in God, believe 2 also in me. In my Father's house are many [2]mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you. 3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, I come again, and will receive you unto myself; that where I am, _there_ ye may be also. 4 [3]And whither I go, ye know the way. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, 5 we know not whither thou goest; how know we the way? Jesus saith 6 unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh 7 unto the Father, but [4]by me. If ye had known me, ye would have known my Father also: from henceforth ye know him, and have seen 8 him. Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it 9 sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and dost thou not know me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath 10 seen the Father; how sayest thou, Shew us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I say unto you I speak not from myself: but the Father 11 abiding in me doeth his works. Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake. 12 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater _works_ than these shall 13 he do; because I go unto the Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in 14 the Son. If ye shall ask [5]me anything in my name, that will I 15 do. If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments. And I will 16 [6]pray the Father, and he shall give you another [7]Comforter, 17 that he may be with you for ever, _even_ the Spirit of truth: whom the world cannot receive; for it beholdeth him not, neither knoweth him: ye know him; for he abideth with you, and shall be in 18 you. I will not leave you [8]desolate: I come unto you. Yet a 19 little while, and the world beholdeth me no more; but ye behold 20 me: because I live, [9]ye shall live also. In that day ye shall 21 know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you. He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love 22 him, and will manifest myself unto him. Judas (not Iscariot) saith unto him, Lord, what is come to pass that thou wilt manifest 23 thyself unto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my word: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our 24 abode with him. He that loveth me not keepeth not my words: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's who sent me. 25 These things have I spoken unto you, while _yet_ abiding with 26 you. But the [7]Comforter, _even_ the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring to 27 your remembrance all that I said unto you. Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. 28 Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be fearful. Ye heard how I said to you, I go away, and I come unto you. If ye loved me, ye would have rejoiced, because I go unto the Father: 29 for the Father is greater than I. And now I have told you before 30 it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe. I will no more speak much with you, for the prince of the world 31 cometh: and he hath nothing in me; but that the world may know that I love the Father, and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.[b]

[Footnote 1: Or, _believe in God_.]

[Footnote 2: Or, _abiding-places_.]

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities read _And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know._]

[Footnote 4: Or, _through_.]

[Footnote 5: Many ancient authorities omit _me_.]

[Footnote 7: Or, _Advocate_. Or, _Helper_. Gr. _Paraclete_.]

[Footnote 8: Or, _orphans_.]

[Footnote 9: Or, _and ye shall live_.]

[Footnote a: Chapters 13 to 17 in John really belong together. There is first the effort of Jesus to stop the bickerings of the Twelve, then his warning and their reply. Jesus continues to address them with repeated interruption (dialogue), but finally they fear to ask him further (monologue). The discourse concludes with the wonderful prayer (the real Lord's Prayer) in chapter 17.]

[Footnote b: Apparently they leave the Upper Room.]

Sect. 150. THE DISCOURSE ON THE WAY TO GETHSEMANE

Possibly on the Street

John 15 and 16[a]

1 I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch 2 in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh it away: and every _branch_ that beareth fruit, he cleanseth it, that it may bear 3 more fruit. Already ye are clean because of the word which I have 4 spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; so neither can 5 ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit: for 6 apart from me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and they gather them, and 7 cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be 8 done unto you. Herein [1]is my Father glorified, [2]that ye bear 9 much fruit; and _so_ shall ye be my disciples. Even as the Father 10 hath loved me, I also have loved you: abide ye in my love. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have 11 kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy may be in you, and _that_ your 12 joy may be fulfilled. This is my commandment, that ye love one 13 another, even as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than 14 this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my 15 friends, if ye do the things which I command you. No longer do I call you [3]servants; for the [4]servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I heard 16 from my Father I have made known unto you. Ye did not choose me, but I chose you, and appointed you, that ye should go and bear fruit, and _that_ your fruit should abide: that whatsoever ye 17 shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you. These 18 things I command you, that ye may love one another. If the world hateth you, [5]ye know that it hath hated me before _it hated_ 19 you. If ye were of the world, the world would love its own: but because ye are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, 20 therefore the world hateth you. Remember the word that I said unto you, A [4]servant is not greater than his lord. If they persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they keep my word, they will 21 keep yours also. But all these things will they do unto you for my 22 name's sake, because they know not him that sent me. If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they have 23 no excuse for their sin. He that hateth me hateth my Father also. 24 If I had not done among them the works which none other did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and 25 my Father. But _this cometh to pass_, that the word may be fulfilled that is written in their law, They hated me without a 26 cause [_see Ps. 35:19; 69:4_]. But when the [6]Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, _even_ the Spirit of truth, which [7]proceedeth from the Father, he shall bear witness 27 of me: [8]and ye also bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

1 These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be made 2 to stumble. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the hour cometh, that whosoever killeth you shall think that he offereth 3 service unto God. And these things will they do, because they have 4 not known the Father, nor me. But these things have I spoken unto you, that when their hour is come, ye may remember them, how that I told you. And these things I said not unto you from the 5 beginning, because I was with you. But now I go unto him that sent 6 me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou? But because I have spoken these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart. 7 Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the [6]Comforter will not come unto 8 you; but if I go, I will send him unto you. And he, when he is come, will convict the world in respect of sin, and of 9 righteousness, and of judgement: of sin, because they believe not 10 on me; of righteousness, because I go to the Father, and ye behold 11 me no more; of judgement, because the prince of this world hath 12 been judged. I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot 13 bear them now. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he shall guide you into all the truth: for he shall not speak from himself; but what things soever he shall hear, _these_ shall he speak: and he shall declare unto you the things that are to come. 14 He shall glorify me: for he shall take of mine, and shall declare 15 _it_ unto you. All things whatsoever the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he taketh of mine, and shall declare _it_ 16 unto you. A little while, and ye behold me no more; and again a 17 little while, and ye shall see me. _Some_ of his disciples therefore said one to another, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye behold me not; and again a little while, 18 and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father? They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? We know not 19 what he saith. Jesus perceived that they were desirous to ask him, and he said unto them, Do ye inquire among yourselves concerning this, that I said, A little while, and ye behold me not, and again 20 a little while, and ye shall see me? Verily, verily, I say unto you, that ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: 21 ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but when she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more 22 the anguish, for the joy that a man is born into the world. And ye therefore now have sorrow: but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no one taketh away from you 23 [_see Isa. 66:14_]. And in that day ye shall [9]ask me nothing. Verily, verily, I say unto you, If ye shall ask anything of the 24 Father, he will give it you in my name. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be fulfilled. 25 These things have I spoken unto you in [10]proverbs: the hour cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in [10]proverbs, but 26 shall tell you plainly of the Father. In that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will [11]pray the Father 27 for you; for the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved 28 me, and have believed that I came forth from the Father. I came out from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave 29 the world, and go unto the Father. His disciples say, Lo, now 30 speakest thou plainly, and speakest no [12]proverb. Now know we that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this we believe that thou camest forth from God. 31 Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe? Behold, the hour cometh, 32 yea, is come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to his own, and shall leave me alone: and _yet_ I am not alone, because the 33 Father is with me. These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye may have peace. In the world ye have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.

Sect. 151. CHRIST'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

Possibly near Gethsemane

John 17

1 These things spake Jesus; and lifting up his eyes to heaven, he said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that the Son may 2 glorify thee: even as thou gavest him authority over all flesh, that whatsoever thou hast given him, to them he should give 3 eternal life. And this is life eternal, that they should know thee the only true God, and him whom thou didst send, _even_ Jesus 4 Christ. I glorified thee on the earth, having accomplished the 5 work which thou hast given me to do. And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee 6 before the world was. I manifested thy name unto the men whom thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them 7 to me; and they have kept thy word. Now they know that all things 8 whatsoever thou hast given me are from thee: for the words which thou gavest me I have given unto them; and they received _them_, and knew of a truth that I came forth from thee, and they believed 9 that thou didst send me. I [1]pray for them: I [1]pray not for the world, but for those whom thou hast given me; for they are thine: 10 and all things that are mine are thine, and thine are mine: and I 11 am glorified in them. And I am no more in the world, and these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep them in thy name which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we 12 _are_. While I was with them, I kept them in thy name which thou hast given me: and I guarded them, and not one of them perished, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might be fulfilled 13 [_see Ps. 41:9_]. But now I come to thee; and these things I speak 14 in the world, that they may have my joy fulfilled in themselves. I have given them thy word; and the world hated them, because they 15 are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. I [1]pray not that thou shouldest take them [2]from the world, but that thou 16

shouldest keep them [2]from [3]the evil _one_. They are not of the 17 world, even as I am not of the world. [4]Sanctify them in the 18 truth: thy word is truth. As thou didst send me into the world, 19 even so sent I them into the world. And for their sakes I [4]sanctify myself, that they themselves also may be sanctified in 20 truth. Neither for these only do I [1]pray, but for them also that 21 believe on me through their word; that they may all be one; even as thou, Father, _art_ in me, and I in thee, that they also may be 22 in us: that the world may believe that thou didst send me. And the glory which thou hast given me I have given unto them; that they 23 may be one, even as we _are_ one; I in them, and thou in me, that they may be perfected into one; that the world may know that thou 24 didst send me, and lovedst them, even as thou lovedst me. Father, [5]that which thou hast given me, I will that, where I am, they also may be with me; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the 25 world. O righteous Father, the world knew thee not, but I knew 26 thee; and these knew that thou didst send me; and I made known unto them thy name, and will make it known; that the love wherewith thou lovedst me may be in them, and I in them.

[Footnote a: The Synoptic Gospels do not give the great discourse of Jesus in John 14 to 17. Hence they represent Jesus as going forth to Gethsemane after the institution of the supper (Sect. 148). The time was probably not long and they apparently sang the hymn (probably one of the Psalms) as they rose to leave the Upper Room (John 14:31). Hence the passage in John 15 to 17 comes in between singing the hymn and reaching Gethsemane.]

Sect. 154. JESUS FIRST[a] EXAMINED BY ANNAS, THE EX-HIGH-PRIEST

The Jewish Trial and related occurrences, Sects. 154-162.

Friday before dawn

John 18:12-14, 19-23

12 So the [1]band and the [2]chief captain, and the officers of the 13 Jews, seized Jesus and bound him, and led him to Annas first; for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was high priest that year. 14 Now Caiaphas was he which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people. 19 The high priest therefore asked Jesus of his disciples, and of 20 his teaching. Jesus answered him, I have spoken openly to the world; I ever taught in [3]synagogues, and in the temple, where all 21 the Jews come together; and in secret spake I nothing. Why askest thou me? ask them that have heard _me_, what I spake unto them: 22 behold, these know the things which I said. And when he had said this, one of the officers standing by struck Jesus [4]with his 23 hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so? Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me?

[Footnote a: Each of the four Gospels records three denials; but the details differ considerably, as must always be the case where in each narrative a few facts are selected out of many sayings and doings. We have seen (footnote on Sect. 154) that there were _three stages_ of the Jewish trial, (l) before Annas, (2) before Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin for informal examination, (3) before them in a formal trial. Now John gives only the first of the three stages, Luke only the last, Matthew and Mark give the second stage fully, and the third in brief mention. If Peter's denials ran through all three (and Luke says in ver. 59 that there was an hour between his second and third denials), then no one of the four Gospels could give each of the denials precisely at the time of its occurrence; and so each Gospel merely throws them together, as in another way we here bring them together in one section. There is no difficulty about the substantial fact of the denials; and we must be content with our inability to arrange all the circumstances into a complete programme.]

Sect. 157. AFTER DAWN, JESUS IS FORMALLY[a] CONDEMNED BY THE SANHEDRIN

Friday

Mark 15:1 |Matt. 27:1 |Luke 22:66-71 | | 1 And straightway | 1 Now when morning |66 And as soon as in the morning the | was come, all the | it was day, the chief priests with | chief priests and | assembly of the the elders and | the elders of the | elders of the scribes, and the | people took counsel | people was whole council, held | against Jesus to put| gathered together, a consultation, | him to death: | both chief priests | | and scribes; and | | they led him away 67 into their council, saying, If thou art the Christ, tell us. But 68 he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe: and if I 69 ask _you_, ye will not answer. But from henceforth shall the Son of man be seated on the right hand of the power of God [_see Ps. 70 110:1; Dan. 7:13_]. And they all said, Art thou then the Son of 71 God? And he said unto them, [1]Ye say that I am. And they said, What further need have we of witness? for we ourselves have heard from his own mouth.

[Footnote 1: Or, _Ye say_ it, _because I am._]

[Footnote a: This ratification of the condemnation after dawn was an effort to make the action legal. But no ratification of a wrong can make it right. Some modern Jewish writers admit the illegalities and argue the unhistorical character of the narrative. But the hate of the Sanhedrin for Jesus made them violate their own rules of legal procedure. See my book, _The Pharisees and Jesus_.]

Sect. 158. REMORSE AND SUICIDE OF JUDAS THE BETRAYER

And the chief priests took the pieces of silver, and said, It is not lawful to put them into the [2]treasury, since it is the price of blood [_see Deut. 23:18_]. 7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to 8 bury strangers in. Wherefore that field was called, The field of 9 blood, unto this day. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken [3]by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, And [4]they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was priced, [5]whom 10 _certain_ of the children of Israel did price; and [6]they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me [_see Zech. 11:13; Jer. 18:2; 19:2; 32:6-15_].

Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my [3]servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence. 37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, [4]Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end have I been born, and to this end am I come into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Sect. 160. JESUS BEFORE HEROD ANTIPAS THE TETRARCH

Jerusalem. Friday, early morning

Luke 23:6-12

6 But when Pilate heard it, he asked whether the man were a 7 Galilean. And when he knew that he was of Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him unto Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem in these days. 8 Now when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for he was of a long time desirous to see him, because he had heard concerning 9 him;[a] and he hoped to see some [1]miracle done by him. And he 10 questioned him in many words; but he answered him nothing. And the 11 chief priests and the scribes stood, vehemently accusing him. And Herod with his soldiers set him at nought, and mocked him, and 12 arraying him in gorgeous apparel sent him back to Pilate. And Herod and Pilate became friends with each other that very day: for before they were at enmity between themselves.

Sect. 161. JESUS THE SECOND TIME BEFORE PILATE

Pilate slowly and reluctantly and in fear surrenders to the demand of the Sanhedrin for the crucifixion of Christ.

And the soldiers plaited a crown of thorns, and put 3 it on his head, and arrayed him in a purple garment; and they came unto him, and said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they struck him 4 [6]with their hands. And Pilate went out again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him out to you, that ye may know that I find | | | no crime in | | | 5 him. When 9 Pilate therefore heard this saying, he was the more afraid; and he entered into the [3]palace again, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art 10 thou? But Jesus gave him no answer. Pilate therefore saith unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have 11 [7]power to release thee, and have [7]power to crucify thee? Jesus answered him, Thou wouldest have no [7]power against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath greater sin. 12 Upon this Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou release this man, thou art not Caesar's friend: every one that maketh himself a king [8]speaketh against Caesar. 13 When Pilate therefore heard these words, he brought Jesus out, and sat down on the judgement-seat at a place called The Pavement, but 14 in Hebrew, Gabbatha. Now it was the Preparation of the passover: it was about the sixth hour.[a] And he saith unto the Jews, | | | Behold, your | | |15 King! [Footnote 8: Or, _opposeth Caesar_.]

[Footnote a: It appears that John, who wrote in Asia Minor, long after the destruction of Jerusalem, makes the day begin at midnight, as the Greeks and Romans did. We seem compelled so to understand him in 20:19 (comp. Luke 24:29-39); and in no passage of his Gospel is that view unsuitable. Here then we understand that Pilate passed the sentence about sunrise, which at the Passover, near the vernal equinox, would be 6 o'clock. The intervening three hours might be occupied in preparations, and the Crucifixion occurred at 9 o'clock, viz. the third hour as counted by the Jews (Mark 15:25).]

[Footnote b: Pilate, of course, could not escape full legal and moral responsibility for his cowardly surrender to the Sanhedrin to keep his own office. The guilt of the Sanhedrin (both Pharisees and Sadducees unite in the demand for the blood of Jesus) is beyond dispute. It is impossible to make a mere political issue out of it and to lay all the blame on the Sadducees, who feared a revolution. The Pharisees began the attacks against Jesus on theological and ecclesiastical grounds. The Sadducees later joined the conspiracy against Christ. Judas was a mere tool of the Sanhedrin, who had his resentments and grievances to avenge. There is guilt enough for all the plotters in the greatest wrong of the ages.]

But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for 29 yourselves, and for your children. For behold, the days are coming, in which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the 30 wombs that never bare, and the breasts that never gave suck. Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the 31 hills, Cover us [_see Hos. 10:8_]. For if they do these things in the green tree, what shall be done in the dry? | |32 And there | | | were also two | | | others, | | | malefactors, | | | led with him | | | to be put to | | | death. | 22 And they |33 And when they|33 And when | unto the place bring him | were come | they came unto| called The unto the | unto a place | the place | place of a place | called | which is | skull, which Golgotha, | Golgotha, | called [3]The | is called in which is, | that is to | skull, | Hebrew being | say, The | | Golgotha: interpreted, | place of a | | The place of |34 skull, they | | 23 a skull. [Footnote 2: Gr. _impress_.]

[Footnote 3: According to the Latin, _Calvary_, which has the same meaning.]

[Footnote a: Golgotha is the Aramaic word for "skull," and Calvary is the Latin word. The place cannot have been where the so-called "Church of the Holy Sepulchre" stands, far within the walls. There is of late a rapidly growing agreement that it was the northern end of the Temple hill, whose rounded summit (without the city wall), and southern face with holes in the rock, looks at a little distance much like a skull. This place fulfils all the conditions.]

Sect. 164. THE FIRST THREE HOURS ON THE CROSS

From nine A.M. till noon on Friday (three sayings of Jesus; the soldiers gambling for the garment of Jesus; the inscription on the Cross; the scoffing of Jesus by the multitude, the Sanhedrin, the soldiers, and even by the two robbers on each side of Christ)[a]

And from that hour the disciple took her unto his own _home_.

[Footnote 3: Many ancient authorities insert ver. 28 _And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was reckoned with transgressors._ See Luke 22:37.]

[Footnote a: It is not easy to tell the precise order of the events during this period of three hours, since the Gospels do not present them in the same detail or order. On the whole it has seemed best simply to follow Mark's arrangement as we have done uniformly in the Harmony. Thus the apparent order of the sayings is (1) The Prayer for Christ's enemies in Luke 23:34. (2) The Promise to the Repentant Robber in Luke 23:43. (3) The Charge to the Mother of Jesus and to the Beloved Disciple in John 19:26, 27. These three sayings are with reference to others.]

Sect. 167. THE BURIAL OF THE BODY OF JESUS IN THE TOMB OF JOSEPH OF ARIMATHEA AFTER PROOF OF HIS DEATH

Friday afternoon before 6 P.M.

Mark 15:42-46 |Matt. 27:57-60 |Luke 23:50-54 |John 19:31-42 | | | | |31 The Jews | | | therefore, because it was the Preparation, that the bodies should not remain on the cross upon the sabbath (for the day of that sabbath was a high _day_), asked of Pilate that their legs might be broken, and 32 _that_ they might be taken away. The soldiers therefore came, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified 33 with him: but when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead 34 already, they brake not his legs: howbeit one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and straightway there came out blood and 35 water. And he that hath seen hath borne witness, and his witness is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye also may 36 believe. For these things came to pass, that the scripture might be fulfilled [_see Ex. 12:46; Num. 9:12; Ps. 34:20_], A bone of 37 him shall not be [3]broken. And again another scripture saith [_see Zech. 12:10. Sect. 168. THE WATCH OF THE WOMEN BY THE TOMB OF JESUS

The women maintain their watch and rest on the Sabbath (beginning 6 P.M.) while the Pharisees have a guard of Roman soldiers to keep watch over the Roman seal on the tomb.

Friday afternoon till Saturday afternoon

Mark 15:47 |Matt. 27:61-66 |Luke 23:55-56 | | 47 And Mary Magdalene |61 And Mary Magdalene |55 And the women, and Mary the | was there, and the | which had come _mother_ of Joses | other Mary, sitting | with him out of beheld where he was | over against the | Galilee, followed laid. | sepulchre. | after, and beheld | | the tomb, and how | | his body was laid. | |56 And they returned, | | and prepared | | spices and | | ointments. | | And on the | | sabbath[a] they | | rested according | | to the commandment |62 Now on the morrow,| [_see Ex. 12:16; | which is _the day_ | 20:8-11; Deut. | after the | 5:12-15_]. | Preparation, the | | chief priests and | 63 the Pharisees were gathered together unto Pilate, saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, After 64 three days I rise again. Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest haply his disciples come and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the 65 dead: and the last error will be worse than the first. Pilate said unto them, [1]Ye have a guard: go your way, [2]make it _as_ sure 66 as ye can. So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, the guard being with them.

[Footnote 1: Or, _Take a guard_.]

[Footnote 2: Gr. _make it sure, as ye know_.]

[Footnote a: Luke (23:54) notes that "the Sabbath drew on" after the burial on Friday afternoon. The Sabbath began at 6 P.M. Then Luke notes that the women rested during the Sabbath (our Friday night and Saturday).]

PART XIV

THE RESURRECTION, APPEARANCES, AND ASCENSION OF CHRIST

During forty days beginning with Sunday after the death of Christ. Spring of A.D. 30 (or 29). Judea and Galilee.[a] Sects. 169-184.

[Footnote a: Of this period we see that he remained at or near Jerusalem for a week. Then he probably left at once for Galilee (Matt. 28:7; Mark 16:7). In the month that followed we cannot fix the exact time of the events that occurred in Galilee, but just at the end of the forty days we find him again in Jerusalem.]

Sect. 169. THE VISIT OF THE WOMEN TO THE TOMB OF JESUS

They watch the tomb late on the Sabbath (our Saturday afternoon); and the purchase of spices by them after the Sabbath (after 6 P.M. Saturday) on the first day of the week.

GOLGOTHA AND BETHANY

Our late Saturday afternoon and early evening

Mark 16:1 |Matt. 28:1 | | 1 Now late on the sabbath | day,[a] as it began to dawn | toward the first _day_ of the | week, came Mary Magdalene and | the other Mary to see the | sepulchre. 1 And when the sabbath was | past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary | the _mother_ of James, and | Salome, bought spices, that | they might come and anoint him.|

[Footnote a: This phrase once gave much trouble, but the usage of the vernacular _Koine_ Greek amply justifies the translation. The visit of the women to inspect the tomb was thus made before the sabbath was over (before 6 P.M. on Saturday). But the same Greek idiom was occasionally used in the sense of "after." See Robertson, Grammar of the Greek New Testament in the Light of Historical Research, p. 645. The distance from Bethany to Golgotha was not more than a sabbath day's journey. The spices could be purchased after sundown either in Bethany or Jerusalem. It must be borne in mind that the Jewish First Day of the Week began at 6 P.M. on our Saturday.]

Sect. 170. THE EARTHQUAKE, THE ROLLING AWAY OF THE STONE BY AN ANGEL, AND THE FRIGHT OF THE ROMAN WATCHERS

Sunday before sunrise

Matt. 28:2-4

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled away the stone, and 3 sat upon it. His appearance was as lightning, and his raiment white 4 as snow: and for fear of him the watchers did quake, and became as dead men.

Sect. 171. THE VISIT OF THE WOMEN TO THE TOMB OF JESUS ABOUT SUNRISE SUNDAY MORNING AND THE MESSAGE OF THE ANGELS ABOUT THE EMPTY TOMB

[Footnote 1: Many ancient authorities read _where he lay_.]

[Footnote 2: Some ancient authorities omit _of the Lord Jesus_.]

[Footnote 3: Gr. _him that liveth_.]

[Footnote 4: Some ancient authorities omit _He is not here, but is risen._]

[Footnote a: So he had already risen at early dawn on the first day of the week. He was buried (Sect. 167) shortly before sunset on Friday, and at sunset the sabbath began. So he lay in the tomb a small part of Friday, all of Saturday, and 10 or 11 hours of Sunday. This corresponds exactly with the seven times repeated statement that he would or did rise "on the third day," which _could not possibly_ mean after 72 hours. The phrase two or three times given, "after three days," naturally denoted for Jews, as for Greeks and Romans, a whole central day and any part of a first and third, thus agreeing with "on the third day." Even the "three days and three nights" of Matt. 12:40 need not, according to known Jewish usage, mean more than we have described. So these expressions _can_ be reconciled with "on the third day," and with the facts as recorded, while "on the third day" _cannot_ mean after 72 hours. See Note 13 at end of the Harmony for full discussion of the question. There is no real appeal from the testimony of Luke, who gives the whole period. Luke states that Jesus was buried just before the sabbath "drew on" (our Friday evening); that the women rested during the sabbath (our Saturday), and that Jesus was already risen early Sunday morning when the women came to the tomb.]

Five appearances are given as occurring on the day of his resurrection, and five subsequently during the forty days. The five appearances on this day were (1) to Mary Magdalene (John and Mark); (2) to other women (Matthew); (3) to the two going to Emmaus; (4) to Simon Peter (Luke 24:34); (5) to ten apostles and others.

Sect. 173. THE APPEARANCE OF JESUS TO MARY MAGDALENE AND THE MESSAGE TO THE DISCIPLES

Jerusalem. The first day of the week (Sunday)

Mark 16:9-11 |John 20:11-18 | |11 But Mary was standing without | at the tomb weeping: so, as she | wept, she stooped and looked |12 into the tomb; and she | beholdeth two angels in white | sitting, one at the head, and | one at the feet, where the body |13 of Jesus had lain. And they say | unto her, Woman, why weepest | thou? She saith unto them, | Because they have taken away my | Lord, and I know not where they 9 [1]Now when he was risen |14 have laid him. Sect. 174. THE APPEARANCE OF JESUS TO THE OTHER WOMEN

Jerusalem. Sunday the first day of the week

Matt. 28:9-10

9 And behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and 10 took hold of his feet, and worshipped him. Then saith Jesus unto them, Fear not: go tell my brethren that they depart into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Sect. 175. SOME OF THE GUARD REPORT TO THE JEWISH RULERS

Matt 28:11-15

11 Now while they were going, behold, some of the guard came into the city, and told unto the chief priests all the things that were 12 come to pass. And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large money unto the soldiers, 13 saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away 14 while we slept. And if this [1]come to the governor's ears, we 15 will persuade him, and rid you of care. So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying was spread abroad among the Jews, _and continueth_ until this day.

Sect. 176. THE APPEARANCE TO TWO DISCIPLES (CLEOPAS AND ANOTHER) ON THE WAY TO EMMAUS

Sunday afternoon

Mark 16:12, 13 |Luke 24:13-32 | 12 And after these things he was|13 And behold, two of them were manifested in another form unto| going that very day to a two of them, as they walked, on| village named Emmaus, which was 13 their way into the country. And| threescore furlongs from they went away and told it unto|14 Jerusalem. And they communed the rest: neither believed they| with each other of all these them. |15 things which had happened. And | it came to pass, while they | communed and questioned 16 together, that Jesus himself drew near, and went with them. But 17 their eyes were holden that they should not know him. And he said unto them, [1]What communications are these that ye have one with 18 another, as ye walk? And they stood still, looking sad. And one of them, named Cleopas, answering said unto him, [2]Dost thou alone sojourn in Jerusalem and not know the things which are come to 19 pass there in these days? And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, The things concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the 20 people: and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him up 21 to be condemned to death, and crucified him. But we hoped that it was he which should redeem Israel. Yea and beside all this, it is 22 now the third day since these things came to pass. Moreover certain women of our company amazed us, having been early at the 23 tomb; and when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was 24 alive. And certain of them that were with us went to the tomb, and 25 found it even so as the women had said: but him they saw not. And he said unto them, O foolish men, and slow of heart to believe 26 [3]in all that the prophets have spoken! Behoved it not the Christ 27 to suffer these things, and to enter into his glory? And beginning from Moses and from all the prophets, he interpreted to them in 28 all the scriptures the things concerning himself. And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they were going: and he made as 29 though he would go further. And they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is now far 30 spent. And he went in to abide with them. And it came to pass, when he had sat down with them to meat, he took the [4]bread, and 31 blessed it, and brake, and gave to them. And their eyes were 32 opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight. And they said one to another, Was not our heart burning within us, while he spake to us in the way, while he opened to us the scriptures?

Sect. 177. THE REPORT OF THE TWO DISCIPLES AND THE NEWS OF THE APPEARANCE TO SIMON PETER

Jerusalem. Sunday evening

Luke 24:33-35 |1 Cor. 15:5 | 33 And they rose up that very | hour, and returned to | Jerusalem, and found the eleven| 34 gathered together, and them | that were with them, saying, | The Lord is risen indeed, and | 35 hath appeared to Simon. And |5 and that he appeared to Cephas. they rehearsed the things _that| happened_ in the way, and how | he was known of them in the | breaking of the bread. |

Sect. 178. THE APPEARANCE TO THE ASTONISHED DISCIPLES (THOMAS ABSENT) WITH A COMMISSION AND THEIR FAILURE TO CONVINCE THOMAS

Jerusalem. Sunday evening

Mark 16:14 |Luke 24:36-43 |John 20:19-25 | | | |19 When therefore it | | was evening, on | | that day, the | | first _day_ of the | | week, and when the 14 And afterward he |36 And as they spake | doors were shut was manifested unto | these things, he | where the the eleven | himself stood in the| disciples were, themselves as they | midst of them, | for fear of the sat at meat; | [1]and saith unto | Jews, Jesus came | them, Peace _be_ | and stood in the |37 unto you. And they gave | | him a piece of a | | broiled fish.[3] And| | he took it, and did | | eat before them. | | | The disciples | | therefore were 21 glad, when they saw the Lord. Jesus therefore said to them again, Peace _be_ unto you: as the Father hath sent me, even so send I 22 you. And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith 23 unto them, Receive ye the [4]Holy Ghost: whose soever sins ye forgive, they are forgiven unto them; whose soever _sins_ ye retain, they are retained.[a] 24 But Thomas, one of the twelve, called [5]Didymus, was not with 25 them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and put my hand into his side, I will not believe.

Sect. 179. THE APPEARANCE TO THE DISCIPLES THE NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT AND THE CONVINCING OF THOMAS

Jerusalem

John 20:26-31 |1 Cor. 15:5 | 26 And after eight days again | 5 [and that he appeared to his disciples were within, and | Cephas;] then to the twelve; Thomas with them. Jesus cometh,| the doors being shut, and stood| 27 in the midst, and said, Peace _be_ unto you. Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and see my hands; and reach _hither_ thy hand, and put it into my side: and be not faithless, 28 but believing. Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my 29 God. Jesus saith unto him, Because thou hast seen me, [1]thou hast believed: blessed _are_ they that have not seen, and _yet_ have believed. 30 Many other signs therefore did Jesus in the presence of the 31 disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in his name.

Sect. 180. THE APPEARANCE TO SEVEN DISCIPLES BESIDE THE SEA OF GALILEE.[a] THE MIRACULOUS DRAUGHT OF FISHES

John 21

1 After these things Jesus manifested himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and he manifested _himself_ on 2 this wise. There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called [1]Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the _sons_ of 3 Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also come with thee. They went forth, and entered into the boat; and that night they 4 took nothing. But when day was now breaking, Jesus stood on the 5 beach: howbeit the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus therefore said unto them, Children, have ye aught to eat? They 6 answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the boat, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now 7 they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes. That disciple therefore whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. So when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his 8 coat about him (for he was naked), and cast himself into the sea. But the other disciples came in the little boat (for they were not far from the land, but about two hundred cubits off), dragging the 9 net _full_ of fishes. So when they got out upon the land, they see [2]a fire of coals there, and [3]fish laid thereon, and [4]bread. 10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now taken. 11 Simon Peter therefore went [5]up, and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, a hundred and fifty and three: and for all there 12 were so many, the net was not rent. Jesus saith unto them, Come _and_ break your fast. And none of the disciples durst inquire of 13 him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord. Jesus cometh, and 14 taketh the [6]bread, and giveth them, and the fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus was manifested to the disciples, after he was risen from the dead. 15 So when they had broken their fast, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, _son_ of [7]John, [8]lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I [9]love thee. He 16 saith unto him, Feed my lambs. He saith to him again a second time, Simon, _son_ of [7]John, [8]lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I [9]love thee. He saith unto 17 him, Tend my sheep. He saith unto him the third time, Simon, _son_ of [7]John, [9]lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, [9]Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou [10]knowest that I [9]love 18 thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. Verily, verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and 19 carry thee whither thou wouldest not. Now this he spake, signifying by what manner of death he should glorify God. And when 20 he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me. Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned back on his breast at the supper, and said, Lord, who is he 21 that betrayeth thee? Peter therefore seeing him saith to Jesus, 22 Lord, [11]and what shall this man do? Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what _is that_ to thee? follow 23 thou me. This saying therefore went forth among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, that he should not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what _is that_ to thee? 24 This is the disciple which beareth witness of these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his witness is true. 25 And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself would not contain the books that should be written.

EXPLANATORY NOTES ON POINTS OF SPECIAL DIFFICULTY IN THE HARMONY

1. About Harmonies of the Gospels

We do not know how soon an effort was made to combine in one book the several portrayals of the life of Jesus. Luke in his Gospel (1:1-4) makes a selection of the material and incorporates data from different sources, but with the stamp of his own arrangement and style. He followed, in the main, the order of Mark's Gospel, as is easily seen. But this method is not what is meant by a harmony of the Gospels, for the result is a selection from all sorts of material (oral and written), monographs and longer treatises.

The first known harmony is Tatian's Diatessaron (_dia tessaron_, by four) in the second century (about 160 A.D.) in the Syriac tongue. It was long lost, but an Arabic translation has been found and an English rendering appeared in 1894 by J. Hamlyn Hill. It is plain that Tatian has blended into one narrative our Four Gospels with a certain amount of freedom as is shown by Hobson's _The Diatessaron of Tatian and the Synoptic Problem_ (1904). There have been modern attempts also to combine into one story the records of the Four Gospels. There is a superficial advantage in such an effort in the freedom from variations in the accounts, but the loss is too great for such an arbitrary gain. The word harmony calls for such an arrangement, but it is not the method of the best modern harmonies which preserve the differences in material and style just as they are in the Four Gospels.

In the third century Ammonius arranged the Gospels in four parallel columns (the _Sections_ of Ammonius). This was an attempt to give a conspectus of the material in the Gospels side by side. In the fourth century Eusebius with his _Canons_ and _Sections_ enabled the reader to see at a glance the parallel passages in the Gospels. The ancients took a keen interest in this form of study of the Gospels, as Augustine shows.

Of modern harmonies that by Edward Robinson has had the most influence. The edition in English appeared in 1845, that in Greek in 1846. Riddle revised Robinson's Harmony in 1889. There were many others that employed the Authorized Version, like Clark's, and that divided the life of Christ according to the feasts.

Broadus (June, 1893) followed Waddy (1887) in the use of the Canterbury Revision, but was the first to break away from the division by feasts and to show the historical development in the life of Jesus. Stevens and Burton followed (December, 1893) Broadus within six months and, like him, used the Canterbury Revision and had an independent division of the life of Christ to show the historical unfolding of the events. These two harmonies have held the field for nearly thirty years for students of the English Gospels. In 1903 Kerr issued one in the American Standard Version and James one in the Canterbury Revision (1901).

Harmonies of the Gospels in the Greek continued to appear, like Tischendorf's (1851, new edition 1891), Wright's _A Synopsis of the Gospels in Greek_ (1903), Huck's _Synopse der drei ersten Evangelien_ (1892, English translation in 1907), Campbell's _First Three Gospels in Greek_ (1899), _A Harmony of the Synoptic Gospels in Greek_ by Burton and Goodspeed (1920).

The progress in synoptic criticism emphasized the difference in subject matter and style between the Synoptic Gospels and the Fourth Gospel as appears in the works of Huck, Campbell, and Burton and Goodspeed that give only the Synoptic Gospels. Burton and Goodspeed have also an English work, _A Harmony of the Synoptic Gospels for Historical and Critical Study_ (1917). In 1917 Sharman (_Records of the Life of Jesus_) gives first a harmony of the Synoptic Gospels with references to the Fourth Gospel and then an outline of the Fourth Gospel with references to the Synoptic Gospels.

Once more in 1919 Van Kirk produced _The Source Book of the Life of Christ_ which is only a partial harmony, for the parables and speeches of Jesus are only referred to, not quoted. But he endeavored to show the results of Gospel criticism in the text of the book. There is much useful material here for a harmony, but it is not a real harmony that can be used for the full story of the life of Jesus. Van Kirk, however, is the first writer to place Mark in the first column instead of Matthew. I had already done it in my outline before I saw Van Kirk's book, but his was published first. It is an immense improvement to put Mark first. The student thus sees that the arrangement of the material is not arbitrary and whimsical, but orderly and natural. Both Matthew and Luke follow Mark's order except in the first part of Matthew where he is topical in the main. John supplements the Synoptic Gospels, particularly in the Judean (Jerusalem) Ministry.

Slowly, therefore, progress has been made in the harmonies of the Gospels. But the modern student is able to reproduce the life and words of Jesus as has not been possible since the first century. It is a fourfold portrait of Christ that we get, but the whole is infinitely richer than the picture given by any one of the Four Gospels. The present Harmony aims to put the student in touch with the results of modern scholarly research and to focus attention on the actual story in the Gospels themselves. One may have his own opinion of the Fourth Gospel, but it is needed in a harmony for completeness.

2. Synoptic Criticism

The criticism of the synoptic gospels has been able to reach a broad general conclusion that is likely to stand the test of time. The reason for this happy solution lies in the fact that the processes and results can be tested. It is not mere subjective speculation. Any one who knows how to weigh evidence can compare Mark, Matthew, and Luke in the English, and still better in the Greek. The pages of the present harmony offer proof enough. It is plain as a pikestaff that both our Matthew and Luke used practically all of Mark and followed his general order of events. For this reason Mark has been placed first on the pages where this Gospel appears at all. But another thing is equally clear and that is that both Matthew and Luke had another source in common because they each give practically identical matter for much that is not in Mark at all. This second common source for Matthew and Luke has been called Logia because it is chiefly discourses. It is sometimes referred to as "Q", the first letter of the German word _Quelle_ (source). Unfortunately we do not have the whole of the Logia (Q) before us as in the case of Mark, though we probably do not possess the original ending of Mark in 16:9-20. But we can at least reproduce what is preserved. Still, just as sometimes either Matthew or Luke made use of Mark, so in the case of the Logia that is probably true. Hence we cannot tell the precise limits of the Logia. Besides, a small part of Mark is not employed by either Matthew or Luke and that may be true of the Logia. But the fact of these two sources for Matthew and Luke seems to be proven.

But there are various other points to be observed. One is that both Matthew and Luke may have had various other sources. Luke tells us (Luke 1:1-4) that he made use of "many" such sources, both oral and written. And a large part of Luke does not appear in the other gospels or at least similar events and sayings occur in different environments and times. Hence our solid conclusion must allow freedom and flexibility to the writers in various ways. We can see for ourselves how Matthew and Luke handled both Mark and the Logia, each in his own way and with individual touches of style and purpose.

One other matter calls for attention. Papias is quoted by Eusebius as saying that Matthew wrote in Hebrew (or Aramaic) whereas our present Matthew is in Greek. It is now commonly held that the real Matthew (Levi) wrote the Logia first in Aramaic and that either he or some one else used that with Mark and other sources for our present Gospel of Matthew.

It should be added also that there is a considerable body of evidence for the view that Mark wrote under the influence of Simon Peter and preserves the vividness and freshness of Peter's own style as an eyewitness.

One other result has come. It is increasingly admitted that the Logia was very early, before 50 A.D., and Mark likewise if Luke wrote the Acts while Paul was still alive. Luke's Gospel comes (Acts 1:1) before the Acts. The date of Acts is still in dispute, but the early date (about A.D. 63) is gaining support constantly. The upshot of these centuries of synoptic criticism has brought into sharp outline the facts that now stand out with reasonable clearness. There are many points in dispute still, but we at least know how the synoptic gospels were written, and are reasonably certain of the dates and the authors.

There are many good books on the subject, like Hawkin's _Horae Synopticae_ (second edition), Sanday's _Oxford Studies in the Synoptic Problem_, Harnack's _Sayings of Jesus_ and his _Date of the Synoptic Gospels and Acts_. My own views appear in my _Commentary on Matthew_ (Bible for Home and School), _Studies in Mark's Gospel_, and _Luke the Historian in the Light of Research_.

3. The Authorship of the Fourth Gospel

It has come to pass that one has to defend the use of the Fourth Gospel on a par with the Synoptic Gospels. The Johannine problem is an old one and a difficult one. It cannot be said that modern scholarship has come to a clear result here, as is true of the Synoptic Gospels. As a matter of fact, the battle still rages vigorously. There are powerful arguments on both sides. A mere sketch of the real situation is all that can be attempted here.

The Gospel and the Epistles are in the same style and can be confidently affirmed to be by the same author. The Apocalypse has some striking peculiarities of its own. There are likenesses in vocabulary and idiom beyond a doubt of a subtle nature, but the grammatical irregularities in the Book of Revelation have long been a puzzle to those who hold to the Johannine authorship. A full discussion of these grammatical details can be found in the leading commentaries on the Apocalypse. A brief survey is given in my _Grammar of the Greek New Testament in the Light of Historical Research_. The facts are undisputed and have a most interesting parallel in the papyri fragments of some of the less educated writers of the _Koine_ as one can see for himself in Milligan's _Greek Papyri_ or in any other collection.

There are two solutions of the problem with two alternatives in each instance. There are those who roundly assert that the same man could not have written both the Gospel and the Apocalypse. Some of these affirm that the Apostle John wrote the Apocalypse but not the Gospel. Certainly a "John" wrote the Revelation or claimed it at any rate. Others of this group hold that an inferential Presbyter John (not "the elder" in 2 and 3 John) supposed to be meant by Papias wrote the Apocalypse while some one else wrote the Gospel whether the Apostle John or not.

But a considerable body of scholars still hold that the same man wrote both the Gospel and the Apocalypse, but a different explanation is offered by two groups. One class of writers affirm that John wrote the Apocalypse first before he had come to be at home in the Greek idiom as we see it in the Gospel and the Epistles. We know that John and Peter were fishermen and were not considered men of literary training by the Sanhedrin (Acts 4:14). This explanation is sufficient but for the further fact that the early date of the Apocalypse (about 70 A.D.) is not now so generally held to be true. The later or Domitianic date as given by Irenaeus seems pretty clearly to be correct. So the other group suggest that the books may belong substantially to the same period (the Domitianic date) and that the explanation of the grammatical infelicities in the Apocalypse may be due to the fact that John being on the Isle of Patmos when he wrote did not have the benefit of friends in Ephesus who apparently read the Gospel (John 21:24-25). Besides, the excited state of John's mind because of the visions may have added to the number of the solecisms in the Apocalypse. This view I personally hold as probable. The unity of both Gospel and Apocalypse is denied by some.

So the matter stands as between the Gospel and the Apocalypse. But the Fourth Gospel has difficulties of its own. These relate in part to the book in itself. It is true there is a great similarity in language and style between the narrative parts of the book and the discourses of Jesus. It is affirmed that the writer has colored the speeches of Jesus with his own style or even made up the dialogues so that they are without historical value or at least on a much lower plane than the Synoptic Gospels as objective history. There is something in this point, but one must remember that the Synoptic Gospels vary in their manner of reporting the speeches of Jesus and aim to give the substance rather than the precise words of the Master in all instances. It is at most a matter of degree. There is a Johannine type of thought and phrase beyond a doubt, but curiously enough we have a paragraph in Matthew 11:24-31 and Luke 10:21-23 that is precisely like the Johannine specimens, written long before the Fourth Gospel. One must remember the versatility of Jesus, who could not be retained in any one style or mold. But there are those who admit the Johannine authorship of the Gospel and yet who refuse to put it on the same plane as the Synoptic Gospels. Every one must decide for himself on this point. For myself I see too much of Christ in the Fourth Gospel in the most realistic and dramatic form to be mere invention. We can enlarge our conception of Christ to make room for the Fourth Gospel.

But even so it is urged that the Beloved Disciple cannot be the Apostle John. If not, then the Fourth Gospel ignores the Apostle John,--a very curious situation. It is a long story for which one must go to the able books in defense of the Johannine authorship by Ezra Abbott, James Drummond, W. Sanday, Luthardt, Watkins and many others. The ablest modern attacks are made by Bacon and Wendt and Schmiedel. My own view is given in my _The Divinity of Christ in the Gospel of John_.

4. The Jesus of History

It is not long since the cry of "Back to Christ" was raised and away from Paul and John. Soon this cry was changed to an appeal to the Jesus of History in opposition to the Christ of Theology. So we had the "Jesus or Christ" controversy (see the Hibbert Journal Supplement for 1909). It was gravely affirmed by some that Paul had created the Christ of Christianity and had permanently altered the simple program of Jesus for a social Kingdom and had turned it into a great ecclesiastical system with speculative Christological interpretations quite beyond the range of the vision of the Jesus of the Synoptic Gospels. It was admitted that the Fourth Gospel, the Apocalypse, and the Epistles all gave the Pauline view.

To the Synoptic Gospels, therefore, we all went. But the Christ of Paul and of John is in the Synoptic Gospels. In all essentials the picture is the same in Luke as in John and Paul. The shading is different, but Jesus in Luke is the Son of God as well as the Son of Man (see my _Luke the Historian in the Light of Research_). It was admitted that Matthew gives the picture of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. Mark reflects Peter's conception of Jesus and gives Jesus as Lord and Christ (see my _Studies in Mark's Gospel_). And Q (the Logia), the earliest document that we have for the life of Christ and almost contemporary with the time of Christ, gives the same essential features of Jesus as the Son of Man and Son of God (see my article _The Christ of the Logia_ in the Contemporary Review for August, 1919). The sober results of modern critical research show the same figure in the very earliest documents that we possess (Q and Mark's Gospel). The Christ of Paul and of John walks as the Jesus of History in the Synoptic Gospels. We do know the earthly life of Jesus much more distinctly and the research of centuries has had a blessed outcome in the enrichment of our knowledge. Matthew and Luke are the first critics of the sources for the life of Jesus. We see how they made use of Mark, the Logia, and other documents. The Fourth Gospel comes last with knowledge of the Synoptic Gospels.

There are, to be sure, a few men who even deny that Jesus ever lived at all. That was the next step; but this absurdity has met complete refutation. The Christ of faith is the Christ of fact. There is no getting away from the fact of Christ, the chief fact of all the ages, the centre of all history, the hope of the ages. Jesus Christ we can still call him, our Lord and Saviour, and he never made such an appeal to men as he does today in the full blaze of modern historical research. Men are just beginning to take his words to heart in all the spheres of human life. The one hope of a new world of righteousness lies precisely in the program of Jesus Christ for the life of the individual in his private affairs, in his family relations, in his business and social dealings, in his political ideals and conduct. And nations must also follow the leadership of Jesus the supreme Teacher of the race.

The purpose of a harmony is not to teach theology, but to make available for men of any faith the facts in the Gospels concerning Jesus of Nazareth. Each interprets these facts and teachings as he sees the light. We can all acknowledge our debt to modern scholarship for the tremendous contributions made to a richer understanding of the environment into which Jesus came and to a juster appreciation of the real significance of his person and his message. The Gospels are still the most fascinating books in the world for sheer simplicity and beauty. One can first trace the picture of Jesus in the Logia, then in Mark, in Matthew, in Luke, in John. To these he can add the pictures of Christ in the Acts, the Epistles, the Apocalypse.

6. The Two Genealogies of Christ

Sceptics of all ages, from Porphyry and Celsus to Strauss, have urged the impossibility of reconciling the difficulties in the two accounts of the descent of Jesus. Even Alford says it is impossible to reconcile them. But certainly several possible explanations have been suggested. The chief difficulties will be discussed.

1. In Matthew's list several discrepancies are pointed out.

_(a)_ It is objected that Matthew is mistaken in making three sets of fourteen each. There are only forty-one names, and this would leave one set with only thirteen. But does Matthew say he has mentioned forty-two names? He does say (1:17) that there are three sets of fourteen and divides them for us himself: "So all the generations from Abraham unto David are fourteen generations; and from David unto the carrying away to Babylon fourteen generations; and from the carrying away to Babylon unto the Christ fourteen generations." The points of division are David and the captivity; in the one case a man, in the other an event. He counts David in each of the first two sets, although Jechoniah is counted only once. David was the connecting link between the patriarchal line and the royal line. But he does not say "from David to Jechoniah," but "from David to the carrying away unto Babylon," and Josiah is the last name he counts before that event. And so the first name after this same event is Jechoniah. Thus Matthew deliberately counts David in two places to give symmetry to the division, which made an easy help to the memory.

_(b)_ The omissions in Matthew's list have occasioned some trouble. These omissions are after Joram, the names of Ahaziah, Joash, Amaziah, and after Josiah, these of Jehoiakim and Eliakim (2 Kings 8:24; 1 Chron. 3:11; 2 Chron. 22:1, 11; 24:27; 2 Kings 23:34; 24:6). But such omissions were very common in the Old Testament genealogies. See 2 Chron. 22:9. Here "son of Jehoshaphat" means "grandson of Jehoshaphat." So in Matt. 1:1 Jesus is called the son of David, the son of Abraham. A direct line of descent is all that it is designed to express. This is all that the term "begat" necessarily means here. It is a real descent. Whatever omissions were made for various reasons, would not invalidate the line. The fact that Ahaziah, Joash, and Amaziah were the sons of Ahab and Jezebel would be sufficient ground for omitting them.

_(c)_ Matthew mentions four women in his list, which is contrary to Jewish custom, viz. Tamar, Rahab, Ruth, and the wife of Uriah. But neither one is counted in the lists of fourteen, and each one has something remarkable in her case (Broadus, Comm. on Matt. _in loco_). Three were guilty of gross sin, and one, Ruth, was of Gentile origin and deserved mention for that reason. This circumstance would seem to indicate that Matthew did not simply copy the genealogical history of Joseph. He did this, omitting what suited his purpose and adding likewise remarks of his own. His record is thus reliable and yet made a part of his own story.

2. A comparison of the lists of Matthew and Luke.

If no list had been given by Luke, no further explanations would be necessary. But Luke not only gives a list, but one radically different from Matthew's, and in inverse order. Matthew begins with Abraham and comes to Jesus; Luke begins with Jesus and concludes with Adam [the son of God]. Several explanations are offered to remove the apparent contradiction.

_(a)_ As early as Julius Africanus it was suggested that the two lines had united in accordance with the law of Levirate marriage. By this theory, Heli and Jacob being stepbrothers, Jacob married Heli's widow and was the real father of Joseph. Thus both genealogies would be the descent of Joseph, one the real, the other the legal. This theory is ably advocated by McClellan, pp. 416 ff., and Waddy, p. xvii. It is argued that Jechoniah's children were born in captivity and so, being slaves, lost both his royal dignity and his legal status. Stress is laid upon the word "begat" to show that Matthew's descent must be the natural pedigree of Joseph, and upon the use of the expression "son (as was supposed) of Joseph." Hence both Joseph's real and legal standing are shown, for by Luke's account he had an undisputed legal title to descend from David. This is certainly possible, although it rests on the hypothesis of the Levirate marriage.

_(b)_ Lord Arthur Hervey, in his volume on the Genealogies of Our Lord, and in Smith's Dictionary, argues that Matthew gives Joseph's legal descent as successor to the throne of David. According to this theory Solomon's line failed in Jechoniah (Jer. 22:30) and Shealtiel of Matthew's line took his place. Luke's account, on the other hand, gives Joseph's real parentage. Matthew's Matthan and Luke's Mattathias are identified as one, and the law of Levirate marriage comes into service with Jacob and Heli. This explanation has received favor with such writers as Mill, Alford, Wordsworth, Ellicott, Westcott, Fairbairn. McNeile (on Matthew) considers this the "only possible" view. The chief objection seems to be the most natural meaning of "begat," implying direct descent, and the necessity for two suppositions, one about Shealtiel and another about Jacob and Heli. It is even fairly probable that the Shealtiel and Zerubbabel of Matthew and Luke are different persons.

_(c)_ The third and most plausible solution yet suggested makes Matthew give the real descent of Joseph, and Luke the real descent of Mary. Several arguments of more or less weight can be adduced for this hypothesis.

(1) The most natural meaning of "begat" in Matthew is preserved. Jesus goes through David's royal line and so fulfils prophecy. It is not elsewhere stated that Mary was of Davidic descent, although presumptive evidence exists in the language of the angel (Luke 1:32) and the enrollment of Mary (Luke 2:5). So Robinson (Revised edition).

(2) The use of Joseph without the article, while it is used with every other name in the list. "The absence of the article puts the name outside of the genealogical series properly so-called."--Godet. This would seem to indicate that Joseph belonged to the parenthesis, "as was supposed." It would read thus, "being son (as was supposed of Joseph) of Heli." Luke had already clearly stated the manner of Christ's birth, so that no one would think he was the son of Joseph. Jesus would thus be Heli's grandson, an allowable meaning of "son." See Andrews' (new edition) _Life of Our Lord_, p. 63.

(3) It would seem proper that Matthew should give the _legal_ descent of Jesus, since he wrote chiefly for Jews. This, of course, could only be through Joseph.

(4) And it would seem equally fitting that Luke should give the _real_ genealogy of Jesus, since he was writing for all. And this could come only through Mary. If it is objected that a woman's genealogy is never given, it may be replied that women are mentioned for special reasons in Matthew's list, though not counted, and that Mary's name is not mentioned in this list. The genealogy goes back to her father either by skipping her as suggested above and making son mean the grandson of Heli, or by allowing Joseph to stand in her place in the list, as he would have to do anyhow. On the whole, then, this theory seems the most plausible and pleasing. So practically Luther, Bengel, Olshausen, Lightfoot, Wieseler, Robinson, Alexander, Godet, Weiss, Andrews (new edition, p. 65), Broadus, and many recent writers.

But Bacon (Genealogy of Jesus Christ, Hastings D. B. and Am. J. of Theol. Jan., 1911) says that nearly all writers of authority abandon any effort to reconcile the two pedigrees of Jesus save as the effort of Christians to give "His Davidic sonship rather than His actual descent." See Machen's survey of negative criticism, on the subject in Princeton Theol. Review (Jan., 1906). Barnard (Hastings D. C. G.) admits two independent accounts, but sees no solution, but Sweet (Int. St. Bible Encyl.) accepts the view that Matthew gives the real genealogy of Joseph and Luke that of Mary. Plummer (Comm. on Luke) thinks it incredible that Mary's genealogy should be given by Luke.

6. The Probable Time of the Saviour's Birth

Every one now understands that the accepted date of our Lord's birth is wrong by several years. The estimates of the true date vary all the way from one to seven years B.C. There are various data that fix the year with more or less certainty, but none of them with absolute precision. They do, however, agree in marking pretty clearly a narrow limit for this notable occurrence, B.C. 6 or 5.

1. The death of Herod the Great is relied on with most certainty to fix the year of Christ's birth. The rule of Archelaus and Antipas demands B.C. 4. Josephus mentions an eclipse of the moon which occurred shortly before he died. Ant. XVII, 6, 4. This eclipse is the only one alluded to by Josephus, and fixes with absolute certainty the time after which the birth of Jesus could not have occurred, since, according to Matt. 2:1-6, Jesus was born while Herod was still living. The question to be determined would be the year of this eclipse. Astronomical calculations name an eclipse of the moon March 12 and 13, in the year of Rome 750, and no eclipse occurred the following year that was visible in Palestine. Josephus (Ant. XVII, 8, 1), says that Herod died thirty-seven years after he was declared king by the Romans. In 714 he was proclaimed king, and this would bring his death counting from Nisan to Nisan, as Josephus usually does, "in the year from 1st Nisan 750 to 1st Nisan 751, according to Jewish computation, at the age of seventy" (Andrews). Herod died shortly before the Passover of 750, then, according to the eclipse and the length of his reign. Caspari contends for January 24, 753, as the date of Herod's death, because there was a total eclipse of the moon January 10. So he puts his death fourteen days later. Mr. Page (_New Light from Old Eclipses_) argues for the eclipse that occurred July 17, 752, as the one preceding Herod's death. He thinks that this makes unnecessary the subtraction of two years from the reign of Tiberius on the theory that Tiberius was contemporary ruler with Augustus for two years. But he finds difficulty in lengthening Herod's reign so long, and his theory has gained no great acceptance as yet. Our present era makes the birth of Christ in the year of Rome 754, and is due to the Abbot Dionysius Exiguus in the Sixth Century. Hence it is clear that if Herod died in the early spring of 750, Jesus must have been born _at least_ four years before 754, the common era, and likely in the year 749.

2. It has been inferred by some that Jesus was at least two or three years old when Herod slaughtered the infants in Bethlehem, Matt. 2:16. Thus the year would be put two years further back to the end of 747 or beginning of 748. But this is not demanded by the "two years" of Matthew, for Herod would naturally extend the limit so as to be sure to include the child in the number slain, and a child just entering the second year would be called "two years" old by Jewish custom. No more definite note of time comes from this circumstance, save that the massacre probably took place some months before Herod's death, which fact would bring the Saviour's birth back some time into the year 749.

3. The appearance of the "star in the east" (Matt. 2:2). This, of course, was before Herod's death, and would agree in time with the slaughter of the children, if the star be looked upon as a supernatural phenomenon, and not the wise men's interpretation of a natural conjunction of planets. Kepler first suggested that, as there was a conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn in 747, to which Mars was added in 748, this conjunction might have been the bright star that led on the wise men. See Wieseler, _Synopsis_, p. 57. Kepler had also suggested that a periodical star or a comet might have joined the constellation. The Chinese records preserve the account of the appearance of a comet in the spring of 749. Either of these theories is fascinating in itself, especially to those minds that prefer a natural explanation of anything that looks miraculous. Both phenomena are possible in themselves, but they hardly meet the requirements of the record in Matthew. (1) The word used is _aster_, star, and not _astron_, a group of stars. (2) Rev. C. Pritchard, whose calculations have been verified at Greenwich (Smith's Dic.), has shown that those "planets could never have appeared as one star, for they never approached each other within double the apparent diameter of the moon." So Ideler's hypothesis that the wise men all had weak eyes seems rather feeble. (3) The year 747 would conflict slightly with other evidence for Christ's birth that favors 749, although Wieseler, p. 53, note 4, contends that the star first appeared to the wise men two years before their visit, and a second time on their visit to Bethlehem. (4) Besides, the star is said to have stood over "where the young child was," v. 9. If it were a natural star it would have kept going as they went, and would not have stopped till they stopped. Even then it would appear as far away as ever from Bethlehem. It seems best, therefore, to admit the existence of a miracle here, and hence gain nothing from the visit of the Magi to establish the date of the Saviour's birth, save that it was not long before the slaughter of the infants, and would at least agree with the date 749. See Broadus, Comm. _in loco_.

4. The language of the heavenly host in Luke 2:14 is urged by some as fixing the birth at a time when there was universal peace throughout the world. The closing of the temple of Janus in the time of Augustus is also adduced, but it is not certainly known when it was closed apart from 725 and 729. It was intended to be closed at the end of 744, but was delayed on account of trouble among the Daci and Dalmatae. See Greswell i. 469. Nothing specific can be obtained from this fact, save that there was a time of comparative quiet in the Roman world from 746 to 752. There was a hush in the clangor of war when Jesus was born.

5. The entrance of John the Baptist upon his ministry gives us another note of time. See Luke 3:1 f. John emerged from the wilderness seclusion in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius. Augustus died August 29, 767. Adding fifteen years to this, the fifteenth year of Tiberius would begin August 29, 781. John was of a priestly family and so could naturally enter upon his work when thirty years of age. Thirty years subtracted from this gives 751, as the date of John's birth. But that is too late by two years to agree with the other date. Here, however, the Roman histories come to our help. Tacitus, Ann. 1, 3: "Tiberius is adopted by Augustus as his son, and _colleague in empire_." Vell. Pat. 2, 121; "At the request of Augustus, Tiberius was invested with equal authority in all the provinces." So Suetonius Aug. 97 and Tib. 21. It is clear, then, that Tiberius reigned jointly with Augustus about two years before he assumed full control of the empire at the death of Augustus. Luke could have used either date, but Tiberius' power was already equal to that of Augustus in the provinces two years before his death. Luke would naturally use the provincial point of view. Taking off the two years from the joint reign of Augustus, we again come to the year 749, as John was born six months before Jesus. So if John was born in the early part of the spring, Jesus would have been born in the summer or fall of 749.

6. The age of Jesus at his entrance upon his ministry, Luke 3:23. "And Jesus himself, when he began to teach, was about thirty years of age." So most modern scholars, taking the language in the obvious sense. Origen refers it to the beginning of a new life, by the second birth of baptism, after his spiritualizing fashion. The Authorized Version has it: "And Jesus himself began to be about thirty years of age," applying the "beginning" to the period of thirty years. McClellan argues that it means "about thirty years, beginning"; that is, a little the rise of thirty years. The Revised Version seems to be preferable and the only doubt would be as to what is included in the phrase "about thirty years." It has been variously argued that Jesus was from one to three years younger or older than thirty. It seems more reasonable to give the words the meaning that he was just about thirty, a few months under or over. Apparently this fact explains the idiom. The argument that Jesus had to be exactly thirty years old because the priest had to be so, when he entered upon his work, has no great force. For Jesus was not a priest save in a spiritual sense. John had been preaching no great while when Jesus was baptized by him and so entered upon his public ministry. If John began his ministry when he was thirty years old in the fifteenth year of Tiberius, then Jesus's ministry would begin about six months later. His birth would then come in the latter part of 749, unless John was born in the latter part of 748, when it would be earlier in the year.

7. The building of the temple of Herod gives a further clue to the date of Christ's birth. In John 2:20, the Jews say, "Forty and six years was this temple in building." Josephus tells us in one place that Herod began rebuilding the temple in the fifteenth year of his reign, War. I, 21, 1, and in another that he did so in the eighteenth year of his reign, Ant. XV, 11, 1. In the account of Herod's death, Ant. XVII, 8, 1, he used two dates for his reign, according as he counted from his declaration as king by the Romans 714, or the death of Antigonus 717. Eighteen and fifteen would both be correct, according as he reckoned from the one date or the other. Eighteen added to forty-six and both to 714 would make 778. It was at the first Passover in his ministry that this expression is used. It has been probably six months since his baptism. If thirty and a half years be taken from 778, his birth would be thrown back to the year 747, unless the forty-six years be taken as completed, when it would be 748. So Robinson. But this does not quite agree with the other notes of time we have. Many modern harmonists count the eighteen years from 717, and so bring the whole number, adding forty-six, down to 780, or, if the years are complete, 781. Thirty and a half from this would give the autumn of 749 or 750. This is done because Josephus usually reckons Herod's reign from the death of Antigonus, 717. On the whole it seems clear that Josephus is wrong in the War. It is common enough to find Josephus in one passage contradicting what he has said elsewhere. The temple was begun the year that the Emperor came to Syria, as is plain from Josephus. According to Dio Cassius, LIV, 7, this visit was made in B.C. 20 or 19. Correcting Josephus by himself and by Dio Cassius we thus again get B.C. 5 as the probable year of the birth of Christ. See Schuerer, _History of the Jewish People in the Time of Jesus Christ_, Div. I., Vol. I., p. 410.

8. The census of Augustus Caesar mentioned in Luke 2:1 f., furnishes the last note of time for this event. This subject is involved in a great many difficulties, and for a full discussion, the reader is referred to Ramsay's _Was Christ Born at Bethlehem_, and his _Bearing of Recent Discovery on the Trustworthiness of the New Testament_ (Chap. XX) and to my _Luke the Historian in the Light of Research_. Every statement made by Luke in 2:1-7 was once challenged. Every one is now shown to be correct.

(1) It used to be said that no census was ever taken by Augustus, but heathen writers mention three, in 726, 746, 767. One of these, 746, may be the one here mentioned, which was delayed for various reasons, or which was executed slowly in the distant provinces. But it is not necessary that the phrase "all the world" should be pressed to its literal meaning, though this is more natural. Nor does the argument from silence prove that no other general census was taken by Augustus. But Ramsay has triumphantly vindicated Luke and the general census under Augustus by proof from the papyri that Augustus inaugurated a periodical census every fourteen years from B.C. 8 on. The second occurred A.D. 6 (Acts 5:37). See Ramsay's _Was Christ Born at Bethlehem_, and _Bearing of Recent Discovery on Trustworthiness of the New Testament_ (Chap. XX) and my _Luke the Historian_ (Chap. XX). We have only to think that there was delay in the carrying out of the census in Palestine to bring this date down to B.C. 6 (or even 5).

(2) It is not a "taxing," but an "enrollment" (Rev. Ver.) that was taken. There was a taxing later (Acts 5:37). And if it were done while Herod was king, Augustus could not have taxed Judea without Herod's consent. But Herod was not now in good form with Augustus.

(3) This helps to explain another objection that the enrollment would not have included Judea anyhow, because it was not yet a province, but a kingdom. But it is not likely that Herod would have displeased Augustus by refusing such information if it was desired. Tacitus asserts that the _regna_, the dependent kingdoms, were included in the census taken by Augustus.

(4) Hence, also, it is natural that the enrollment should have taken place according to the Jewish and not according to the usual Roman method, because Herod would wish it to be in accordance with the customs of his kingdom. So every one went to his own city. We now know from numerous papyri that in Egypt the family went to the home city. The Jews were used to enrollment by tribes and that was allowed. See Deissmann's _Light from the Ancient East_, p. 268, and Ramsay's _Was Christ Born at Bethlehem_, p. 108.

(5) We now have to meet the objection that Quirinius was not governor till ten years later, A.D. 6, when a taxing did occur. (See Acts 5:37.)

It is now possible to give a real solution of this problem. Luke is now shown to be wholly correct in his statement that Quirinius was twice governor, and that the first census took place during the first period. A series of inscriptions in Asia Minor show that Quirinius was governor of Syria B.C. 10-7 and so twice governor of Syria (second time A.D. 6; Josephus, Ant. XVIII, 1:1). See Ramsay, _Bearing of Recent Discovery_, pp. 273-300, and my _Luke the Historian_, pp. 127-9. Tertullian (_adv. marc._ iv, 19) says that Sentius Saturninus was governor of Syria B.C. 9-6. But we now know that Varus was controlling the internal affairs of Syria while Quirinius was leader of the army. Luke is therefore quite accurate in his statement about Quirinius being twice governor of Syria. The _Lapis Tiburtinus_ has _iterum Syriam_ about Quirinius. Ramsay has cleared up this famous historical puzzle and has completely vindicated Luke.

Few subjects have excited as much interest, even needless curiosity, as the date of the birth of the Saviour. But it is noticeable that by the masses of Christians more interest is taken in the day of Christ's birth than in the year. The Christmas festivities and the natural desire to make that the birthday of Jesus cause this widespread interest in December 25. Not only is it impossible to determine with any degree of certainty the day of the month, but the time of the year also is equally uncertain. The chief thing that appears proved is that December 25 is not the time, since the shepherds would hardly be in the fields at night with the flocks, which were usually taken into the folds in November and kept in till March. The nights of December would scarcely allow watching in the mountain fields even as far south as Bethlehem. And besides, the long journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem would hardly be made by Joseph and Mary in winter, the rainy season. McClellan argues for December 25, but his arguments are not convincing. The ancients had various days for Christ's birth: May 20 (Clement of Alexandria), April 20, December 25, January 5. Tertullian and others even say that the day of his birth (December 25) was kept in the register at Rome. But chronologists attach little weight to this testimony, since the same tradition puts the birth of John, June 24; the annunciation of Mary, March 25, and Elizabeth's conception, September 25--the four cardinal points of the year. If one might hazard an opinion, it would be that the birth of Jesus occurred in the summer or early in the fall of 749 or of 748, that is B.C. 6 or 5. Turner (Chronology, Hastings D. B.) reaches B.C. 6 as the probable year of the birth of Jesus though he did not have the new light on the census and on Quirinius which confirms it. Hitchcock (Hastings D. C. G.) saw the bearing of the periodical census that called for B.C. 7-5, but did not yet know the discovery about Quirinius. Armstrong (Chronology New Testament, Int. St. Bible Encycl.) is less certain about the precise year.

7. The Feast of John 5:1, and the Duration of Our Lord's Ministry

It seems almost impossible to decide with certainty what feast is alluded to in John 5:1. One can only speak with moderation where everything is so doubtful. Various feasts have been suggested as solving the problem.

1. The Feast of Dedication has been proposed by Kepler and Petavius. But this view has met with no great amount of favor, for there is too short an interval between the first Passover and December, when it occurred. It might be a later Feast of Dedication, but this feast was not one of the great feasts and would hardly have drawn Jesus all the way from Galilee to attend it. He did attend this feast once (John 10:22), but he was already in Judea at this time, having come up to attend the Feast of Tabernacles (John 7:2, 14). So Robinson, Clark, etc. So this feast seems to be ruled out of the question.

2. The Feast of Tabernacles is advocated by Ebrard, Ewald, Patritius. It is very unlikely that the Feast of Tabernacles after the first Passover could be meant, as the Saviour did not return to Galilee for some time afterwards. He could hardly have come back so soon to Jerusalem. But the Feast of Tabernacles after the Passover of John 6:4 is mentioned later, John 7:2 f., which Jesus attended, it seems, because he was hindered from going up to the previous Passover by the murderous designs of the Jews. It is possible that the feast of John 5:1 may have been the Feast of Tabernacles after a Passover not mentioned, and so would come after the second Passover of his public ministry. But we do not know that Jesus attended any other Feast of Tabernacles save the one in John 7:2, which he may have done because he missed the preceding Passover.

3. The Feast of Purim, first suggested by Kepler, has had great favor with modern harmonists, but apparently more on sentimental than on scholarly grounds. Meyer says, "Without doubt it was Purim." But it is by no means so certain as Meyer would have us believe. _(a)_ Meyer relies on John 4:35 and 6:4 to show that this was the Feast of Purim just before John 6:4. But the expression, "Say not ye, There are yet four months and then cometh the harvest?" may be, and probably is a proverbial saying indicating the usual length of time between sowing and reaping, which, as a matter of fact, was about four months. Hence nothing can be determined by this note of time. And, besides, the four months could precede the Passover just as well as Purim, because the sowing lasted a month or so. _(b)_ The Feast of Purim occurred a month before the Passover. Is it at all likely that two circuits of all Galilee were made in the meantime, besides much work of other kinds? See Luke 8:1 and Matt. 9:35-38. The three general circuits throughout Galilee, besides the mission of the twelve and a large part of their training, the general statements about the Master's work of preaching and healing, require an expansion rather than a contraction of the time for this period of his ministry. It seems then quite unreasonable, when once the mind takes in this enlarged conception of the missionary work of Jesus, as recorded by the Synoptic Gospels, to limit it to the amount of work mentioned by John, since he omits much of the early ministry, because, it would seem, the others are so full just here. _(c)_ The Feast of Purim, moreover, was observed at home in the synagogues, and not by going to Jerusalem. See Esther 9:22 and Jos. Ant. xi. 6, 13. But "the multitude" (John 5:13) seems to imply (Robinson) a concourse of strangers at one of the great festivals. _(d)_ It seems hardly probable, besides, that Jesus would go to any feast just a month before the Passover and come back to Galilee and not go to the Passover itself (John 6:4). Least of all would he do this in the case of Purim. _(e)_ The man who was healed at this feast was healed on the Sabbath (John 5:9), and this occasioned the outburst among the people. But the Feast of Purim was never celebrated on the Sabbath, and when it came on a Sabbath it was postponed. See Reland, Antiq. Sacr. 4, 9.

4. Pentecost is held to be the feast here alluded to by many early and some later writers, such as Chrysostom, Cyril of Alexandria, Erasmus, Calvin, Bengel, etc. Norris makes it the Pentecost after the first Passover, but to do this, has to crowd into this short interval Christ's first Judean ministry, the journey through Samaria together with the first part of his Galilean ministry. So this idea has little weight. McClellan argues that the allusions of Jesus in John 5:17-47, "infallibly point to Pentecost," meaning the Pentecost after a second Passover that is not mentioned. He further contends that this best suits the chronological arrangement and the term "a feast of the Jews." This view is certainly possible and cannot be positively disproved, although it is not so "infallibly" clear as McClellan imagines.

5. The Passover has always met with many adherents, being the second Passover in the Saviour's ministry and making four in all (John 2:13; 5:1; 6:4; 12:1). An unnamed Passover may exist in the ministry even if not referred to here. The arguments in favor of this interpretation are the most satisfactory. We cannot consider them as absolutely conclusive, yet the Passover meets all sides of the case better than any of the other feasts. _(a)_ The plucking of ears from standing grain by the disciples (Luke 6:1) would indicate a time after the Passover and before Pentecost. This incident appears to have happened after the feast mentioned in John 5:1. _(b)_ It is fairly implied (John 5:1) that the feast took Jesus to Jerusalem. The Passover would more likely be the one to lead him there. It is expressly stated that he attended two Passovers and a special reason is given for his not attending a third. If there was another Passover in his ministry, this would naturally be the one. _(c)_ This suits best the hostility manifested at this feast, which would have time to become acute (Broadus' Comm. on Matt.) and break out with increased vigor in Galilee and prevent his attending the next Passover (John 6:4; 7:1). _(d)_ If this Passover be a second Passover of the ministry, sufficient time is afforded for the great Galilean ministry without artificial crowding. His ministry would be long enough to allow the great work recorded as done by him. Only two serious objections can be urged to this idea. (1) It is objected that the article would be used with "feast," if the Passover were thus mentioned as _the_ feast. But to this we can reply: _(a)_ The article is sometimes omitted when the Passover is meant (Matt. 27:15; Mark 15:6). _(b)_ The absence of the article proves nothing whatever one way or the other. No conclusion can be drawn for or against the idea of the Passover. _(c)_ The article does occur in many manuscripts, including the Sinaitic, and is put in the margin of the Revised Version.

So nothing can be gained against this theory here. (2) The chief objection is that Jesus would not have remained so long away from Jerusalem, a year and six months, from the Second Passover till the Feast of Tabernacles after the Third Passover. But _(a)_ we do not know that he did not attend any other feast in that time, for silence proves nothing; and _(b)_ a good reason is given for his failure to attend the Third Passover, which may have applied to the others, if he did not go, _viz._, the desire of the Jews to kill him (John 7:1).

Hence it is natural that there should be a variety of opinions as to the length of the Saviour's ministry, varying all the way from one to four years, leaving out mere guesses based on five and more Passovers. McKnight argues that the ministry may have lasted five or more full years, since all the Passovers of Christ's ministry may not be mentioned.

(1) The _Bi-paschal_ theory makes the time of the public life of Jesus one year, allowing only two Passovers to the Gospel of John. Browne in his _Ordo Saeclorum_ advocates this view. But the words, "the Passover," in John 6:4 must be omitted, and for this there is not enough documentary evidence. If this could be done, Westcott thinks Browne would make out a good case. But with the present text, his view cannot be entertained.

(2) The _Tri-paschal_ theory finds only three Passovers in the life of Christ. Hence the public work of Jesus would be from two to two and a half years in length. This view is quite possible, as is shown in the Harmony. These writers usually make the feast of John 5:1 Purim before the Passover of John 6:4, or Pentecost after it.

(3) The _Quadri-paschal_ theory contends for four Passovers and a ministry of from three to three and a half years. This theory follows from making John 5:1 a Passover or Purim before or Pentecost or Tabernacles after an unnamed Passover. This seems to be the more probable length of the Saviour's public work on earth. How short a space was even this to compass such a marvellous work. The ministry of Jesus seems crowded beyond our comprehension. It would be certain that the Saviour's public life lasted about three years and a half, if it was admitted that John 5:1 referred to a Passover. Various writers seek to find an allusion to the three years of the Saviour's ministry in the Parable of the Barren Fig Tree (Luke 13:6), but this application of the parable is by no means certain, since three might naturally be used as a round number. But there can very well have been a passover not mentioned. All we can say is that we know that the ministry of Jesus was two and a half years in length with the probability of three and a half.

8. The Four Lists of the Twelve Apostles

It is interesting to compare the four lists of Jesus' chosen apostles as given by Matthew, Mark, Luke, and Acts.

Mark 3:16 f. Matthew 10:2 f. Luke 6:14 f. Acts 1:13 f. 1. Simon Peter Simon Peter Simon Peter Simon Peter 2. James Andrew Andrew James 3. John James James John 4. Andrew John John Andrew 5. Philip Philip Philip Philip 6. Bartholomew Bartholomew Bartholomew Thomas 7. Matthew Thomas Matthew Bartholomew 8. Thomas Matthew Thomas Matthew 9. James the son James the son James the son James the son of Alpheus of Alpheus of Alpheus of Alpheus 10. Thaddeus Thaddeus Simon the Zealot Simon the Zealot 11. Simon the Simon the Judas the Judas the Cananaean Cananaean brother of brother of James James 12. Judas Iscariot Judas Iscariot Judas Iscariot

Let us examine the names here given.

(1) The lists are given some time after the selection was made, and hence represent a later grouping according to later developments in this inner circle. The primacy of Peter in these lists does not mean necessarily that he was the acknowledged leader at first. See discussion under (4) below. The point to note here is that we are not to think of Peter as the formal leader of the Twelve before the death of Christ. Jesus was himself that leader.

(2) One mark of an apostle was that he should have been with the Lord from the baptism of John until the day that he was received up (Acts 1:21 f.). Perhaps no great stress is to be laid on any exact time here, provided it began in the time of John. An apostle must know the Lord. Hence Paul received the vision of Christ. We have some knowledge of seven of these apostles before this time. If we infer from John 1:41 that John followed the example of Andrew in finding his own brother, it was not long till James was a disciple as well as John, Andrew, and Peter. Philip and Nathanael are soon added to the list (John 1:43 f.). Later Matthew hears the call of the Saviour, too (Matt. 9:9; Mark 2:13 f). Of the other five we have no knowledge previous to this occasion. Jesus had "found" them by the same insight that led to his other selections. He chose Judas, though knowing that he was a devil.

(3) Observe the three groups of four, headed by Simon Peter, Philip, and James the son of Alpheus, respectively. The great variety in the arrangement of the other names makes this uniformity significant. It seems clear that there are three recognized groups among the apostles (Bengel, Broadus, Clark). Each group has the same persons in every list, although there is such a variety in the order. In the first group Matthew and Luke have the same order, while Mark and Acts agree. In the second group Mark and Luke have a like order, while Matthew and Acts agree in putting Matthew at the end of this group. In the third group Matthew and Mark agree exactly, while Luke and Acts are identical save the dropping out of Judas Iscariot from the list in Acts because of his apostasy and death. No great importance can be attached to the precise order within the groups since Luke, in the Gospel and Acts, gives a different arrangement in the first and second groups.

(4) Observe also that Simon Peter not only stands at the head of his group, but at the head of all the groups, while Judas Iscariot is always at the bottom till he drops out entirely. Simon finally occupied a position of precedence of some sort. He was one of the inner circle of three that was so close to the Saviour's heart. Perhaps it was this, rather than any notion of primacy in authority or power. He was the spokesman because of his natural impetuosity. The question as to who should be greatest among the apostles illustrates the spirit of rivalry about precedence that existed among them. In the October, 1916, Journal of Theol. Studies, Dr. A. Wright argues that the critical text in Mark 14:10 means "Judas Iscariot the first of the Twelve." The _Koine_ did sometimes use _heis_ as an ordinal (see Moulton, _Prolegomena_, p. 96, and my Grammar of the Greek New Testament, pp. 671 f.). But the disputes among the Twelve show that they themselves considered Jesus only as leader till his death. See my article on "The Primacy of Judas Iscariot," the Expositor (London) for April, 1917, and one by Rendel Harris in the June, 1917, issue, and Wright's reply in the November, 1917, number.

(5) There are among the Twelve three pairs of brothers--Simon and Andrew, James and John, James the son of Alpheus and Judas the brother of James. The first two pairs form the first group of the Twelve. It is, however, uncertain whether Judas is the brother or the son of James. The Greek is ambiguous, James's Judas. The Revised Version translated it "Judas son of James," but the Epistle of Jude begins "Judas a servant of Jesus Christ and brother of James." But the Jude of the Epistle and the Judas of the Twelve were hardly the same. Cf. Broadus, Comm. on Matt., p. 216.

(6) There are some apparent discrepancies in the names in the various lists. Bartholomew occurs in every list, but is generally understood to be another name for Nathanael. Thaddeus is also called Judas the brother of James. Matthew and Mark give Thaddeus, and Luke in Gospel and Acts gives Judas the brother of James. It was a very common circumstance for one to have two names. Lebbeus, given in some MSS. in Matthew and Mark, is only a marginal explanation of Thaddeus. Both are terms of endearment. Matthew and Mark again call Simon the Cananaean, while Luke in the Gospel and Acts speaks of him as Simon the Zealot. But "Zealot" is simply a translation into Greek of the Aramaic "Cananaean." Jesus gave the other Simon the name "Cephas," which was translated into the Greek "Peter," meaning rock. He is called by all three names in the New Testament. Matthew likewise had another name, Levi, and Thomas was also called Didymus, which was a Greek translation of Thomas, meaning "twin."

9. The Sermon on the Mount

Do Matthew and Luke record the same discourse? Let us consider the several theories on this subject. My own view will be stated last.

1. Some hold that the two discourses are entirely distinct in time, place, circumstances and audience. The arguments for this theory usually presented are these.

_(a)_ The time of delivery of the two sermons appears to be different. Matthew gives the sermon before his call (Matt. 9:9), while Luke precedes his sermon by the call of the twelve. Hence Matthew's discourse comes quite a while before Luke's in the early Galilean ministry. But it may be well replied that, inasmuch as Matthew's arrangement in ch. 8-13 is not chronological, but topical, it is entirely possible, even likely, that the same arrangement should prevail in ch. 5-7. It is perfectly natural that Matthew, writing for Jewish readers and about the Messianic reign, should give at the beginning of his account of that reign the formal principles that rule in this new state of affairs, as proclaimed by Jesus on a later occasion. In the early part of the ministry of Jesus, besides, the hearers would hardly be prepared for so advanced and radical ideas. Besides, Matthew makes no note of time whatever for this discourse.

_(b)_ The place appears to be different. One is on a mountain (Matt. 5:1), while the other is on a plain (Luke 6:17). Hence the one is called by Clark the Sermon on the Mount, and the other the Sermon on the Plain. Miller (Int. Stand. Bible Encyclopaedia) is uncertain whether Matthew and Luke report the same discourse and so discusses also Luke's "Sermon on the Plain." But his argument is not convincing. If it is necessary that "plain" here shall mean a place away from a mountain, down in a valley, this would seem to refer to a different place. McClellan seeks to show that Luke uses "and" in 6:17-20 by way of anticipation. He presents for effective grouping events that happened after Jesus came down out of the mountain before he gives the sermon delivered to the whole body of disciples up in the mountain. This is possible, but another interpretation is much more likely. The plain here is really simply "a level place" (Rev. Ver.). So then the two accounts of Matthew and Luke will harmonize quite well. Jesus first went up into the mountain to pray (Luke 6:12) and selected and instructed the Twelve. Afterwards he came down to a level place on the mountain side whither the crowds had gathered, and stood there and wrought miracles (Luke 6:17). He then went up a little higher into the mountain where he could sit down and see and teach the multitudes (Matt. 5:1). Matthew gives the multitudes as the reason for his going up into the mountain. By this arrangement any discrepancy between "sat" in Matthew and "stood" in Luke disappears. Waddy has given an admirable arrangement of the material at this point in Note C, p. xix. Many writers affirm that the tradition mentioned by Jerome, making the Horns of Hattin the place where the Sermon on the Mount was delivered, suits this explanation exactly. There is a level place on it where the crowds could have assembled. It is not necessary to insist that this mountain is the Mount of Beatitudes, nor need we contend, as Robinson does, that the mountain must be very close to Capernaum.

_(c)_ The audience is different. Matthew (4:25) states that his audience was composed of "great multitudes from Galilee and Decapolis and Jerusalem and Judea and from beyond Jordan," while Luke (6:17) says that there was "a great multitude of his disciples, and a great number of the people from all Judea and Jerusalem, and the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon." Matthew says (5:1) also that "his disciples came unto him." Hence both assemblages were composed of great multitudes from many regions besides many of his disciples, but in neither case is Jesus said to address himself to any save his disciples, his followers (Matt. 5:1 and Luke 6:20). So in both accounts the Saviour seems to withdraw a little from the great outside crowd of curiosity seekers. But the multitudes also must have heard something of what he said, for they were astonished at his teaching (Matt. 7:28). Andrews well shows that the audience in Matthew were not mostly Jews (according to Kraft), and the audience in Luke mostly heathen. Matthew omits Tyre and Sidon, but he had already mentioned Syria (4:24), which includes Tyre and Sidon. Neither list may be complete. Hence nothing can be made out of Luke's omission of Galilee, Decapolis, and beyond Jordan. Great multitudes from the same general regions are alluded to as being present.

_(d)_ The contents are radically different. It is objected by Alford, Greswell, etc., that Luke omits large portions of what Matthew has so that Luke has only thirty verses, while Matthew has one hundred and seven. But this leaves out of consideration the several large portions of the same matter which Luke has placed elsewhere, or which Jesus repeated on other occasions (cf. Matt. 6:9-13 and Luke 11:2-4; Matt. 6:25-34 and Luke 12:22-31). Jesus often repeated his sayings on other occasions as all teachers do and ought to do. Neither evangelist gives a complete report of this wonderful discourse. So Matthew omits some things which Luke records (cf. Matt. 5:12 with Luke 6:23-6; Matt. 7:12 with Luke 6:31-40). Nor need we be surprised that Luke, writing generally for all Christians, omits large portions towards the beginning of the sermon that were designed especially for Jews (see Matt. 5:17-27; 6:1-18). These Matthew would be sure to record. Luke adds four woes to the beatitudes. It is unnecessary to remark upon minor variations of language, since the gospels manifestly aim to give the sense of what the Saviour said and not the _verbatim_ words. The variations in the Synoptic reports of the sayings of Jesus add much to the interest of the narratives. Moreover, to offset these variations, which admit of explanation, it ought to be remembered that the two discourses begin alike and end alike, that they have a general similarity in the order of the different parts, and that they show a general likeness and often absolute identity of expression.

So these differences all melt away on careful comparison, and it is not proved that there are two distinct sermons.

2. Another theory holds that the two sermons are distinct, but spoken on the same day, and near together. So Augustine, who is followed by Lange. The further points of this theory are two. _(a)_ The one (Matt.) was spoken before the choice of the Apostles, to the disciples alone, and while Jesus was sitting on the mountain. _(b)_ The other (Luke) was spoken after the choice of the Apostles, to the multitudes, and standing upon the plain. It is not hard to see that these points do not solve the question. In Matt. 7:28 we are told that the multitudes were astonished at his teaching and in Luke 6:20 that "he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said." So this distinction vanishes. The question of the mountain and the plain has been already discussed, and another more probable explanation suggested. It is only a conjecture that the discourse of Matthew was before the appointment of the Twelve. This theory has had no great following.

3. Wieseler holds that Matthew has simply brought together detached sayings of Jesus on different occasions and does not mean to present the whole as one discourse; Luke's account being only one of the discourses used by Matthew. But this violates the evident notes of place and audience and surroundings by which Matthew gives local color and cast to the entire discourse. See Matt. 5:1 and 8:1. The case of the grouping of the miracles in chapters 8 and 9 is not parallel, since there Matthew does not state that they occurred on one occasion. The fact that various portions of this discourse are repeated elsewhere by Matthew is immaterial, because this was a common habit of Jesus in his discourses. Votaw in his exhaustive and able discussion of the Sermon on the Mount in the extra volume in the Hastings D. B. admits the possibility of this hypothesis, but considers it far less probable than the historical reality of the Sermon as recorded by both Matthew and Luke. Moffatt (Encycl. Biblica) considers it "a composition rather than an actual address," while Bacon (Sermon on the Mount) admits only what is also in Luke. Adeney (Hastings D. C. G.) holds to the essential integrity of the address in Matthew.

4. Both Matthew and Luke give substantially similar accounts of the same discourse. In that case we have a good illustration of the use of the Logia in Matthew and Luke. Most of the arguments for this interpretation have been mentioned in rebuttal of the previously mentioned theories. _(a)_ This is the most natural explanation in view of the large volume of similar matter in both, in the beginning, progress, and close of the discourse. It is always best to give the Scripture the most natural and manifest setting, when possible. _(b)_ This theory is the most probable one, since it is hardly likely that Jesus would again make the same sermon to the same audience, and under the same circumstances. _(c)_ There are no objections to this theory that do not admit of a probable explanation. See the discussion above. The omissions and additions in each case suit the specific purpose of the writer. The apparent contradictions, when studied carefully, blend into a harmonious whole. Hence we seem to be justified in maintaining the identity of the discourses recorded by Matthew and Luke. For a careful outline of this matchless discourse see Broadus on Matthew. Stalker, _The Ethics of Jesus_, has a very able exposition of the teaching.

10. The Combination of Luke and John

We now have to deal with the most perplexing question in harmonistic study, the proper disposal of the mass of material furnished by Luke in 9:51-18:14. McClellan discusses ten schemes, pushes them all aside, and then suggests another which is no more convincing and equally complicated. Nothing can be attempted here but a presentation of the chief points in this endless discussion. All the principal plans for arranging this part of Luke proceed on one or the other of the following ideas:

1. Some hold that this portion of Luke is neither orderly nor chronological. Hence many of the incidents, here recorded as apparently belonging to the last six months of the Saviour's ministry, in reality are to be placed earlier. They are put here as a sort of summing up of things not mentioned elsewhere. So Robinson and others. In favor of this theory it is urged that Luke here speaks of some things that Matthew and Mark put before the third Passover, such as the healing of a demoniac (Luke 11:14-36) and the blasphemy following. But it may be well replied.

_(a)_ It is not at all clear that we have here the same events that are recorded in Matthew and Mark. Similar miracles were often wrought in the Master's work and similar sayings were frequently repeated on similar or different occasions. This was a common habit with him, as we have heretofore seen.

_(b)_ This portion of Luke is his distinctive contribution to the ministry of Christ in addition to his account of the nativity. He has condensed his account of the withdrawals from Galilee, apparently to make room for the description of another part of Christ's work. Matthew and Mark almost confine themselves to the ministry in Galilee, while Luke thus devotes the bulk of his narrative to what seems to be a later ministry, after Jesus has left Galilee. It is hardly likely that this account should be a mere jumble of scattered details.

_(c)_ Especially is this unlikely in view of Luke's express statement (1:3) that he was going to write an orderly narrative. In no real sense could this be true, if this large section is dislocated in time and order of events.

2. Others refer the entire narrative (Luke 9:51-18:14) to the last journey of the Saviour to Jerusalem to the Passover and see a triple reference to the same journey arguing for triplications in Luke. Others prefer to understand it as meaning the journey to the Feast of the Tabernacles or Dedication. Some would combine this idea with the unchronological plan noticed above. In favor of this journey being continuous and the last one to Jerusalem, the following arguments are adduced:

_(a)_ The language of Luke 9:51, "when the days were being completed that he should be received up," implies that the end was drawing near, and that he was setting his face towards Jerusalem to meet it. This is true without doubt, for Wieseler's interpretation of "received up" as meaning Christ's reception by man is entirely too forced. The expression points to the end of Christ's earthly career. But what does the vague expression, "the days were being completed," mean? Does it have to mean only a few weeks? May it not include as much as six months? For we know that Jesus had been instructing his disciples on this very subject expressly and pointedly, and at the Transfiguration he had spoken of his "decease." Henceforward this was the uppermost subject in his mind. So the interpretation is correct, but the inference is not necessary. This journey in Luke 9:51 need not be either just before the Passover or the Dedication. It could be as early as Tabernacles and be thus described.

_(b)_ It is insisted that this is Jesus' final departure from Galilee, the one described by Matthew and Mark. No place is allowed for a return to Galilee after the departure in Luke 9:51. Robinson urges that Luke 9:51 naturally means a final departure from Galilee. But it may simply mean that he left it as a sphere of activity, not that he never entered Galilee again. And then Luke 17:11 expressly says that Jesus went "through the midst of Samaria and Galilee." This means more than going on the border between the two countries, as McClellan argues. He went through some portions of Samaria and Galilee. In order for McClellan to carry out his scheme he has to resort to the artificial device of referring part of John 10:40 to the departure from Galilee, and the other half to the Perean ministry after a diversion of considerable length into Samaria and back into Galilee. So the effort is not convincing to place all the material in this large section of Luke in one last journey to Jerusalem.

3. The combination of Luke's narrative with that of John. Wieseler was the first to point out a possible parallel between Luke and John. John gives us three journeys,--the Feast of Tabernacles (John 7:2 ff.), the journey to Bethany at the raising of Lazarus (John 11:17 f.), the final Passover (John 12:1). Luke likewise three times in this section speaks of Jesus going to Jerusalem, 9:51; 13:22; 17:11. Hence it would seem possible, even probable, that their journeys corresponded. If so, John 7:2-11:54 is to be taken as parallel to Luke 9:51-18:14. This plan is followed by various modern scholars.

According to John's chronology, Jesus was in Jerusalem at the Feast of Tabernacles (7:2), at the Feast of Dedication (10:22), and at the Passover (12:1). Just after the Feast of the Dedication we find him abiding beyond Jordan, where John had baptized (John 10:40). From this point he comes to Bethany near Jerusalem at the raising of Lazarus (John 11:17), whence he withdraws to a little town called Ephraim in the hills north of Jerusalem (John 11:54). Here he abides awhile with his disciples away from his enemies till he goes to the Passover. Such is John's outline of these last six months of the Saviour's life.

_(a)_ But how is all this to be reconciled with the statement of Luke (17:11) that Jesus went through Samaria and Galilee? If Jesus went back to Galilee, John would have mentioned it, we are told. Not necessarily, not unless it fell in with his plan to do so. Hence no conflict need exist between Luke and John. Luke says he went through Galilee and John permits it by the break in his narrative at 11:54. Various points in the six months have been suggested as the point when the return to Galilee was made. The most natural point is from Ephraim, whither he had withdrawn (John 11:54). It was not far to go up through Samaria and join in Galilee (Luke 17:11) the pilgrims from his own country who were in the habit of going to the Passover through Perea, to avoid passing through Samaria. This supposition is not improbable, as Robinson and McClellan urge, but very natural; it makes Luke and John both agree, and allows Luke 9:51 to mean that Jesus then left Galilee as a field of operations. Various other theories are suggested for this return to Galilee, but none of them appear as fitting as this one. It was just before the Passover, when such a journey from Galilee to Jerusalem would be made.

_(b)_ One other point needs to be considered. The theory we hold makes the journey in Luke 9:51 identical with the one in John 7:2-10, _viz._, to Tabernacles. Many hold such identity to be impossible because of apparent contradictions in the narratives. Andrews makes three objections against this identity: (1) That the Lord refused to go with his brethren (John 7:6). But it was his brothers who were not favorable to him that he refused to go with. He simply wished to avoid publicity. His face was set (Luke 9:51) all the time, but he was not going with them. (2) That the manner of the going is unlike; the one in John is secret, while the one in Luke is public. But the secrecy in John may merely mean the avoidance of the caravan routes and so through Samaria (Luke). The messengers sent before were not to herald his coming to gather crowds simply, but to make ready for him. It was needed, since the Samaritans saw that his face was as if he were going to Jerusalem. (3) That he went rapidly according to John and slowly according to Luke. He does, according to John, appear in Jerusalem before the feast is over, but Luke does not make him move slowly. Nor is it necessary to connect the sending of the seventy (Luke 10:1 ff.) with this journey. It belongs rather to the interval between Tabernacles and Dedication. So the secret going of John and the going through Samaria of Luke agree. John explains, 7:10, that Jesus rejected the advice of his brothers. This theory is held irrespective of this being the final departure from Galilee. It is not necessary to fill out every detail in this programme and show where Jesus was between Tabernacles and Dedication. The main outlines remain clear and harmonious and are fairly satisfactory. This combination of Luke and John preserves the integrity of both narratives and fills up a large blank that would otherwise exist in these closing months of the Saviour's life. Upon the whole, therefore, this view seems decidedly preferable, though nothing like absolute certainty can be claimed in regard to the question.

We do not know what special source Luke had for 9:51-18:14. Some of it may have come from the Logia (Q). Hawkins (_Oxford Studies_, pp. 55 ff.) calls it "the Travel Document." Burton _(Some Principles of Literary Criticism and Their Application to the Synoptic Problem)_ suggests "The Peraean Document" and thinks that Luke may have drafted it early out of oral material. But at any rate it is a great and characteristic portion of his Gospel and adds greatly to our knowledge of Christ.

11. Did Christ Eat the Passover?

To put this question in another form, it would be, On what day of the month was Jesus crucified? For the crucifixion occurred on the same Jewish day as the eating of the meal recorded by all four Evangelists. Nearly all agree that the crucifixion occurred on Friday and the meal was eaten the evening before, our Thursday, but the beginning of the Jewish day, counting from sunset to sunset. But what day of the month was it? The Passover feast began on the 15th Nisan, the lamb being slain in the afternoon of the 14th. But the day of the week would vary with the new moon. If Jesus ate the regular Passover supper, he was crucified on the 15th Nisan. If he ate an anticipatory meal a day in advance and was himself slain at the hour of killing the paschal lamb, he was crucified on the 14th Nisan. In that case he did not really eat the Passover supper at all. So then we must seek to determine the truth about this matter, because express statements are made about it in the Gospels.

1. Some sentimental views of the question need to be disposed of first. A great controversy once raged in the early churches about the Passover.

_(a)_ In the latter part of the second century some of the churches of Asia Minor, largely composed of Jewish Christians, kept up the Passover on the ground that Jesus had eaten it the night before his crucifixion. Polycarp, the disciple of John, expresses the persuasion that Jesus ate the Passover.

_(b)_ But some of the churches were afraid of this example and its application to the discussion about the relation of the Mosaic laws to Christianity. So they took the position that Jesus did not eat the Passover himself, but as the Paschal Lamb, was crucified at the time the lamb was slain. He was our Passover. The Greek churches now hold this position, while the Latin churches hold that Jesus ate the Passover. But those arguments are purely subjective and do not affect the question of fact. Hence we waive this old-time controversy and come to the testimony of the Gospels themselves.

2. The testimony of the Synoptists, Mark, Matthew, and Luke. The evidence they give is abundant and explicit to the effect that Jesus ate the regular Paschal Supper on the evening after the 14th Nisan.

_(a)_ Jesus predicted that his death would occur during the Feast of the Passover. See Matthew 26:2, "Ye know that after two days the Passover cometh, and the Son of Man is delivered up to be crucified." See also Mark 14:1 and Luke 22:1, where the fact is alluded to. Passover is used in the general sense of the feast of unleavened bread, as Luke explains. The feast of unleavened bread followed the Passover meal, beginning the next morning and lasting a week. But the one term was used to include the other. The Passover was expanded to mean the entire feast that followed, and vice versa.

_(b)_ It is true that the Jewish authorities decided not to put Jesus to death during the feast (Matthew 26:5; Mark 14:2). But this decision was reached not because of any compunctions of conscience in the matter, but because they were afraid of a tumult among the people, owing to the great crowds, many of whom were friendly to Christ. But so soon as Judas offered his services, their fears vanished and they proceeded with their murderous designs (Matthew 26:14; Mark 14:11). The rulers did expedite matters at the crucifixion that the bodies might not be exposed on the Sabbath. But they had often tried to slay Jesus on the Sabbath heretofore. Public executions did take place during the feasts (Deut. 17:12 f.).

_(c)_ The Synoptists flatly say (Matthew 26:17, 20; Mark 14:12, 17; Luke 22:7, 14) that on the first day of unleavened bread Jesus sent Peter and John from Bethany into the city to make preparations for eating the Passover, and that on the evening of the same day he ate it with his disciples. Luke calls it "the hour." Now, the first day of unleavened bread was the 14th Nisan. There is no question about this. Josephus speaks of the feast lasting eight days. The lamb of the supper being slain on the afternoon of this day, it was regarded as the beginning of the feast. Besides, Mark and Luke end the whole matter by saying that on this day they sacrificed the Passover. Jesus himself calls it the Passover (Luke 22:15). It is useless to say that Jesus ate the Passover a day in advance. This could not be done, especially by one to whom the temple authorities were hostile. Equally useless is it to say that the Jews ate the Passover a day too late. If a mistake was made about the new moon, they would hardly keep the Passover on two different days, nor would Jesus be apt to make a point about the matter.

3. The testimony of John. If we had only the evidence of the Synoptists, no serious trouble would ever arise on this question. Strauss has strenuously urged that John is on this point in hopeless conflict with the other Evangelists, since he makes Jesus eat the Passover on the evening after the 13th Nisan (Wednesday), and not the evening after the 14th (Thursday). This idea has gained a foothold among many able modern writers who see a clear contradiction between the Synoptics and the Fourth Gospel. Some of these evidently do so because they hold that the Paschal controversy in Asia Minor arose from this supposed conflict of John with the Synoptists, and that this shows John's Gospel to have been in existence when that controversy began. It is not worth while to maintain that John in chapter 13 alludes to a different meal on a different occasion. The points of contact with the Synoptists are too sharp and clear, such as the sop given to Judas. But five passages in John are produced as being in direct opposition to the statements of the Synoptic Gospels. A careful examination of each of these five passages in the Fourth Gospel will show that John does not say that Jesus ate the Passover meal a day in advance of the regular time, but quite the contrary.

_(a)_ John 13:1 f., "Now before the feast of the Passover, Jesus knowing, etc." Here, it is alleged, a distinct statement is made that this supper was before the Passover, and consequently twenty-four hours before. But several things are taken for granted in this inference. One is that the phrase "feast of the Passover" is to be confined to this particular meal, and is not to include the entire festival of unleavened bread (_cf._ Luke 22:1). Often by a metonymy of speech the name of a part is given to the whole. Besides, it is not certain that verse 1 is to be connected with verse 2. The best exegetes agree that a complete idea may be presented therein, either a general statement that Jesus loved his own before the Passover and until the end, or that he came into special consciousness of this love just before the Passover. And if the more natural interpretation be taken and the application of this love be made in verse 2, it is not necessary that the "before" be as much as twenty-four hours. Observe also the text adopted in the Revised Version in verse 2, not "supper being ended," but "during supper." With this reading agree the other references in 13:4, "riseth from supper," 13:12, "sat down again," 13:23, "there was at the table reclining in Jesus' bosom." So the natural meaning is that just before the meal began, Jesus purposed to show his love for his own by a practical illustration. So, after they had all reclined at the table according to custom, Jesus arose and passed around the tables, washing their feet; then he reclined again and proceeded with the meal. So nothing at all can be made out of this passage against the view that this was the regular Passover; but, on the other hand, the most natural meaning is that John is here describing what took place at this Passover meal. Else, why should he mention the Passover at all?

_(b)_ John 13:27, "That thou doest, do quickly." The objection is made that the disciples would not have thought that Jesus referred to the feast (13:29), if the Passover meal was already going on or was over. So, it is urged, this remark must have been made a day before the Passover was celebrated. But if that were the case, where would be the necessity for hurry, as there would be plenty of time on the morrow? The word "feast" here need not be confined to the paschal supper, but more naturally refers to the whole of the feast, of which the supper was a part. So this haste was needed to provide for the feast of unleavened bread which began on the next morning. No real force lies in the fact that this day was a holy day, being the first day of the Passover festival. The Mishna expressly allows the procuring, even on a Sabbath, what was needed for the Passover. If this could be done on a Sabbath, much more could it be done on a feast day which was not a Sabbath. Hence not only was it possible for the disciples to have misunderstood the remark of Jesus on the Passover evening, but it was far more natural that such misapprehensions should arise then than a day before. So this passage, like the preceding, when rightly understood, really confirms the Synoptists.

_(c)_ John 18:28, "They themselves entered not into the palace, that they might not be defiled, but might eat the Passover." At first sight this does look like a contradiction. For this was certainly after the feast of John 13:2; and if they had not eaten the Passover meal, why here is a clear case of conflict of authorities. But it is by no means certain that the phrase "eat the Passover" means simply the paschal supper. This phrase occurs five times in the New Testament besides this, but all in Matthew, Mark, and Luke (Matt. 26:17; Mark 14:12, 14; Luke 22:11, 15). In all of these the reference is to the paschal supper. But the word "passover" is used in three senses in the New Testament, the paschal supper, the paschal lamb, or the paschal festival. The word is used eight times in John besides this instance, and in every case the Passover festival is meant. So we may fairly infer that the usage of John must determine his own meaning rather than that of the Synoptists. This becomes more probable when we remember that John wrote much later than they, after the destruction of Jerusalem, when these terms were not used so strictly. He always speaks of "the Jews" as separate from Christians. And this very expression is used in 2 Chronicles 30:22, "And they did eat the festival seven days." The Septuagint translates it, "And they fulfilled (kept) the festival of unleavened bread seven days." See Robinson. So it is entirely possible for the phrase, "eat the Passover," to mean in this instance also the celebration of the Passover festival. Some have urged that the Sanhedrin had not eaten the Passover at the regular hour because of the excitement of the trial. But this is hardly tenable. And, moreover, since this remark was made early in the morning, how could that affect the eating of the supper in the evening? For whatever impurities one had during the day passed away at evening. Hence this uncleanness must belong to the same day on which it was incurred. If the Passover festival had begun, this would be true, for they would wish to participate in the offerings of that day. So this passage likewise becomes an argument in favor of agreement with the Synoptists.

_(d)_ John 19:14, "Now it was the Preparation of the Passover." This is claimed to mean the day preceding the Passover festival. Hence Christ was crucified on the 14th Nisan, in opposition to the Synoptists. The afternoon before the Passover was used as a preparation, but it was not technically so called. This phrase "Preparation" was really the name of a day in the week, the day before the Sabbath, our Friday. We are not left to conjecture about this question. The Evangelists all use it in this sense alone. Matthew uses it for Friday (27:62), Mark expressly says that the Preparation was the day before the Sabbath (15:42), Luke says that it was the day of the Preparation and the Sabbath drew on (23:54), and John himself so uses the word in two other passages (19:31, 42), in both of which haste is exercised on the Preparation, because the Sabbath was at hand. The New Testament usage is conclusive, therefore, on this point. This, then, was the Friday of Passover week. And this agrees with the Synoptists. Besides, the term "Preparation" has long been the regular name for Friday in the Greek language, caused by the New Testament usage. It is so in the Modern Greek to-day. It was the Sabbath eve, just as the Germans have Sonnabend for Sunday eve, _i.e._, Saturday afternoon. So this passage also becomes a positive argument for the agreement between John and the Synoptists.

_(e)_ John 19:31, "For the day of that Sabbath was a high day." From this passage it has been argued that at this Passover the first day of the Passover festival coincided with the weekly Sabbath. But that is an entirely gratuitous inference. This coincidence would, of course, be a "high day," but so would the first day of the feast, the last day, or the Sabbath of the feast. In John 7:37 the last day is called "the great day of the feast." The Sabbath occurring during the festival would be a high day likewise. Robinson's arguments on this point are quite conclusive. Nothing can be made out of the expression against the position of the Synoptists.

McClellan discusses various other passages in John which show that the crucifixion occurred on Friday, and that this was the first day of the feast (John 18:39, 40; 19:31, 42; 20:1, 19, etc.). We conclude then that a fair interpretation of the passages alleged not only removes all contradiction between John and the Synoptists, but rather decidedly favors the view that they have the same date for the Passover meal, and that Jesus ate the Passover at the regular hour and was crucified on Friday, 15th Nisan.

It is reassuring to note that David Smith (_The Days of His Flesh_, Appendix VIII) reaches the same conclusion as that just stated. He makes it out that Jesus ate the regular Passover meal and was crucified on Friday 15th of Nisan and that the passages in John really agree with the Synoptic account.

12. The Hour of the Crucifixion

In John 19:14 it is stated that the time when Pilate sentenced Jesus to be crucified, or rather when he began the last trial in which he sentenced him, was about the sixth hour. We read, however, in Mark 15:25 that it was the third hour when Christ was crucified. The Synoptists all unite in saying that the darkness began at the sixth hour. The Jewish way of counting the hours was to divide the night and day into twelve divisions each, beginning at sunrise and sunset. The hours would thus vary in length with the time of year. Just after the vernal equinox the third hour of Mark would be about 9 A.M., and the sixth hour of the Synoptists would be about noon. The ninth hour, when Jesus gave his piteous cry to God (Mark 15:34), would be about 3 P.M. But how can the sixth hour of John, the time when Jesus was sentenced by Pilate, be reconciled to this schedule? A real difficulty is here presented, but by no means an insuperable one, as Alford and Meyer hold. Let us discuss some of the more usual explanations. Andrews and McClellan give quite a variety of suggested solutions.

1. Some hold that "sixth" in John is a textual error for "third." This could easily happen, since the gamma and the digamma of the Greek are very similar. Eusebius said that the accurate copies had it "third" in John. But the textual evidence is overwhelmingly against it, and, besides, the difficulty would not be removed. John is evidently speaking of the time at the last trial and Mark of the time after Jesus has been led out to the crucifixion. So nothing is gained by this hypothesis. We should still be confronted with the same difficulty. The change to _third_ in John was a mere stupid scribal correction.

2. Others would change the punctuation in John 19:14 so as to make "of the Passover" belong to "sixth hour," beginning from midnight. But there is no evidence that the Passover began with midnight. So Hofmann. This is very forced and unnatural.

3. Views that hinge on the word "preparation." Some would hold that John simply says that about noon the preparation time of the Passover begins. But Preparation here means Friday, and noon is not the hour needed to harmonize with Mark. Equally arbitrary is it to count six hours backward from noon so as to reach six o'clock.

Augustine suggested that the six hours are to be counted from 3 A.M. This would make 9 A.M., and would concur with the hour of Mark. But this is wholly arbitrary and unsatisfactory, and would not relieve the trouble.

4. Equally arbitrary is the solution that makes Mark refer to the hour of the sentence and John to the crucifixion, just the reverse of the Scripture account. Augustine also proposed that Jesus was crucified at the third hour by the tongues of the Jews, and at the sixth by the hands of the soldiers.

5. Others hold that Mark and John both speak in general terms. Hence the crucifixion may have taken place between 9 and 12 in the morning. Mark looks in one direction and John in the other without aiming at definiteness. The Jews, it is true, were not as exact in the use of expressions of time as we are to-day, but this solution hardly meets the requirements of the case. Mark puts his _third_ hour at the beginning of the crucifixion, and John his _sixth_ hour at the beginning of the last trial. This reconciliation does not reconcile.

6. The most satisfactory solution of the difficulty is to be found in the idea that John here uses the Roman computation of time, from midnight to noon and noon to midnight, just as we do now. Hence the sixth hour would be our six o'clock in the morning. If this hour was the beginning of the last trial of Jesus, we then have enough, but not too much, time for the completion of the trial, the carrying away of Jesus outside the city walls, together with the procuring of the crosses, etc. All the events, moreover, narrated by the Evangelists, could have occurred between dawn (John 18:27) and six or seven.

For a long time it was doubted whether the Romans ever used this method of computing time for civil days. Farrar vehemently opposes this idea. But Plutarch, Pliny, Aulus Gellius, and Macrobius expressly say that the Roman civil day was reckoned from midnight to midnight. So the question of fact may be considered as settled. The only remaining question is whether John used this mode of reckoning. Of course, the Romans had also the natural day and the natural night just as we do now. In favor of the idea that John uses the Roman way of counting the hours in the civil day, several things may be said.

_(a)_ He wrote the Gospel late in the century, probably in Asia Minor, long after the destruction of Jerusalem, when the Jewish method would not likely be preserved. Roman ideas were prevalent in Asia Minor. John evidently is not writing for the Jews primarily, since he constantly speaks of "the Jews" as outsiders. John is writing to be understood by the people, and this is the way it would be understood in Asia Minor.

_(b)_ All the passages in John, where the hour is mentioned, allow this computation. John 1:39 would be 10 A.M.; 4:6 f. would be 6 P.M., counting from noon also (as we do). This hour suits best the circumstances. In the evening the women would come to get water, Jesus would have time for his journey thither, and would be tired and hungry. In John 4:52 the hour would be 7 P.M. This hour likewise suits the circumstances better. John 11:9, Are there not twelve hours in the day? is not against this idea, since here obviously the natural day, as opposed to night, is meant. The Romans used both methods and so do we.

_(c)_ Moreover, one passage in John (20:19), when compared with Luke 24:29, 36, makes it necessary to understand that John used the Roman method in this instance. It was toward evening, and the day had declined, according to Luke, when Jesus and the disciples drew near to Emmaus. Here he ate supper and, "rising up that very hour," the disciples returned seven miles to Jerusalem and told these things to the eleven who were together. But while they were narrating these things Jesus appeared to them. Now John, in mentioning this very appearance of Jesus (20:19), says that it "was evening on _that day_, the first day of the week," _i.e._, evening of the day when Mary Magdalene had seen the Lord. But with the Jews the evening began the day. Hence John, here at least, is _bound_ to mean the Roman day. It was the evening of the same day in the morning of which Mary had seen Jesus. This appears conclusive. John did use the Roman method here, may have done so always, almost certainly did so in 19:14. Besides, as McClellan shows, the natural meaning of John's phrase is that it was the sixth hour of the Friday (Preparation) of the Passover. But we have just seen that John in 20:19 counts according to the Roman day. Hence the sixth hour of Friday would be six o'clock in the morning.

This is the only solution that really harmonizes John and Mark. The rest make the hours agree, but the hours bring together different events. This method harmonizes the whole narrative, and seems entirely probable, if we can assume that the Romans or Greeks employed hours in this sense, a point denied by Ramsay.

Sir W. M. Ramsay (_The Expositor_ for March, 1893, and Extra Volume, Hastings D. B.) contends that Mark and John are at variance, but that it is of small moment, since the ancients had little notion about hours. He seeks to show that the martyrdom of Polycarp and Pronius, usually relied on to prove that in Asia Minor the hours were counted from midnight, took place in the afternoon, instead of the morning, the usual time. Hence the eighth and tenth hours respectively would be 2 P.M. and 4 P.M. Ramsay argues that, when hours were counted, they were always counted from sunrise. He holds that John is more accurate about hours than Mark and that hence Mark is in error. He agrees that John "stood on the Roman plane" in the use of time, but denies that the sixth hour can be our 6 A.M. But the evidence is too uncertain for such a dogmatic position.

13. The Time of the Resurrection of Christ

1. Mark, Luke, and John say that the resurrection had taken place early on the first day of the week, _i.e._ early Sunday morning. Mark (16:9) says that Jesus, "having risen early, on the first day of the week, appeared, etc." The position of "early" is ambiguous in the Greek and the passage is disputed. Mark (16:2) states that it was very early on the first day of the week, the sun having risen, when the women came to the sepulchre. Luke (24:1) says that the women came to the tomb at early dawn on the first day of the week. John (20:1) says that Mary Magdalene came to the tomb in the morning on the first day of the week. So then, there is no doubt that these three Evangelists mean to say that Jesus rose very early on Sunday morning, and that shortly after that event came the two Marys and some other women to anoint his body with spices.

Much objection is made to some of the details in the accounts of Mark and John especially as being inconsistent. John (20:1) says that Mary comes while it is yet dark, while Mark says (16:2) that the sun was risen. But Mark also says in the same verse that it was very early, which would agree with John's statement that it was yet dark. Hence Mark's other statement, that the sun was risen, must be interpreted in the light of his own words. Two solutions can be offered.

_(a)_ We may suppose, as McClellan and others, that John's note of time refers to the starting from Bethany, while it was yet dark or very early (Mark). In a few minutes it would be early dawn (Luke), and by the time the women come to the tomb, the sun would be up. All this is entirely possible and looks even probable, for in the twilight of early dawn, the border line is very narrow between darkness and sunrise. A stiff morning walk would pass through all the stages. It all depends on where you take your stand in this fleeting interim. Mark covers both sides and so includes it all from the first glimmering light till the full light of day.

_(b)_ Or the expression, "the sun was risen" (aorist participle), may simply be a general expression applicable to the phenomena of sunrise. The first gleam of daylight comes from the rising sun, though not yet completely risen. Robinson gives several examples from the Septuagint, where the same phrase is used in the aorist tense in a general way for the dawning light of day (Judges 9:33; 2 Kings 3:22; Ps. 104:22). Either of these explanations is entirely possible and removes the difficulty.

2. But Matthew seems to put the resurrection on the evening after the Sabbath, our Saturday evening. He says (28:1), "But late on the Sabbath day, as it was dawning into the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to view the sepulchre." If this passage means that the visit was made at the end of the Sabbath day (evening) and after the resurrection of Jesus, then Matthew is in plain contradiction to the other Evangelists. Some have taken the position that Jesus rose at sunset on the Sabbath day, forgetting that Mark (16:9) says that he rose early in the morning. There are several ways of reconciling Matthew with the other gospels.

_(a)_ Greswell, Alford and others would translate "late on the Sabbath day" by "late in the week." The Greek word is the same in this verse for Sabbath and week. In both cases, therefore, the translation could be the same. But little sense would result from this translation. "Late in the week" and "dawning into the first day of the week" hardly fit well. By this explanation the latter expression is used for the first part of Sunday and the visit occurred in this dawning part of the day.

_(b)_ Others would translate "late on the Sabbath day" by "after the Sabbath day." Godet, Grimm and others contend that the Greek idiom could mean this, and the _Koine_ allows it (Robertson, _Grammar of the Greek New Testament_, pp. 645 f.). This rendering is possible, though the papyri have instances of "late on" for this preposition _(opse)_, and it is so translated by several English translators. Thus the Greek idiom allows either "late on" or "after."

_(c)_ Matthew does not clearly say that this visit was made after the resurrection of the Saviour although his words may mean that. Hence the words may have their natural meaning as sustained by the papyri. Late on the Sabbath day, about sundown say, the two Marys go to view the sepulchre (Matt. 28:1), having rested through the day (Luke 23:56). The women who had come with Jesus from Galilee had gone thither on Friday, after his burial, to see where he was laid and had prepared spices. If they went at nightfall at the close of the Sabbath (Matt. 28:1) "to see the sepulchre," they could have bought spices after sundown (Mark 16:1). Then (Mark 16:2) in the early morning, they rose and took the spices and went to anoint his body. It was then that they saw the angel (Matt. 28:5). Matthew does not say that in the visit of 28:1 the angel appeared to them. He speaks of the earthquake having come, and the resurrection, and then resumes. This view gains some support from the use of the same Greek word in Luke 23:54, "And it was the day of the Preparation (Friday) and the Sabbath drew on (was dawning)." Here the meaning seems to be that the Sabbath _dawned_ at the close of the day. So Westcott, McClellan and others. However it may be about the visit of the women in Matt. 28:1, Matthew certainly does not mean to say that Jesus rose at sunset on the Sabbath. The whole course of his narrative in the rest of the chapter shows that it was the morning of Sunday when the angel appeared. While (Matt. 28:11) the women went to the disciples, the soldiers ran to the chief priests (Matt. 28:13) and said that the disciples came by _night_ and stole him while they slept, clearly implying that it was now day. Hence Matthew does not teach that Jesus rose at sunset, but the reverse. Besides, Matthew expressly says that Jesus rose on the third day, which would not be true, if he rose on the Sabbath.

_(d)_ Sabbath day may be used of the day followed by the night, according to a possible understanding of the language. The Jews originally counted from evening to evening, but this custom did not prevail universally. Jonah (1:17) and Matthew (12:40) speak of three days and three nights, following the day by the night. Meyer, Morison, Clark and others hold this view, and it is possible, but certainly not so satisfactory as the view given under (c). At any rate, it remains clear that Matthew agrees with the other Evangelists in putting the resurrection of Jesus Sunday morning. The chief point of difficulty is Matthew's visit of the women in 28:1, whether this was in the evening before simply "to view the sepulchre," or in the morning to anoint the body of the Saviour. The condensed account of Matthew leaves this question unsettled, and there we too shall have to leave it. And this last matter does not affect the question as to the time of the Lord's resurrection, but only the number of the visits made by the women.

14. The Length of Our Lord's Stay in the Tomb

Quite an effort is made in some quarters to show that Jesus remained in the tomb seventy-two hours, three full days and nights. The effort seems due to a desire to give full value to the expression "three days" and to vindicate scripture. But a minutely literal interpretation of this phrase makes "on the third day" flatly erroneous. A good deal of labor has been expended in the impossible attempt to make three and four equal to each other. There are three sets of expressions used about the matter, besides the express statements of the Gospels about the days of the crucifixion and resurrection. Let us examine these lines of evidence.

1. Luke settles the matter pointedly by mentioning all the time between the crucifixion and the resurrection (Luke 23:50-24:3). The burial took place Friday afternoon just before the Sabbath drew on (Luke 23:54). The women rested on the Sabbath (Saturday) (Luke 23:56), and went to the sepulchre early Sunday morning, the first day of the week (Luke 24:1). There is no escaping this piece of chronology.

This is all the time there was between the two events. Jesus then lay in the tomb from late in the afternoon of Friday till early Sunday morning. The other Gospels agree with this reckoning of the time, as we have already seen.

2. But how about the prediction of Jesus, repeatedly made, and once illustrated by the case of Jonah, that he would rise after three days? Are two nights and a day and two pieces of days three days? Let us see.

_(a)_ The well-known custom of the Jews was to count a part of a day as a whole day of twenty-four hours. Hence a part of a day or night would be counted as a whole day, the term day obviously having two senses, as night and day, or day contrasted with night. So then the part of Friday would count as one day, Saturday another, and the part of Sunday the third day. This method of reckoning gives no trouble to a Jew or to modern men, for that matter. In free vernacular we speak the same way today.

_(b)_ Besides, the phrase "on the third day" is obliged to mean that the resurrection took place on that day, for, if it occurred after the third day, it would be on the fourth day and not on the third. Now it so happens that this term "third day" is applied _seven_ times to the resurrection of Christ (Matt. 16:21; Matt. 17:23; Matt. 20:19; Luke 24:7, 21, 46; 1 Cor. 15:4). These numerous passages of Scripture, both prophecy and statement of history, agree with the record of the fact that Jesus did rise on the third day. (Luke 24:7.)

_(c)_ Moreover, the phrase "after three days" is used by the same writers (Matthew and Luke) in connection with the former one, "the third day," as meaning the same thing. Hence the definite and clear expressions must explain the one that is less so. The chief priests and Pharisees remember (Matt. 27:63) that Jesus said, after three days I rise again. Hence they urge Pilate to keep a guard over the tomb until the _third day_ (Matt. 27:64). This is their own interpretation of the Saviour's words. Besides, in parallel passages in the different Gospels, one will have one expression and another the other, naturally suggesting that they regarded them as equivalent. (Cf. Mark 8:31 with Matt. 16:21, Luke 9:22 with Mark 10:34.) On the third day cannot mean on the fourth day, while after three days can be used as meaning on the third day.

_(d)_ Matthew 12:40 is urged as conclusive the other way. But the "three days and three nights" may be nothing more than a longer way of saying three days, using day in its long sense. And we have already seen that the Jews counted any part of this full day (day and night) as a whole day (day and night). Hence this passage may mean nothing more than the common "after three days" above mentioned, and, like that expression, must be interpreted in accordance with the definite term "on the third day" and with the clear chronological data given by Luke and the rest. They seemed to be conscious of no discrepancy in these various expressions. Most likely they understood them as well as we do at any rate.

A LIST OF SOME UNCANONICAL SAYINGS OF JESUS

Some of the more important reported sayings of Christ are given which are not found in the Gospels or Acts; whether true words of the Master or not, it is not known. Some certainly are not like the Spirit of Christ, but it will be of service to the student to compare them with the genuine Words of Jesus in our Gospels. The Apocryphal Gospels are passed by as not worth using in this list.

1. The Logia of Jesus (Grenfell and Hunt):

Jesus saith: Except ye fast to the world, ye shall in no wise find the Kingdom of God; and except ye keep the Sabbath, ye shall not see the Father.

Jesus saith: I stood in the midst of the world, and in the flesh was I seen of them, and I found all men drunken, and none found I athirst among them, and my soul grieveth over the sons of men because they are blind in their heart.

Jesus saith: Wherever there are ... and there is one ... alone, I am with him. Raise the stone and there thou shalt find me, cleave the wood and there am I.

Jesus saith: A prophet is not acceptable in his own country, neither doth a physician work cures upon them that know him.

Jesus saith: A city built upon the top of a high hill and stablished, can neither fall nor be hid.

2. Readings found in Codex D.

One is concerning a man found working on the Sabbath, and comes after Luke 6:4: O man, if indeed thou knowest what thou doest, thou art blessed; but if thou knowest not, thou art cursed and art a transgressor of the law.

Likewise Codex D has, after Matt. 20:28: But you seek to increase from little, and from greater to be less.

3. Quotations found in various early Fathers.

From Barnabas: Let us resist all iniquity, and hold it in hatred. They who wish to see me and lay hold on my kingdom must receive me by affliction and suffering.

From Origen and others: Show yourselves tried money changers.

Ask great things, and the small shall be added to you; and ask heavenly things, and the earthly shall be added unto you.

He who is near me is near the fire: he who is far from me, is far from the kingdom.

For those that are sick I was sick, and for those that hunger, I suffered hunger, and for those that thirst, I suffered thirst.

From Clement of Rome (Ep. II.): Keep the flesh pure, and the seal unspotted.

When the two shall be one, and that which is without as that which is within, and the male with the female neither male nor female.

If ye kept not that which is small, who will give you that which is great? For I say unto you, that he that is faithful in very little is faithful also in much.

From Justin Martyr: In whatsoever I may find you, in this will I also judge you. Such as I may find thee, I will judge thee.

From Ignatius: Take hold, handle me, and see that I am not an incorporeal spirit.

From Clement of Alexandria: He that wonders shall reign, and he that reigns shall rest. Look with wonder at that which is before you. My mystery is for me and for the sons of my house.

From Papias: The days will come in which vines shall spring up, each having ten thousand stocks, and on each stock ten thousand branches, and on each branch ten thousand shoots, and on each shoot ten thousand bunches, and on each bunch ten thousand grapes, and each grape when pressed shall give five and twenty measures of wine. And when any saint shall have seized one bunch, another shall cry: I am a better bunch; take me; through me bless the Lord.

In general the Later Judean Ministry and the Perean Ministry, chiefly Luke's contribution to the Life of Christ, furnish many events and discourses similar to those described in the Galilean Ministry. Sections 102 to 127 furnish most of the so-called "doublets" or repeated sayings of Jesus or similar miracles. This is just what we should expect in a popular teacher who journeyed in different parts of the country. Some of these were real doublets, spoken by Jesus more than once. Others may be grouped by Luke in a different place. We have no way to decide the problem.
